Runoff election today, low turnout expected

BY KIM DROZE Staff Writer

Don't expect an overflowing turnout at Leon County's runott elections today

A special election was added to the ballot for circuit judge and two open county judge seats brought in 20 new candidates since the September primaries Because of this voters will probably be dissuaded from going to the polls, said Ion Sancho, Leon County supervisor of elections

In many cases voters see a lot of candidates who they don't know much intermation about, and they simply won't vote," Sancho said. "They may not go to the polls."

But Sancho said he doesn't think the 50-percent chance of rain and thunderstorms will play a role in the turnout. He still expects a turnout in the 20-

SG warns students of higher fines for parking

BY HERMIONE MALONE Flambeau Writer

Florida A&M University students can expect heftier prices if they want to park on campus and higher fines for breaking campus parking rules

FAMU's student government leaders attempted to inform students of these changes with a press conference Monday held in one of two new parking lots. But few students attended and no administrators were present.

We needed to let students know of these new rules going into effect," said Daryl Champion, SG's secretary of communication "As far as penalties, parking violations are going to be ticketed at a higher rate

ously $12.50 per academic year, are now $40 for commuters and $50 for campus residents

Many students said they feel the price hikes are completely out

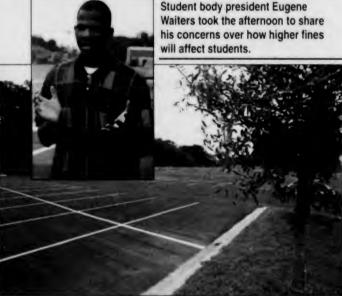

That's ridiculous," said J. Tittany Childs, a FAMU senior. "I'm not getting a parking decal because I m not on campus long enough to pay $40 "

But other students said the higher rate will help with the parking problems on campus

"We haven't had an increase in a while." Champion said "Administration is planning for a three-story parking garage. These funds are supposed to speed this process along "

FAMU sophomore Omar Kelly said he has no intentions of buying a decal and is doubtful of the construction of the parking garage "It would be worth it if I could see something being built," Kelly

Students who do not have a parking decal by Oct. 18 and are parked illegally will have their cars ticketed, towed or immobilized with a "boot," according to Champion

Al Hall, director of business and financial auxiliary services, did not attend the press conterence Monday and did not return calls after repeated efforts to contact him

But the administration wasn't alone in skipping out on the conference. About 10 students showed up.

"All of us who are driving know there's a problem, but there were ery few students there," Champion said. "It could ve been the time of day or the weather. But I can't say students weren't well informed

Today, take time for the poor kids, Chiles says

Today is Take Stock in Children

Gov Lawton Chiles proclaimed today as a day to help curb problems concerning the children of Florida

The two main problems, according to Chiles, is the state has the fifth highest school dropout rate in the country and nearly 40 percent of Horida's children are living in or near poverty

Take Stock is proud to be recognized as an effective solution to a serious problem facing every community in Florida," said Don Pemberton, president of Take Stock in Children Take Stock in Children Day is an excellent opportunity for Floridians to participate in an effort to make a difference in children's lives and in their community

The public will have a chance at the day's events to "participate in a child's lite by contributing to a child's local scholarship tund or by serving as a youth mentor.

Take Stock in Children provides college scholarships and mentors to Florida's low-income youth Children in the program sign a pertormance contract with their parents and their school. The children promise to stay oft drugs, stay in school and stay out of trouble

Each child has a personal mentor assigned to them to monitor their progress and help them reach their goals. If the children adhere to the criteria in the contract they are awarded with four years of college tuition paid by the Florida Prepaid College Program For information about sponsoring a child or becoming a mentor, please contact Take Stock in Children at 1-800-464-6675. Police investigate cop shooting

Last Friday night Oto Lawrence Revell of the Tallahassee Police Department shot and killed George Williams, a robbery suspect who also was wanted for six felonies

Two investigations are going on concerning the incident which occurred at Springfield Apartments complex, one by the TPD Criminal Investigations Division and another by TPD's Internal Attairs Unit, according to police spokesman Scott

Bill Bierbaum, a police homicide investigator, said Friday that Revell did not break the law by shooting Williams. According to the police report. Williams hit one officer with a stolen 1995 Suzuki Esteem by backing up into him He then appeared to be charging at Revell and one other officer

Congress scraped by with three major laws this year

BY ANDREW MOLLISON

Cox News Service

WASHINGTON — The 104th Congress — dominated by revolutionary House Republicans who didn't compromise with Democrats until the public rebelled after two government shutdowns — is grinding to a close after achieving three major reforms that portend permanent changes in the lives of poor Americans, farmers and everyone who depends on the communications industry

Republicans succeeded in pushing through dramatic, controversal revisions in a six-decade-old welfare system that has left one-third of the recipients mired in seemingly permanent poverty. Amid bipartisan cooperation, the Congress reduced equally long-lived systems of government intervention by completing long-pending overhauls of agriculture and telecommunications policy.

Those three items top the list of most potent accomplishments of the first. Republican-controlled. Congress since the Eisenhower administration, professional. Congresswatchers at Washington think tanks agreed.

Another new law gives presidents modified line-item veto powers tor eight years starting next landary. That too could be historic if future presidents use it vigorously.

Some sympathizers said that changes in health insurance and immigration laws should be added to any list of major accomplishments. However, those measures are less likely to linger in the history books, because the final versions were stitched together from the remnants of far more sweeping proposals that could not pass.

President Clinton on Saturday happily endorsed the package of one-year budget compromises that is allowing Congress to finish on schedule after missing last year's appropriation deadlines by nearly seven months. "Look what happens when you abandon extremism and work together," he said.

Outnumbered congressional Democrats had some consolation prizes. Their most unexpected triumph was to achieve a two-step increase in the minimum wage.

More importantly, after months of moping while Republicans pushed their "Contract with America" through preliminary stages of approval, Democrats eventually rallied behind their president

Solidly supporting Clinton's vetoes and veto threats, Democrats buried a massive Republican package of seven years of tax and spending cuts that would have eliminated whole departments, reinvented Medicare and Medicaid, softened environmental and safety regulations and given the 50 states less money than current laws provide for social service programs ranging from education to child nutrition.

"We reached very far and we got a great deal. We didn't get everything we wanted." House Speaker Newt. Gingrich, R-Ga., told reporters.

"The revolution that Republicans rushed in with essentially went nowhere," said Sarah Binder of the Brookings Institution, who blamed both factical errors and institutional realities.

"It's clear that Republicans overstepped what they perceived as a conservative mandate when they used controntional methods that could be said to shuft the government down," Binder said. "They also ran right into the traditional dynamics of the American political system (in which) compromise is needed to get anything through the Senate, where any lone senator has enormous power to slow things down."

Nevertheless, said Dave Mason of the Heritage Foundation. It's only because of the contrast to the huge enthusiasm with which they came in that people aren't saving. Wow look what they accomplished!

The potential for welfare reform to help or hurt poor families was debated endlessly in Washington Mason predicted equally weighty transformations among investors, workers and consumers in agriculture and telecommunications

"Farmers will be unleashed to grow what makes sense for them to grow. Mason said "In a lot of areas of the country today, grain is grown where the ecology and economies don't make that the best use For example, we can expect to see other crops come into the South to replace corn."

The results of looser regulation of communications will be just as big, if more unpredictable. Mason predicted

"A lot more companies will come into the marketplace and other services and combinations of service that simply were never offered before to many people," he said "A small example Five years from now, it might not be unusual to have the same personal telephone number to use at your home, at your office, in your car and maybe when you're on variation."

Toilet paper, 40 years, say what?

The streets of Miami will be tree of one more homeless person now that Dade Circuit Judge Liuren Levy Miller has sentenced Henry stepney 42 to 40 years in prison after convicting him of stealing 22

You heard right, 4 (years)

Granted Mr Stocky Fingers made the mistake of walking off with the high grade Celeste toilet paper tavored by the South Florida construction workers

Granted also Stepney had 51 pri-

Neither of these factors justify this diaconian sentence, but as long is repeat offender, have their conditional right against double jeopardy quashed then we can expect to see more of the same

Common sense and the U.S. Crossitution would torbid someone from being fried twice for the same crime. But that hasn't stopped Horida and other Amerikan states from sentencing three-timers and the like more heavily because of the previously committed crimes

Alas Stepney's prison spot should have been saved for a rapist or killer, not to this non-violent burglar who doubles as a drug addict

Every day that he is tree, this detendant is stealing from hard working people." Dade prosecutor Peter." I am the law." Walsh told. ludge Miller "We want mercy for the people of Florida"

Apparently Walsh and Miller got a tad frothy at their rabid mouths Otherwise they'd understand that the $50,000 or so it will cost to house Stepney in prison each year translates into a cool million or more by the time he has paid his debt to society, assuming he doesn't exit via the back door first

Indeed, this mindless, evil tendency to appeare the lowest-common-denominator thrills of the public promises not to end anytime

Achtung, baby

Keeping on top of all of the candidates and issues during this busy election season is not easy - hang in there.

Don't feel bad it you don't recognize all the names — even the Tallahassee Democrat got a little confused, endorsing a candidate for the state House District 7 race who did not make it into the runoff.

Please take the time to read back issues of local papers, then vote the best you can. You do not have to vote in every race that appears on the ballot, skip the races you are not sure about

FPIRG biased

I followed my normal routine on Wednes In I walked through the Union, bought a bagel and and district. A mupre wher we man. Unlike most Wedne days a mething octually caught my allention in the Un - I four hed my basel, yelled at the prescher and walked size to an odd bokma poster itim - Is like a Na i with a warning properly award the an incredibly good message for college turing. How tacas the picture was rencerred. The pritting of Gingrich was printed in a hypnotizing pattern. Lam 2010 and that LPIRC is trying to imply that Mi-Gingrich won? a people to be apathetic so he can roll over then.

I don't really care what people on this campus think of the Speaker What bothers me is that an agency that receives funding from students is taking side. I may very well identify myself as a moderate Republican, but I think I have a right to criticize I PIRG for its use of this

To put it simply FPIRG is taking sides. What would the impact be had the poster displayed the President in a similar tashion? Again, I don't want to tuen this into a partisan debate, but an agency like FPIRG must not take sides in this tashion

Lused to respect FPIRG. I remember the protests against Chevron in 1994

Untortunately my respect has been diminishing over the last two years. Last year I watched FPIRG protest. against pollution. I did find it odd that in order to protest pollution FPIRG decided to pollute campus with horritic

I might grant them the shock value, but I consider this university just as much mine as it is theirs. So I would ery much prefer to wander through the Union, eat my bagel, and get condemned to hell in a clean environment

Hopefully, FPIRG will continue its fine work to protect the air we breathe and the water we drink. They will unfortunately be doing it without my $3.50 next term

Don't be fooled

I just wanted to let everybody to know the truth about the upcoming elections this week. I have been a student at FSU for four years and have seen the same thing happen year in and year out

This new party. The Students. Union, that has come out is nothing more than Tribe re-born. I mean, look at the flyers that they have been putting all over campus. Does the vellow and black look tamiliar?

Also, that number that they have is the old Tribe hotline number, but now it is for the Students' Union party I mean, do these people think that the student body is stupid? Because we are not that naive to think that this new party is made up of new people

All you have to do is look at the make-up of the party. and all you see is Tribe. Tribe lost last spring for one major reason, and that is they only represent one aspect of the student body, the Greeks FSU is made up of over 29,000 students, and only 2,000 are Greek

All I am saying is don't be fooled to think that this new party is fighting for your rights - they are not. If you are not Greek then they do not care about who you are. I am not anti-Greek, but I feel that a new student government should be reflective of the student body, and this new party. The Students. Union, is not, unless you are white and in the Greek community

The Students Union equals Tribe, and never forget

Flambeau Writer

The Sierra Club Legal Detense Fund is waging a legal tight to event Coastal Petroleum Company from drilling for oil off of

The Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund, a national, non-profit law tirm, tiled the legal challenge on Aug. 30 on behalt of the Florida Wildlite Federation, the Florida Chapter of the Sierra Club and the Florida Audubon Society

The Defense Fund is seeking an administrative court order recommending denial of Coastal's requested permit

Costal Petroleum, in turn, has filed an appeal with the 1st District Court of Appeal to have the permit issued immediate-

Last month the state Department of Environmental Protection published an "Intent to Grant a Permit" to Coastal. The permit would be for one exploratory well some 10 miles south of St. George Island in Franklin County

We remain concerned about the potential environmental impact," Joy Mills, communications director for the DEP, said of the proposed drill on Tuesday

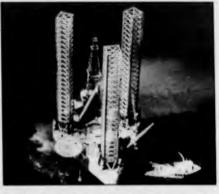

Environmental activists also expressed concern about the consequences of issuing the permit

"Our gulf coast chapters consider this the most important issue in the state," said Clay Henderson, president of the Florida Audubon Society

The roots of the drilling dispute date back to 1947 when Coastal purchased Arnold Expectations, which had an oil exploration contract and lease agreement with the state for $80,000 acres of submerged land in the Gulf of Mexico stretching from Apalachicola to Naples

Between 1947 and 1968, Coastal - along with The California Company and Mobil Oil Corporation — spent more than $16 million and drilled nine offshore wells. No oil was ever tound in 1990, Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet restricted oil.

In 1990, Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet restricted oil drilling off Florida's west coast.

drilling off Florida's west coast. Coastal then sued the state, contending that the restriction amounted to a taking of property without compensation

The Leon County Circuit Court ruled in August 1991 that it could not hear Coastal's lawsuit until the company had been ssued a permit. Coastal then filed a permit application for drilling oft St. George Island

The DEP initially denied the permit Coastal successfully ppealed to the 1st District Court of Appeals. In May 1995, Chiles and the Cabinet tried to require Coastal to post a bond for $500 million to cover the cost of any environmental damage caused by the drilling. The state then upped the bond to $1.9 billion in June 1995

The 1st DCA threw out the bond requirements in April 1996 holding that the bond impaired the lease agreement between the state and Coastal in violation of the state Constitution

The Florida Supreme Court declined to hear the state's appeal on the bond. The DEP then issued its "Intent to Grant a Permit' to Coastal

The state's been trying to delay this internally, said Coastal Petroleum President Phillip Ware. "We simply think it's time to issue the permit

The DEP's Mills said DEP had no legal options lett but to allow the permit to go forward

We have to evaluate (the drilling proposal) on existing laws. and right now the operation is permissible," she said

Mills added Florida law allows the Sierra Club and other aftected parties to challenge the issuance of the permit

But the groups seeking to block Coastal are not happy with the DFP's decision

We don't think the department should have issued it. said Manly Fuller, president of the Florida Wildlife Lederation

We're concerned that DLP has been so quick to issue an Intent." Henderson said. "We understand it was even hand. delivered to (Coastal)

David Guest, managing attorney for the Sierra Club Legal Detense Fund, said Coastal is simply trying to win a cash settlement from the state by threatening the state with environ mental danger - what Guest calls "greenmail"

This is Rip van Winkle coming to life to make money Guest said "There's no oil there

To back up his claim, Guest has a list of 44 instances between 1969 and 1972 where Coastal sold its mineral rights in locations that were environmentally sensitive, earning $169,434

 NATO. Redetining the mission of the Cold War alliance and possibly expanding its membership to include members of the old communist bloc.

One nagging problem. bringing countries of eastern Europe into the fold without stoking distrust and hostility in Russia

 Israel. Using the offices of the United States to get the Arab-Israeli peace process back on track following the worst West Bank violence in years.

 Iraq. Resuscitating the coalition that defeated Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein in the 1991 Gulf War but nearly tell apart when America launched cruise missiles against Iraq in September.

The challenge: keeping Saddam bottled up and weapons of mass destruction out of his hands

 Bosnia. Devising a workable existrategy so that American troops deployed there to oversee peace accords can be pulled out, as promised, without a return to ethnic civil war.

want people to realize that both research and teaching are important." The plan to reform tenure was formulated last year by a BOR committee on tenure with the help of state university provosts.

Now that the proposal has been approved, each university is responsible for designing a plan to implement it. The plan must be approved by the BOR before the new review process begins. But before any plan is implemented, the changes to tenure must be approved by the United Faculty of Florida said Dan Kimel, physics professor and president of FSU's UFF chapter.

The UFF reviews all changes to faculty labor contracts. Under the current contract, tenured faculty can only be dismissed tor incompetent behavior or misconduct, kinicl said

The new review system would require administrators to target teachers that need to improve performance. The teacher must then agree to a plan for improvement Failure to improve could result in a dismissal.

"Incompetence means something specific, and it's pretty well-defined," he said. "It's not missing some sort of performance target."

All state faculty members are currently reviewed every year by their peers, students and administrators. There is no need tor another review. Kimel said

"I think it's unnecessary because we already have an annual review which could take care of any problems of incompetence," he said. "It's not only redundant, but it's pretty burdensome."

While kimel said the new review system is "punitive," BOR Regent Uhltelder said it will have a positive impact on Florida's campuses

"I do believe that most people on campus are doing a very good job. Uhitelder said." Hopefully this system will be one that helps them get additional benefits.

The United Faculty of Florida begins the negotiation process for next year's contract within the next months, kimel said. The group can object to the BOR proposal after reviewing it he said.

I m not saving that the review process cannot be improved but this particular approach is too burden percent range, he said.

The low number of county wide elections will also result in a low-voter turnout, Sancho said

While the judicial races will appear on all ballots, not everyone can vote Registered Democrats can vote for congressional representatives, state representatives, two County Commission seats, superintendent of schools and two school board members, if the seats up for election are in the voter's district

Republicans can east votes in their races for congressional representatives and superintendent of schools, but again, only it the candidates are running for seats in those voter's districts

The winners of the runoff races will face off against primary election winners in the Nov-5 election

Iraditionally runoff elections show a lower turnout, but candidates said Monday that over the past month they have increased efforts to contact voters

Jane Sauls, candidate for County Commission Seat 2, said her campaign added radio advertisements and direct mail, concentrating on the voters who usually go to the polls

We felt like we needed to contact voters who were dedicated voters. the ones that get out and vote in both primaries, people who voted three out of four times in 1992 and 1994. she said. "We feel like those are the serious voters who vote the most Sauls's opponent, Sean Pittman, said he not only worked on showing gratitude to those who supported him in the primaries, but also targeted voters in the areas he did not have a strong amount of support in.

"I think we touched more people this time than in the primaries. Pittman said "We learned a lot so it helped us out in targeting our votes in the runoffs. "The primary election helped us learn where our strengths and weaknesses were "he added

The race for County Commission Seat I took an unexpected twist last Friday when candidate Curtis Richardson was stopped by police with a "known prostitute" in his car-

No formal charges have been filed against Richardson, who said the election will some down to which candidate the voters think will do the most effective job.

I still feel very confident we can win the election," Richardson said We campaigned very hard

"I think it's been a campaign run on background experience and issues that affect the district."

Opposing Richardson is Bill Proc tor, who said the incident with Richardson, if anything, will bring more people out to the polls.

"I think (voter turnout) will be a little better than expected," Proctor said "I think there are some emotions that people are going to respond to pertaining to events that occurred last week, which before had not been a factor.

'It's not going to hurt me," he

Sancho said that the number of those who go to the polls in November might be four to five times higher than those who cast ballots in the second primaries because it is a pres-

and was heavily advertised on the Set, he said

Another problem students are creating for themselves is not park ing in the new lots, preferring to risk ticketing and towing, Champion added

"Students are trying to stay as close to campus as possible he said. The parking lot at the corner of Wahnish and Camble has over 100 spaces. The lot on Martin Luther King has about 200 spaces. So we're talking about over 300 new spots that are not being used. Champion confirmed that SG is trying to solve some of these problems by working on getting a shuttle stop right across from the parking let-

We should get one in a few weeks he said. We've afready made the contacts.

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

IRONICALLY, THE TIME TO START SAVING FOR RETIREMENT IS WHEN IT LOOKS LIKE YOU CAN LEAST AFFORD IT.

an tathord to save for reprement? The truth is you can't afford not to Not when you realize that your retirement. can last 20 to 50 years or more. You'll want to live at least as comfortably then as you do now. And that takes planning

By starting to save now you can take advantage of tax deferral and give your money time to compound and grow Consider this Set aside just $100 each month beginning at age 30 and you can accumulate over $172,000° by the time you reach age 65. But want ten years and you'll have to budget $219 each month to reach the same goal

Even if you're not counting the years to retirement, you can count on TIAA-CREF to help you build the future you deserve with flexible retirement and tax-deferred annuity plans, a diverse portfoho of investment choices, and a record of personal service that spans 75 years

Over 18 milbon people in education and research put TIAA-CREF at the top of their list for retirement planning. Why not ion them?

Hostetler he's back, and the Raiders are 1-2 with him, losing to the Chargers (4-1), which was understandable, and the Bears (2-3). The Bears of all teams They may as well have lost to the Bucs or Jets. But don't despair people of New York and Tampa, the Black and Blue, oops. I mean, Black and Silver, come to town Oct 6 and Nov 10, respectively. And to think that yours truly actually picked Oakland for the Super Bowl - boy does that seem like a long time ago. Back to the point at hand Fact is, good teams find ways to win, and bad teams find ways to lose. Oakland has found a way to lose

Fact in five games, Oakland's heralded detense, with pro-bowlers Chester McGlockton Terry McDaniel Albert Lewis and Jerry Ball, high-priced free agents Lorenzo Lynch, Russell Maryland and Larry Brown. coached by well-known defensive genius Floyd Peters. has created just three turnovers all year intended for Tim Brown, which is excusable even if he had to torce the ball between defenders. The Raiders have not had more than one decent receiver on the same fram since Mervyn Fernandez, Willie Gault and Brown helped the then-Los Angeles Raiders to a 12.4 record and that was with Jay Schroeder as quarterback.

This week's excuse is bound to be about how starting running back Harvey Williams did not play and then Napoleon Kaufman went down too Don't bother. The best back on the team, Joe Aska, ran the ball admirably and could have run the clock out, if he had been allowed to carry the ball. Since when does a team start throwing the ball on third and short, late in the game, with a 17-16 lead that had once been 17-3. I-specially with Aska ripping through Chicago's defense for three possessions to set up short yardage situations, only to watch Hostetler throw incompletion after incompletion

And didn't head coach Mike White promise a return to the mad-bomber passing game? The Raiders have the tastest receivers in football. Use them. I counted one attempted deep pass.

The worst part is that the Bears did not even have starting QB Frik Kramer and Rashaan Salaam was running at halt speed. But 38-year old Dave Krieg lead Chicago up and down the field the second halt four times and all Mike White would do was stand by and watch. But why should that surprise anyone, that's all anyone for Oakland's been doing for five weeks now

Bull's Michael Jordon donates $1 million to UNC for institute

Cor News Service

ATLANTA - Iwelve years after leaving the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill to become the world's top earning professional athlete, bas ketball superstar Michael fordan returns to his alma mater. Juesday pledging $1 million to help troubled families birdan's gift will help establish the Institute for Lamilies at UNC's School of Social Work. It is the school's second major gift this year from an athletealimnus. San Francisco 49ers tackle Harris Barton, who starred at Atlanta's Dunwoody High School, has given $100,000 to the institute.

I think it would be hard to find two professional athletes who are better role models for the youth of America and the rest of us' said Richard Edwards, dean of UNC's School of Social Work

Jordan, 33, and Barton, 32, both have credited their success in part to then tamilies, and both have suffered recent tragedies involving their tamilies fordam's father James, was shot to death in 1993 as as he napped alongside U.S. 74 near Lumberton, N.C. Barton's father, Paul, died of brain cancer in 1994. The center - named the lordan Institute, after the family of the Chicago Bulls star - has secured about $2.9 million in pledges toward its $5 million goal. It will draw upon the expertise of UNC professors from many fields to tackly child abuse, teen pregnancy care of the elderly and other problems facing families

Jordan, his mother, Deloris, his sister, Roslyn, and brother Lairy will serve on the institute's policy advisory board. Failure this year, the family closed the Michael Jordan Coundation and said it would focus its charitable efforts on the James Tordan Boys and Girls Club in Chicago and the UNC institute

Keep student government fair

We are writing this letter to let you and your readers know it an important development in the unigoing stu dent government elections. While the Progressive Coaliton and the Students. Union are two very different student political parties, we do share some common beliefs The most basic is the idea that a student government dominated by any single party is inherently danger, us to the students of FSU and the democratic process. Our parties did not enter these elections with the intention of bee ming completely dominant in any way shape or form Rather we wanted to increase the number of options students had while simultaneously bringing in some of the real issues into the spotlight for action. Based on this common belief we have decided to endorse each other's candidates in today sirunoff elections. It is true that for individual candidates are offen on the opposite ends of the political spectrum, but those issues will be worked out where they should be - on the senate floor through the democratic prices

Many of us have worked together in senare during the past year and while we have often disagreed, sometimes bitterly, we have seen in each other a commitment to

Record number of Hispanics register to vote this year

BY BRUCE DAVIDSON San Antonio Express-News

SAN ANTONIO - Hispanic voter registration in Texas has increased more than expected - reaching a record 1.6 million, according to a nonpartisan Latinin group.

Lydia Camarillo, executive director of the San Antonio-based Southwest Voter Registration Education Project, said she was pleased that Latino registrations topped her organization's prediction

We had projected that it would go up from 1.2 million (in the 1992 presidential election) to 1.5 million, and people thought we were crazy " Camarillo said.

Registration drives by the voter project, the so-called "motor voter law and Democrat Victor Morales nomination for the U.S. Senate are among factors Camarillo cited to explain the 33 percent increase.

Camariflo said more than I million Hispanic Texans are likely to cast ballots in the November election, "guaranteeing one in every five votes will be a latino."

Secretary of State Tony Garza said he would have final registration numbers next week, following Sunday's deadline for registering to vote in the November election

On June 7, the Hispanic registration totals already had topped 1.5 million, according to state records. The overall registration totals had exceeded 9.8 million

"We re closing in very hard on 10 million." Garza said.

Mexican official says U.S. rhetoric hinders drug war

BY PHILIP TRUE

San Antonio Express-News

MENICO CITY — Anti-Mexico rhetoric heard along the campaign trail in the United States is harming the fight against drug smugglers and money laundering, an opposition congressional leader said here on Tuesday.

The illegal traffic in drugs and drug profits is international, and countries must work together to end it, said Ricardo Garcia Cervantes, delegation leader of the conservative National Action Party, or PAN, in the federal Chamber of Deputies.

"Tirst, we must recognize that the narcotics trade has no borders, that the coin of the realm is the U.S. dollar, and that narcotics organizations operate in both the United States and Mexico," Garcia said at a breakfast for foreign correspondents.

"But the anti-Mexico talk coming out of the current U.S. political climate does not ofter any opportunity for joint efforts," he said. "That antagonistic climate makes cooperation virtually impossible."

In a wide-ranging discussion, Garcia also touched on the party's prospects in upcoming elections in strife-ridden Guerrero state, condemned Mexico's newest group of armed insurrectionist, praised PAN attorney general Antonio Lozano Gracia and attacked the administration of President Ernesto Zedillo in which he serves.

The PAN has traditionally run behind the long-ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, and the left-ot-center Party of the Democratic Revolution, or PRD, in Guerrero, one of Mexico's poorest states.

Despite this year's much-ballyhooed electoral reforms, Garcia said, he sees little real prospect for advance.

The newly emerged Popular Revolutionary Army, or EPR, which carried out a series of attacks on targets in Guerrero and Oaxaca in late August, and which announced a cease fire while elections are held next Sunday, is an enemy of peaceful change, he said.

Pet care advice: threatening dogs is dumb behavior

The other day I saw a small dog escape from a house down the street. His owner stepped out of the house and bellowed loudly for the dog to get in here this instant or [1] paddle you good. It was pretty obvious what was going through the dog's mind at that point You II have to catch me first'

The next 15 minutes looked like a Laurel and Hardy movie as the dog placed keep away and the owner get angrier and more threatening Ultimately after the dog had en oved enough of the game, he till ked his tail and slinked toward home just ahead of his owner

Ot all the popular training mis tikes threatening a doc from a distance is the least productive for those of you who have yet to experience this process a word of warn ing - the tastest human can run bout 25 mph. Scientists study how gene may link obestity with depression

BY PHILIP COHEN

Copyright 1996 New Scientist

In Western culture, slim is in and tat is out, so it is no surprise that overweight people are often depressed

But American geneticists say that the link between obesity and psychological problems may be more direct They have found that a gene called Ob, which produces a hormone thought to play a key role in weight control has even stronger effects on

Last year a team led by lettrey Friedman of Rocketeller University in New York showed that a strain of overweight mice which produced little of the hormone leptin, shed tatwhen they were injected with the substance. This generated hopes that leptin injections could cure human obesits

But the human story is more . . . m plicated. Obese people tend to have too much leptin rather than too little and there is no strong link between shesity and mutations in Obgeneticist Pavid Comings of the City of Hope National Medical Center in Duarto Calif wondered whether some of the psychological problems known to fromble obese per ple could be traced to Ch. His team recruited and weights who filled out questions naires about their freight and weight psychological test to evaluate their

FSU volleyball drops another one

Florida State's losing streak was extended to eight matches by Auburn as the Lady Seminoles fell to the Lady Yigers in three games 15-3, 15-

FSU dropped to 3-11 on the while season Auburn improved to 11-4.

"I wish we would have started off with the intensity we had at the end," said senior captain Patty Daimond.

After falling behind quickly in the first two games, Florida State jumped out to a 7-0 lead in the third game before the Lady Tigers rallied to tie the game 8-8. Strong performances from Auburn's Emily Suter and Allyson Beecrofty gave the Lady Tigers the edge in the end 15-12.

"They are one of the strongest hitting teams we've seen this year," said FSU junior Christy Minko.

Florida State will return to Tallahassee for an Atlantic Coast Conference battle with Duke this Friday at 7 p.m. in Tully Gym.

Rest in peace

I just read a hand wringing, we're dead without lerry eulogy in hiras magazine which cals itself Idlahassee's entertament weekly. Fulogists are working hardto-make sure FSU administrators remember a tamouslocal human being whose death in Idlahassee has empted the spirit of an overworked English Department. Yet friends and journalists write aching praise about lerivStern as it no other professor in the English Department ever inspired a literature-crazy student or creative writer wannals. Isn't there at least one other English Department professor grad student who deserves the accolades and appliause given to lerry with the uncombed hair and sweet gooty gran?

Lattended ISU way back in 1970-1975 and their again in 1987-1988. Young Jerri Stern was my a ademle advisor for a year say in 1972. Call me shy pasty-taerd wanting my mommy numb middle class, and naive at the time, but as an advisor lerry seemed to pid. Laid-back and unassertive. Short a tew marbles and lowing it. No compliments, and no encouragement for me, the floundering linglish major. He was nice and talkative and quieth asked a lot of questions about what I wanted to do in lite but he appeared no more articulate imaginative, interested or caring than anyone clse. When I'd leave his office. Ed feel like cold unsalted mash potatoes.

However there were many teachers in the English Department Lenjoyed and who didn't make me teel like lettovers. Dr. Pugh and Dr. Flory two elder's gentlemen who taught American Lit and der v woman instructor who taught I uropean I it and who deman led I leave school for six months to recharge my brain - when she was fired for old-age, she sued für back wages, and won the prancing, hard bodied, popular prot with the smooth turtlenecks who taught Modern Culture in Popular American Lit and who was rumon dialso to have been fired the fall cene Count of Poets who taught Wordsworth Blake and Coleridge the diminutive grad student who pale and sulky told me my writing was good crough that it it took me ten times longer than any body else to write a well-composed paper I d have to accept that hardship and lastly Dr Sheila Jaylor who taught Feminine Lit and knew that what you learned in life as a woman in the 1970s was going to be more screwed up and beautiful than anything you read in lit Actually, I grow to like lerry Stern better when I was grandmotherly older and ill. His gooty halt solemn somewhat disheveled appearance was dramatic and humbly calming now. He had achieved adulation and was rapit and approachable. Having heard him on National Public Radio and at various pubs and town halls. Lunderstood how lerry soutreach into the local community and the world had made him FSUs (hier writing guru and literary politician But Jerry was only one among thousands of creative wiring instructors who pummel student, with the necessity for cutting rambling passages, carefully choosing words and metaphors, and concentrating arguments and fiction for fluid clarity. I believe his expertise among writing instructors is over rated. It was his persona as a celebrity professor that was charming and peculiarly his own.

When a lascinating public figure with a silver auradies, we worry about our future without him lerry Stemcan the cloned or copied to recreate for ourselves the bright almost spiritual aura of celebrity he made for himself. If the English Department needs to discover broader strategies for public relations, wider boundaries for categorizing literature, and a new revenge on bad writers it will. Although a major star has left us, the other stars, the stage hands, the supporting cast, and the band are still around. There have been, and always will be caring lively and intelligent instructors at ESU's English Department.

Show your spirit, Noles

Nov. 26: 1994 when losing to Florida by 28 points of their were the tans? Sept. 16: 1995, the Seminoles with their high scoring offense, had a comfortable lead over N.C. State at half time but had no tans. Sept. 28: 1996, the Seminoles had a 10-point lead as it started to rain, and the tans started to leave? What's caus in all this?

Some of the DIE HARD Seminole tans have been trying to find the answer to these and other questions over the past tew years. Why didn't Doak Campbell sell out on opening day 1996? Why did the Tennessee (Florida game draw 107,000 tans? Have the Seminole tans lost their pride? Why do thousands of students wear Seminole tothing and have no clue where Doak Campbell Stadium is? Fire example, on Parents Weekend 1996. Doak Campbell was sold out, but plenty of student tickets wen available. Maybe the tans are just spoiled. Maybe they are used to the blow outs and 11 straight bowl game wits. Maybe being ranked No. 4 or higher for at least eight years asn't good enough. Bowden has won 10 or won games for nine or 10 straight years. I guess that s'not enough to fill the sears'.

Numbers really aren't important, but supporting a name has been are not spoiled and who have definitely not less their pride. For example, at the Duke and North Carolina games tans were spotted painted up in Garnet and Gold colors and another select breed was spotted in Seminole construction hats. I would dare to say that these fains stayed for the entire game and long enough to see Bobby Bowden throw his hat up into their section of seats. Maybe that was his way of saying. "Thanks for your support"

Last year Lexperienced the loudest stadium, professional or college, but it wasn't in Tallahassee. It was in a fittle psedunk town called Cainesville! It's not supposed to be this way. All they have is a crybaby head coach another product of the system quarterback, and the only thing going.—Rick Hair! Why should they believe that they have the best taris and the loudest stadium? We have 50 years of a winning football tradition, and a NATION ALCHAMITON SHIP with another on the way. Let a make Bobby and Florida State proud and tinish the scales of the SHIMNOTE STYLE WOODE!

British Labor Party confident of victory

BLACKPOOL England Inspired by the promise from Tons Plair their young leader of an education-driven age of achievement for Britain, the Labor Party Thursday wound down its annual conference outwardly united and supremely confident of victory over the Conservatives in coming national elections

Make him prime minister, said Blair 43 in an impassioned address that commentators likened to American revivalist preaching, and Britain will be known not just for its castles, palaces and glorous history, but as the skill superpower of the world.

John Major, 53, has held the post since November 1990 and must call an election by May He addresses the Conservative annual conference next week in Bournemouth facing a stubborn 20-point lag behind Blair in pells and the likelihood that the uncharacteristically smoothly run Labor convention, which ends on Friday has made a favorable impression on voters.

Coming Full Circle

BY KELLY SHAW

Scott Bentley has seen it all. As an incoming freshman, he was supposed to be the great hope for Florida State's dismal kicking game. As a sophomore, he was demoted to second string kicker for a large part of the season. He was booed by his own fans during his junior year and now, as a senior co-cuptain, he is one of the best kicker in the country. But this time, he is mature, experienced, and prepared for the responsibility

"I've gone through some big changes over the past four years," he says. "I'm finally consistent. Some people are surprised, but I'm not. I know I'm just fine and I've been very happy with my performance so far this season."

Bentley has had to grow up much quicker than most other play-ers because of what was expected of him early on. "As a freshman, there was a lot of pressure for me to come in and fix all of FSU's kicking problems. I was a naive kid on the cover of Sports Illustrated with a lot to learn about the real world," he said. "It was a very tough time. I had to learn to keep fighting and not run off a very tough time. I had to learn to keep lighting and not run out the field with my tail between my legs."

It seems that all the pieces of the puzzle have finally come together for this 5-11, 205lb. native of Aurora, Colorado. With three games behind him in 1996, Bentley is 12 for 13 in extra point attempts and is a perfect six for six in field goals. He also leads the team in scoring with 30 points. Scott is now third on FSU's all time list of leading scoring. "My main goal is to help win another National Championship for the Seminoies," he says.

After his days as a Nole are over, Scott Bentley will be remem bered for two incredible plays. In 1993, during his first game against Clemson, Bentley preserved the shut out of the Tigers by

STUDENT PERSPECTIVE

Hey Offense, We Still Love You!

Maybe I'm too optimistic, but I'm not panicking. We are 3-0, and have the most devastating defense in the nation. We shut out the eleventh ranked team in the nation. Their quarterback felt the humiliating punishment of a sack eight times. When the Tar Heels tried to kick the ball, our special teams said "No soup for you!" What about our offense you, ask? Oh, Yee of little faith.

I remember a couple of years back when a certain Heisman trophy winner took the reigns of our offense from Casey Weldon. He didn't start off so hot either. Charile Ward had a knack for throwing interceptions in the early days. Look at him today, he's got a trophy, a ring, and is the best darned quarterback in New York (too bad for you Jets and Giants fans). Thad Busby needs time to get used to our new offense, and he has until October 12.

Our offense does not run an easy scheme. First our quarterback has to get the play from the sidelines, which sends it over in Chinese Morse code. Then, by chanting one of two thousand Gregorian Chants, he relays the assignments to the wide receivers. This is followed by saying a physics problem to the offensive line which they have to soive to get their blocking pattern. Finally, by signing with his hands different passages of the U. S. constitution, he relays the play to the running backs. And this is all just to down the bali. So naturally, it takes a couple of games to work out the kinks

We play Clemson this week, and barring any unforeseeable rip in the space-time continuum, we will win this game. So, our offense will have another week to sharpen its claws before we take on those detestable Hurricanes. And if they don't get their running down defensive back Brian Dawkins after his extra point attempt was blocked.

"The defense loved me that day."

Then later that season, Bentley hit a 22 yard field goal with 21 seconds left to give FSU an 18-16 victory of Nebraska and ultimately their first ever National Championship.

"That has to be the greatest thing I ever did on the field at Flori-da State," he said. "I was excited to come through for the team when they needed me "

When he's not on the field or in the classroom, the International Affairs major spends a large amount of his time working with children "I work at summer kicking camps and help the kids with their skills," he says "I really get a lot of satisfaction out of giving my time to them I don't believe I should be a role model, but I'm in a position to do a lot of good and I enjoy doing that "

It seems that this positive attitude was passed on to him by his father "My dad has been a great inspiration and friend to me," he said "He taught me that no matter how bad things get or how horrible it may seem, you can always rise above it I pass that on to the young people I work with "

With FSU's offense not living up to most expectations. Bentley knows his role is more important that ever. "We are really spoiled here at Florida State. Our offense is always tops, but this year it's just taking a little longer to work out the kinks. With players like Thad Busby, Warrick Dunn, Andre Cooper, and Walter Jones, we're going to keep improving. In the mean time act together? We still have the defense Have you seen the numbers these guys are putting up? In addition to the eight sacks, we blocked two punts and a field goal UNC only gained 187 yards against us. Remard Welson is now tied for first place on the F8U all time sack list with 25. A record which wont stand for very long because Peter Boulware a juntor, is third on the list with 23. They are gaing our offense a little breathing room. Now, its our furu.

I'll keep doing my best to help get

Let's support these guys unconditionally. If you see one of our offensive players, put them on the back. If you hear anyone criticizing our offense tell them to shut their pie holes. The offense isn't playing shiggishly to hirt the fans. They just aren't ready. This weekend, lets make sure all eight teen thousand student seats are filled More important, no one should leave before the end of the game, no matter what It was disheartening to see so may empty seats during the second half of last weeks game. It was only a little rain. This is football. Part of the fun is catching pneumonia from exposing yourself to the elements Also, every time our offense takes the field, let's stomp and scream see that the gods in Olympus will take notice of our warriors. Then we should rour "defense" so loudly that the foundations of the Universities of Florida and Miami rattle with fear

Our team will go off to Miami riding a wave of confidence and enthusasm. As our players endure the traints and threats of the Miami fains, they will have the memory of 70,000 screaming fains to fears them on their goal. The team will want to win for us, because we showed them that we care about them. Let's prove to our Seminoles that the UNI game was a flinke and that we aren't fair weather fains to Noles?

McNown knows no revenge

c 1996 Los Angeles Daily News

LOS ANGÉLES — ÚCLA quarterback Cade McNown spent his senior year of high school in West Linn. Ore, a Portland suburb not too far from Eugene, where the Bruins play Saturday night

But this is not a revenge game for McNown. He claims no ill will toward Oregon for its tepid recruit ment of him

He denies any urge to show the Ducks why they should have signed him. Instead, he wants to show UCLA why it did.

There's nothing underlying about this game he said. The not trying to prove anything. I'm just going to play the game and its to move the ball. I'm not going to play out of myself to impress anybody.

McNown was guilty of forcing passes at Michigan, resulting in three interceptions and the second worst game of his career. He says Washington last year was the worst.

McNown has completed 52 per cent of his passes this season, with one touchdown and three interceptions

He is not ranked among the Pacific:10's top-10 QBs. Indeed McNown has much to prove—to his own team

"Michigan) was the third game of his sophomore year." UCLA coach Bob Toledo said. We expect so much of Cade that sometimes it's not realistic."

But McNown's performance is so crucial to UCLA's success that Toledo named him one of three captains for Saturday's game Guard Andy Meyers and linebacker Phillip Ward are the others

Cade is our quarterback and I want him to know it. Toledo and "He needs to perform well at home."

shows no charges of prostitution was based almost totally on several anonymous sources from the Fallahassee Police Department, And it ran, counter to the Shaw Doctrine three days before the scheduled election. Neither Richardson or the known prostitute" without a record-ot-prostitution were charged with even loitering or jaywalking

This story raises the question posed by the little old lady from those old Wendy's commercials Where's the Beet?'

Unfortunately for Richardson, as far as beet goes, there was only some beet in this sorgy story sand with Richardson could be innocent except for working too late on his campaign or for giving a desperate looking young woman a ridemaking a pit stop with Ms. Hener to his office. Once the Demis rat learned Richardson had been stopped and that an official police report of the incident existed, the paper would have been hard pressed to ignore it. The question is one of timing. Let me climbout on a limb here and say that in light of the flimsy documentation for the allegations and the fact that not one of the sources would go on the record and in light of the Shaw Doctrine the story probably should have run after the election

Couple the Shaw Doctrine with the American legal doctrine of Innocent until proven guilty and the weight comes down heavily on giving the accused - and accused by anonymous sources the tem porary benefit of the doubt

At the very least, the Day out should have shown some consistent cy with past stated policy 10 it o assuming the Shaw Doctone bash t been declared inoperative without DOUGLE

No matter when this story ran it would have been a more interesting and untitillating of a tale it emphasis was placed on the meatier aspect of the story. That is that these anonymous sources were telling the paper that higher-ups at 1PD ordered them to suppress facts and tudge the police report on the merdent to protect Richardson.

The Unarrest

The anonymous sources quoted claim that our well known printtute, without a record not only confessed to having sex with the candi date but that she also possessed a crack pipe. The anonymous sources also have Richardson admitting sex but for helping with the camany of this and none of this hears as appears in the official report

Ms. Hener remains a hooker without a booker. And the story comes down to Richardson's word against several anonymous sources Which is why the timing question aside this is a story that cries tor a tollow-up. Did the story hurt Richardson' Arguably it didn't. In light of the fact that the Dominial suttered much ridicule on the home trent as well as in the pages of the Wall Street Journal for endorsing another candidate who just hap pened not to be in the race perhaps more than he did

Johns Beware

Another Democrat policy which seems to have shanged is publish our little Mixberry about three year ago the paper innounced it would not publish the names of unundicted Johns who e names appeared in the ledger of the Madame Crystal the proprietor

Perhaps such as the Shaw Doc trine this one to has gone by the 15 M state

The Fleshtones bring garage rock out into the open

BY AMREKLIMCHAK

Staff Writer

The Fleshtones and the Double Deckers share a com-

They aim to have turn and they play music that's bound to bring even the most re-uctant crowd around to their way of thinking

Beyond that the Fleshtones who are twenty year veterans of garage rock and the Double Deckers, a local ska band that s still green with newness diverge But they I make you brook a sweat toroight at the Cow Haus it only you let yourselt get laught up it their energy

The Heshtones began their long journey to the heart of rock and roll with the riwest edges and the most potent torce in 1976 - New York With the Ramones and the New York Dolls as inspiration, the Fleshtones emerged as part of the 70s punk explosion

Over the years, the popularity of garage music has dapped down only to rose again. The Fleshtones have continued through it all and have helped shape a new found of devotees to the genre

There's certainly enough bands doing what we've been doing for a long time. Peter Zaremba, who uses his veice to prope the Fleshtones, music forward, said Tuesday Tots of bands have been influenced by us

Their live shows are the real ment of their music Anything and everything can happen as they roll

His idea of purity of sound is exactly what we need ed. Zaremba said. He helped us by not letting us do all the crazy side things we like to do. He would say You just can't have a million great ideas in one song

The Double Deckers began last October when three guys, who went to high school together in Del Ray Beach. but weren't great triends - came together for some ska-centered shenanigans in Tallahassec l'auf Fe dman was the tounder of the band with Jason Adams and Justin Zacks as the other core members. They switched around on instruments and finally decided that Feldman was best on guitar. Zacks should handle the keyboard and Adams would be responsible for laving down the tunk on the bass

Over the past year they we acquired four horn play ers with Soutt Brazzil and Tim Goodwin on trumpet. Bl. Gagliardi on sax and trombonist Lin McGee. They recruited Jared Weidenbaum to pound the drums for one sultry evening this summer and he's been a member

Although they do quite a bit of ska mixed with surt rock and tunk as Adams described it they are by no means imited to one sound. As is the case with many ska bands, they can move from ska core to traditional ska to Latin rhythms in the space of a few minutes

It all kind of blends in You can hear all of it if you listen Adams said Thurs day. Well have a break that sounds re al there we'll change it

Since their aren't ska band, as almost even type of music has been intermin eled with it the Double Deckers are looking to be a tirst in in their way They want to expand their shew with presterhous with more of that

President Bill Clinton's preparation paid off Sunday night during the first of three scheduled presidential debates with GOP challenger Bob Dole say local people interviewed after the debate

Clinton may have looked good but I think Dole may have had him on the ropes a few times. Glen Larhardit a Republican and English maier at Flonda State University said after the debate. The problem was that Deleneeded this debate to have any chance. And I don't think he took advantage of the opportunity.

With a lead of some 20 to 25 percentage points in the polls. Clinton tried to consince orders that they are better off new than they were four years ago. He rattled off a slew of statistics showing increases in the number of small business created during that time a lowered national debtmore abox and safer streets.

BY IASON NI SBALM

Special to the Flambeau

After reading the fascinating article by Christopher Haves regarding our president. Sick Willie "in the Sept. I" edition of the Flambeau, I couldn't resist responding. Putting aside the distortions and gross over simplifications contained in Mr. Haves, article I do agree with him on one issue. I too. hope all students think very carefully before casting their vote in 1996 Indeed I hope they think more carefully than Mr. Haves

For some reason, in the opening paragraphs of Mr. Haves, article he informs us that Bob Dole has visited Florida a lot lately I don't believe these risits should influence our vote much, even if Florida is a beloved state as Mr. Haves wrote. Hy has apparently tallen for Dole's strategy which is no doubt to convince us that he cares about Florida by coming here a lot. Who really cares? I'm more concerned about the issues, not the number of visits he whis wife have made to Florida.

Mr. Haves then asserts that the citizens of this country "feel that a scandal a week is better than a war here who wants to serve his country, one last time. There most pertainly has not been a scandal a week. What is Mr. Haves talking about' Whitewater' FBI tiles' It appears that certain White Flouse stations acted very inapprepriately in the case of the LBI files, but what other scandals are there' Senate I D'Amato's partisan campaign to discredit the Contons in the White water matter produced nothing and lasted longer than the set re Whitewater proceedings. Are there dozens of other scandals nevicting President Conton of some wrong doing that Mr. Hayes is hiding from us' I don't think so

Enough of this political crap let's talk about the real issues. People care about the concitty health-are education environment etc. The issues are what the election is about

Mr. Haves writes that the "true" king of bureaucraes in Washington is Sack Willie himse t. President Cinton has out the number of people implieved by the federal government by well over 272/00, the lowest since the Kimnedy administration. Compare that til the previous 12 years of conservative. Republican leadership which added 183-100 tederal employees to the payrolls of government. Moreover President Clinton and Vice President Can have already in a multi-field NN rederal government programs and 254 advison to min these and cut tederal spending by $255 billion in the first two bud. gets. Presidents Rilagan and Bush quadrupled the debt to $3 trillion in just 10 years. Is Critish the "bureaucracy king". Iry again, Mr. Haves, the numbers speak for them

At least Mr. Haves admits that Dole's ride ulous 15-per ent tax out benefits the nich much micro than the lower-class. The only thing is he calls it "great Ladamanth dissent. The theory that tax outs for the wealthy stimulates job gn with is saite debatable as is evident by the Reagan years, lob growth durng the Ringan and Built years in which taxes were cut immensely for the with was uguite untily lower than the Carter Librason. Kennedy and Nicon administrations of previous years. On seem Mr. Haves, tob growth under Religan and Bush was also much lower their under the Conton administration. We don't need tax cuts to? the wealthy to storulate the economy when duping the Common diministration almost 10 million who have been in sted gested Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein was also better oft now than he was before Clinton became president

Meeting in the season's tirst gen eral election presidential debate. Dole and Clinton stood at lecterns taking a live audience of about 1 00 people in historic Bushnell Memorial Hall Chinton who said early that he would retrain from personal attacks tried to strike a positive note by giving a glowing revitation of his accomplishments and portraving himself as a vigorous leader to take America into the 21st century. He hurled tacts and tigures at Dole - who lobbed a turns right back. Clinton sharply rebutted Deve s attack on the econe my saving unemployment is down and economic growth is up under his leadership. Then the president fired away at Dole saying that a Dole led GCH Congress blocked important initiatives and wanted to cut Medicarecuts in popular programs like Medicare

Clinton asked about Dole's change that he has not been telling the truth about the Republican plan-contimued his assault on Dole's Medicare

Since Sen. Dole has been a candidate, he has bragged about the fact that he voted against Medicare Clinton said the president said Dole's risky $550 billion tax scheme, would lead to turther cuts in Medicare Dole responded saving that although he voted against Medicare in 1965 he has supported the plan ever since and helped develop a plan to rescue Social Security

OND runott support is a result of increased student awareness. I think the runoff turned out the way it did because students did not want to see just one party in power Stemer said. Now there s not a one party bias in the senate.

Nick larosst ONLY chair said the results benefit both the students and senate. I think that three parties in senate cover a pretty broad base farossi said. They also get students out to vote

Along with the open senate seats students voted on tive amendments during the runott Each of the five amendments were passed with at least 25 percent of the vote according to Ken Pedraza 151 supervisor of elections

One amendment cuts the time the student body president has to sign a bill from 10 to the school days. Another amendment provides that the senate submit bills to the president within three school days to be signed

A third amendment simplifies

supreme court replacements to till vacancies during impeachment proceedings Now a presidential nounnation and senate confirmation is all a nonunce needs to till the seat

A tourth amendment provides for vacant union and recreation board seats to be determined by student government statutes instead of the previously required presidential nomination and two thirds senate confirmation. The last amendment provides for supreme court justices to be appointed by the student body president and continued by the still dent senate. It a vacancy opens upthe executive council of the student bar association shall submit three nominees. Clinton from page 4 and we have the lowest combined rate of unemployment and inflation is 2" years President Clinton also give tax cuts to more than 90 percent I small business owners these who rally do invest in our local enmontes.

As tar as Dole's tax cut goes to keep from running up the debt like Reagan and Bush did major slashes will have to be made in the tederal budget Do you know what will be slashed' Dole says it won't be defense Dole also says that although he won tout Medicare. Medicaid or said Security he'll significantly show the growth of them. In real peopic terms, this means he ll cut them

But that won't even come close to paying for the tax cut So he II have wout educational programs environmental protections research and President Gore have drastically development spending funding for the arts law entorcement and on and on and on (Sorry cutting well tare and starving children won t pay for the tax cut either) When it comes down to it well suffer profoundly it Dole gets this tax cut through except for the nch people. I guess at least until a revolt

Think about this for a second Let's say you receive a tederal Pell Crant Let's say you have a single mother who makes $25,000 a year to say Dole passes his tax citt saving her about $1.125. Unfortunately to pay for this tax cut he has to deny you a Pell Grant (which Dole revent ly voted to do in December) So you have $2.400 less to pay for college Good deal." Irv again Mr Haves

reduced the size and bureaucraey of the tederal government and will continue to do so in the next four years without compromising our dent Clinton proposes to provide educational tax credits for the economically challenged which will make the first two years of college tree for 6" percent of all students He proposes to increase Pell Crants 33 percent by 2002. Clinton expand. ed the Sate and Drug Free Schools program. He has signed the Brady law added 100 000 police officers to our streets cleaned up as many fox ic waste sites in three years as Reagan and Bush did in 12, cut taxes for 15 million working tamilies and raised the minimum wage against strong Republican opposition

Sorry Mr Haves your rhetoric about the glorious Republicans and the evil bureaucratic monster. Slick Willie doesn't fly

Lady Seminoles break out of ACC funk, dump Deacons

BY IULIE WAID

Hambeau Writer

somebody had to win this volley ball-match. With both the Wake Loret and Florida State teams winless a Atlantic Coast Conference play this figured to be a match decided by who would did not mind losing as much rather than who wanted to Sowhen the smoke cleared 151 had broken its nine match losing -mark by sailing past the Demon De teons in teur sets (10 15 15 9 15 1 15 91 Sunday before a crowd of Sat Jully Gym

The Deacons (9 s overall 0.4 in the ACC) looked strong in Game One leading the Lady Seminoles (4) 12 1 5) 640 at one point outside hitters Holly Scheider and La Iova Presberry tought back to narrow the gap - 10 A Wake Forest error tied the game at 10, but three FSL errors eventually won the set for Wake For est 10-15

At times in Came Two it seemed that nobody wanted to win, as the some field at two, three, four, eight and nine. All told, the teams combined to 45 errors but a Presberry kill touched off a hot streak for 151 Presberry lead all Lady Semmoles with 22 kills on the day

Seminole offense catches up to defense Rattlers outlast Hampton in 117 point overtime affair

Sports Editor

With three games under his belt Florida State starting quarterback Thad Bushy had looked less than

FSL (4-0 overall 4-0 in the Atlantic Coast Conterence) silenced the critics with a dominating oftensive performance over Clemson (2-3) 1-21 in a 34-3 win marked by the resurgence et one time Heisman trophy tore runner Warrick Dunn and the arrival of the next two-year starting auarterback tor the eminole-

"He locked great tonight said FSU offensive coordinator Mark Richt He looked ike the kid I ve been bragging about I can t think of one bad decioon he made

All told the 6-toot-3 220-lb junior tinished the game with a career high 304 yards passing converting on 16-ot-29 attempts including four plays that went for more ardage than his previous season long of 29 sants 3" mild" 511

Bushy completed tour touchdown passes to three different receivers while spreading the ball around the field to eacht different receivers in all

Dunn, though he carried the ball just tour times in the first 30 minutes finished the game with 133 yards in total

But the real story was once again the Seminole defense and special

UNSUNG HEROES of the Week

The obvious choice is FAMU sophomore place kicker Juan Toro from Miami American Senior High School and we agree. Toro had not attempted a field goal this season (in his collegiate career he was only two of three, both 28- yarders) but nailed three against Hampn in the record-tying game. His kicks of 21, 33 and 25 yards showed that he can get the job done for the Rattlers, but his extra point in the sixth overtime showed that he has the poise to handle pressure situations when the game is on the line. Congratulations, Juan!

Offensive coordinator Mark Richt decided to have FSU open the game with a four wide receiver set en lieu of starting a fullback or tight end. Featuring the passing game was a brave move considering the fact that his quarterback had passed for just 65 yards one week ago. In addition, the first three plays were all passes intended for sophomore Ron Dugans, who had just one catch going in to the game. Credit Richt for at least threatening the Clemson defense with someone other than the stars FSU boasts. That may have cleared up some room for E.G. Green to run through the secondary for two TDs.

Like the Energizer bunny Florida A&M (4-1, 2-0 in the Mid Fastern Athletic Conterence) kept going and going and going Saturday night at the circle City Classic in Indianapolis against Hampton which saw its record tall to 2-3 and 0-3 in the MEAC

The crowd of 62.03" in the RCA Dome certainly got their money's worth watching the two teams play tor almost five hours in an NCAA record breaking seven overtime periods before FAML kicker luan Toro booted the extra point that gave the Rattlers the 59-58 victors

Although FAML head coach Billy loc was happy with the win he was not thrilled with the game's length

I don't like that kind of excitement " he said. "I hope that never happens again in life."

Excitement was plentitul, as EAML rolled up 553 yards in total oftense including 276 yards from a rejuvenat ed rushing game that saw treshman Antoine Flowers carry the ball 19 times for 93 yards and a touchdown to lead the ground attack

Starting quarterback Oteman Sampson threw for 182 yards one touchdown and two interceptions. completing 14 of 21 passes before being replaced by back up Damian Slaughter late in the fourth quarter

Latinos bring some Hispanic flavor to Tallahassee

BY HILARY MOORE Flambeau Writer

This year's Hispanic Heritage Festival drew nearly 3,000 people to Tom Brown Park two weeks ago The testival has grown in the four years since it began as a small church social at St. Thomas More Co-Cathedral

Places like Gordo's (a Pensacola Street Cuban restaurant) are popping up, and it's starting to feel more like home here. Perez said. Stores. are starting to carry Hispanic groceries that weren't available five vears ago

Students have contributed to the growth of Hispanic culture here she

They bring things from hometheir own music their own food she said. And the rest of the community has responded to the growing Hispanic presence. Within the last five years Comeast Cable has added all Spanish Univision to its basic service, and local radio stations have begun to run public service announcements entirely in Spanish

In the religious community sultural growth has demanded more bilingual church services. The Good Shepherd Catholic Church on Thomasville Road has increased the trequency et its Spanish Masses from once to twice per month

Still in terms of Hispanic cultural establishment Mianu is miles ahead of fallahassee But local Hispanies do not seem discouraged. Among them. Where are you, Mr Campbell?

Larry Campbell, undersheriff of the Leen County Sheriff's Department (andidate for sheritf, why will toyou take part in a great American political tradition and debate your apponent?

The democracy of our great land is what makes us different than most countries throughout the world. It is the candidates for local and federal post tions that form the core of what our fore fathers envisioned when they wrote the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution.

Give student lobby group the heave-ho

Special to the Flambeau

The average student from FSU or FAML that's not affiliated with SGA wouldn't know what the Florida Student Association did, or even that it exists because group does very little on the two campuses

FSA is supposed to be a collective lobbying group that's supposed to look out for the best interests of all students attending Florida public universities

FAMU and FSU paid approximately $27,500 to the group last year. This is a lot of money to pay an organization to represent your views to state legislators, and not get any results.

FSA has failed all Florida universities because it failed to stop an increase in tuition. Bear in mind that all state universities pay an annual fee to FSA

The least FSA could do is post an itinerary of all its yearly meetings, and perhaps sponsor several students during each meeting.

When the students return from the Board of Regents meetings along with FSA they should give written reports to both the Flori au and the Famuan By taking

Talk about budget cuts, FSA should be the first one on the chopping block.

this measure, students will become more acquainted and can get more involved with ISA, and they will get to see their A&S fees at work

This is not the case. It's as it FSA and SGA have some type of covert agenda to attend and don't want the students to have privy to what they re doing

I'll tell you why they are so secretive. It's because students have been taken to the cleaners by previous SGA administrations when it comes to FSA and their meet ings. The last meeting Lattended with ESA was tutile, and nothing was accomplished except some of the SCA presidents and vice presidents sitting around lounging in plush hotels, eating full-course meals and getting mebriated. As far as I m concerned this is the last thing students need their A&S tees spent on. Talk about budget cuts. FSA should be the first one on the chopping block

Though Harry Browne wants in on debates, he agrees with commission

BY JOHN LINDENBERG

Special to the Hambeau

A federal court's decision not to force the Commission in Pre-idential Debates to include Ross Perof was painful but propos. I doctarian presidential candidate Harry Browne said last week—and is unlikely to be over turned by the U.S. Court of Appeals this week.

Browne made the comments despite the fact that his attempt to be included in the dichates was also rebutted by the commission and despite his prediction that the debates will be a big government love test—between July Clinton and Bols Dalle.

The court's decision was proper because the commission for all its links to the government funded Republican and Democratic parties is still a private non-prefit organization. Said Browne. It has the right to invite to its debates whomever it wants—or set whatever biased untair subjective criteria it chooses.

But said Browne. The decision was painful because the real losers are the voters who will get a plicity debate between Pole and Chinton two men who fundamentally agree that government should be huge and expensive. It will be a buy overnment love test massing rading as a debate.

sive. It will be a big-government love-test masquerading as a debate.

Browne said he hasn t changed his opinion that the commission made-bad decision by excluding him and Perot.

Yes, the Commission made the wreng decision, and demonstrated that it is only interested in serving the narrow interests of its Republican and Democratic bosses. The said. But no a lawsuit is not the solution.

In Perot's lawsuit—which will be heard in appeal on Thursday—the billionaire candidate argued that the Commission on Presidential Debates used subjective criteria for inclusion in the debates, while the Federal Flertion Commission mandates objective arteria.

That's another reason I didn't tile a lawsuit, said Browne. It would be hypocritical for a Libertarian to sue to enforce the laws of an agency we want to abolish. Through its regulations the LLC has stilled pellin also week and systematically suppressed the growth of third parties. Libertarians would never go to court to argue that LLC regulations need to be enforced more strictly.

Instead of filing lawsuits Browne, who said his campaign has challenged Perfot to one-on-one presidential debate, is examining several options to alternative, presidential debates, and will keep campaigning around the country, and reaching as many ofters as possible.

Besides said Browne. Suring the commission would only blur the primary message of my camping of the campaign is not about the debates of FEC regulations. Em mining for president to remaind voters that government doesn't work. It can talefixe the mail eartings if doesn't keep an attu-safe, it doesn't call us to our chordron't overrome of programs have taked. Democratic and Republic in polytocams have taked. Dole campaign huffs through New Jersey

MILLTOWN NT - Bob Dole burrowed a leat from his opponent's playbook by taking a bus tour Monday. traveling in New Jersey where he trails President Clinton in public opinion polls

Exuberant after his Sunday debate with President Clinton Dole touted his tax-cut plan and continued his assault on the president as a big spending liberal, who makes promises he down t keep

The Republican presidential nominee exuded contidence and looked relaxed. His voice was vigorous and his tone was sharp as he spoke to large crowds at two campaign rallies. He also stopped at the New Jersey Viet. nam Veteran's Memorial at Holmdel

Speaking at a local park here, his voice dripping with sarcasm. Dole ridiculed Clinton's credibility by claiming the president misled voters in 1992 when he promised to cut taxes. Dole claimed his opponent would mislead. them again it he wins reelection

On his tax theme. Dole noted that Republican Gov. Christic Todd Whitman had kept her campaign pledge to slash taxes. Dole said he himself has spent a litetime keeping my word - promising to get the tax cut enacted

As the crowd applauded. Dole said that once the Congress enacts his proposal for a 15 percent cut in taxes. T will come back here to sign the legislation

In addition to his proposal for a 15 percent across the board cut in personal income taxes, the Dole plan calls for a $500-per child tax credit and a reduction in the capitalgains tax rate from 28 percent to 14 percent.

Although Clinton won New Jersey in 1992, Republicans had carried the state in the six prior presidential elections. Whitman's pledge to reduce taxes by 30 percent. won her a come-trom-behind victory in 1943

New Jersey is considered a major political battleground because of its 15 electoral votes and because tax and weltare issues being debated nationally also loom large locally

This is Dole's second visit to the state since the Republican National Convention in August

After the two campaign appearances, Dole tlew to New York City for a fund raising event. On Tuesday Dole will attend four campaign rallies in the state before he returns to Washington

On Thursday and Friday Dole will resume his bus tour traveling in Ohio. He will be joined Thursday by running mate lack Kemp and retired Army Gen. Cohn.

Dole drew large enthusiastic crowds Monday here and in Toms River

In addition to talking taxes. Dole continued to hammer away with his them; that Clinton was a liberal.

Spend money spend money spend money. Dole

Dole's campaign chief: My man has 200 electoral votes in bag

TOMS RIVER, N.L.—The manager of Bob Dole's presidential campaign claimed Monday that the Republican presidential nominee has 200 of the 270 electoral votes needed to win the presidency in the bag

Campaign chief Scott Reed said Dole is targeting 29 states with about 320 electoral votes. Seventeen of them, he said, with the 200 votes, are in the bag, he said Reed listed the states tirmly in Dole's corner as Alabama, Arizona Idaho, Indiaria Kansas, Mississippi Nebraska Nevada North Carolina North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Wyoming He made the comments to reporters on a plane from Hartford, Conn., where Dole debated President Clinton Sunday night, to a rally in this town 45 miles north of Atlantic City

Reed also said COP internal polls show Dole trailing the president by 11 to 12 points nationally with wild swings in the states, over the last 10 days some independent national polls put Dole's gap at about 20 points

Of the next dozen states that Reed said Dole would focus on the campaign manager listed only the battleground states of Horida. Ohio. Michigan, and Illinois, which have so electoral votes among them

Reed said Dolchas to tight for Horida ordinarily a GOP state because Clinton's TV ads on Medicare have been very effective in painting us into a corner. But we're going to beat our way out of that corner

On Monday Reed disputed instant polls taken shortly after the Clinton Dole debate that showed the president's lead holding strong. You don't get a substantial bounce in one night. Reed said. You get a bounce as the week progresses. Anyone who did a poll after the debate that ended at 10 30 p.m. couldn't have been very scientific DUBLIN Ireland - Two explosions on a British Army base in Northern Ireland wounded at least 20 people Monday, further damaging the already floundering peace effort in the British province.

Officials, including Prime Minister John Major of Britain, said the political effect of the blasts, on the army headquarters at Lisburn. 10 miles south of Belfast, would depend on who was responsible for them

The officials said the explosions were apparently the work of a Republic can group, but not necessarily that of the Irish Republican Army. The IRA atter a 17-month cease-tire-resumed its violent campaign in February with a series of bomb attacks in England

But the overwhelmingly Roman Catholic IRA dedicated to torcing the British out of the predominantly Protestant province has not resumed its attacks in Northern Ireland, unless the blasts Monday prove to be the work of the IRA. It did not immediately claim responsibility nor did any of the Republican splinter groups

Campbell counts on experience

From Staff Reports

Undersheriff Larry Campbell, was won the Sept. 3 Democratic party primary election for sheriff has so far declined to debate his Republican rival fid DePuy.

And with the Next Sigeneral election around the cemer. Campbell, who received a backelor is degree in criminology gy from florida State-University, is content to let his record guide the voters when they hit the polls.

Campbell, who has been undersherrift of the Leon County Sherrift's Department for the past II years, is already the number two in command there.

And during that time the sherift's department has come under fire for abuses of the legal process including beatings of immates at the Leon County land cost red contessions of suspects in custody and excessive for a applied against inmates of the Leon County Bost Camp.

The longtime fallahassec native now 53 years old, has been in law enforcement for 37 years. In addition to his stirit at the sherift's department Campbell has worked for the FBI and the Horida Department of Law Enforcement.

A primary proponent of the boot camp. Campbell has not publicly commented on a report issued last summer by the state Department of Livenile fusities that found that shortfy deputies inflawfully abused inmates then fle has said that it any deputiv is found guilty of excessive or unnecessary force he would make sure they are disciplined properly.

Campbell says he will rely or his law entorcement experience to win over votels.

raise the standards of every law enforcement agency in the state

Domestic violence is not taken seriously enough at the sherift is department now. DePuis said—be wants to change that. Three years ago the Florida Legislature changed domestic violence laws to allow an efficier to arrest somebody at the senie of a violent domestic dispute whether or not the person violated winted to press charges.

That law has never been adhered to at the Leon County Sherift's Department according to DePuy

How many years does it take to comply with the law. DePuy asked. There say good old boy attrtade when it cornes to domestic mo-

Since allegations arose that there was aluse at the Leon County luve nile Boot Camp. Intto has changed there he said. Although the investigation is not complete. Deflux said he would like to change the current structure of the boot camp.

I do believe in the boot campbut I don't believe we are spending our dollars the best way we can be said. Tpropose we have a board of people from throughout the community to have input into what's going on there. Debuy added that he waited to enforce a one day boot amp for tij it line accessite offend ers instead of waiting until they have numerous arrests on their ris ords before something is done

And even though the public will not be able to hear DePuy and Campbell debate for more than a couple of minutes before the Nov 5 general election, because Campbell declined to participate. DePuy said he wants the public to know that there is one stark difference between the two candidates.

Campbell is always trying to impress people by saving how tough he is I'd DePuy is just as tough he said. But when I misher iff they wen't have to send in a adre of lawyers behind me to clean up the lassisits.

Nobel Prize awarded to two for research work in immunity

BY GINA KOLATA

New York Times News Service

The 1996 Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine was awarded Monday to two scientists who discovered how the immune system recognizes cells that are intected with viruses

The discovery by Dr. Peter C Doherty, the chairman of the depart ment of immunology at St. Jude's Medical Center in Memphis and Dr. Rolt M. Zinkernagel, the head of the Institute of Experimental Immunol ogy at the University of Zurich in Switzerland, cleared a path through the murky swamp of immunology and revealed a simple-elegant explanation for events that had seemed hopelessly complicated

The investigators discovered that white blood cells of the immune sys tem, whose job it is to hunt and kill. virus-intected cells, must recognize two signals before destroying a far get First, they must see a self-identifying tag, a molecule that tells the immune system that the infected cell is from the same individual. Second.

they must recognize a tragment of the intecting virus that a stricken cellwill display on its surface

The implications are immediate immunologists say By understand ing the fundamental nature of the immune response scientists can study ways both to tamp down excessive activity as occurs in autoimmune diseases like diabetes and rheumatoid arthritis, and to amplify the response as a new way of tighting diseases like cancer.

And the discovery helps scientists to understand the body's response to viral diseases including AID's since the white blood cells in question attempt to kill any cells intected with

The two scientists did their work more than 20 years ago. They and others say however that it took more than a decade for them to be proved correct beyond a doubt

Now victory is sweet

Doherty reached at his office, said his telephone had begun ringing at 4.30 in the morning with a call from the chairman of the Nobel committee. and that it had been ringing ever

Zinkernagel had apparently also received a deluge of telephone calls. Doherty said he had been unable to reach his colleague

Last day to register voters

BY ADAM MILLER

To all of the people who still haven't managed to get around to filling out that one-page form that entitles them to their inalienable right to vote, listen up. This is absolutely the last day to register to vote. Monday was originally scheduled to be the last day, but due to Tropical Storm Josephine and an executive order by Florida Gov. Lawton Chiles the deadline has been stretched to today.

This means that all registration forms must be completely filled out and turned into the elections supervisor's office, 301 S. Monroe St., before it closes at 5 p.m. If the form can't be turned in there, it must be postmarked today. There are 120 registration sites in Leon County. People can register anywhere from state agencies such as drivers license offices and public assistance departments to businesses such as Publix supermarkets and Barnett banks.

Seeking no truth aumning is all highting so grim so true so real

A Miami Herald reporter has been sentenced to jail for 70 days because he would not answer questions from prosecutors about a jail house interview he conducted with John Zile a suspected child killer

The reporter David Kidwell, should not serve the time or pay the Soult fine handed out by Circuit Court ludge Roger Colton of West Palm Beach

But alas, Kidwell will have to sutter because of Colton's flagrantly unconstitutional and unethical ruling on Monday

EDITORIAL

We have a tew choice words regarding the mane decision by Colton and the prosecutors who tried to torce kidwell to divulge contidential information about the interview and subsequent Herald story

Indeed we wonder what drives Colton and the prosecutors, who have proven with kidwell's jailing to be utterly incompetent members of the legal profession.

Were these slothful do-gooders snoozing their way through constitutional law class or what?

For their information, reporters have a job to do— and that is not to work on behalf of uninformed attorneys. But Colton and gang believe differently and apparently will sleep better at right knowing a reporter is in juil— a reporter who has nobly held fast against another mindless attack against journalists and the First Amendment.

Colton held Kidwell in contempt, basically because the state prosecutors—despite their relatively vast investigative resources couldn't get the information they wanted themselves. And if they can't dig up the drift they need against their man Zile, then tough for them. They shouldn't be allowed to bully around a member of another profession to get what they want.

Lawvers play a unique role in our society. No one else is allowed to do everything that they do But this closed-off club sometimes displays a tendency to rub non-lawvers the wrong way with a certain elitist attitude toward the rest of the world.

This elitism there strongest when lawyers abuse their function in applying the law in the pursuit of justice. This pursuit has long been warped by victous, retaliatory minded prosecutors with an axe to grind and political popularity to gain.

We we already seen how a self-serving government jails people for living their lives against the puritanical norm. Now with this particular jailing, the state has shown to what further depths it can plunge in reaching a sickeningly new nadir of morality.

lustice, lest it be forgot comes not only through the law, but through the attainment of truth via journalism, a profession that deserves every bit of the respect that lawyers too often believe remains in the domain of the courts.

MILLION MAN MARCH

A roundtable: taking the Million-Man message home

BY DARRELL DAWSEY

c 1996 Emerge Magazine

On a frigid winter evening in New York City five black men who attended the Million Man March last autumn convened once more to discuss the implications and atterettects and how this event continues to touch their lives.

Sharing in the discussion were

- Ovemola Akinwole 52 social worker journselor and protesser a so known as Ray McCall
- Martin B. Kelly, 53 one time urban planner now a real-estate developer.
- Djibril M. Toure. 23. teriant organister and musician.
 Lumumba Bandele. 24. programming coordinator for the Caribbean Cultural Center in New York and a black studies major at City College of New York DARRELL DAWSEY What inspired you to attend the march' Were you disappointed. Surprised. What did

AKINWOLL One thing that stands out in my nord is how Degan to think about it I was even going to go because initially I had some concerns

But I remembered that in the 60s, we had a saving. It you are not part of the solution, then you are a part of the problem. I didn't want to be part of the problem.

TOURE I was also one of those people who had a lot of reasons not to go initially. But toward the coming days of the event I think it was more the energy and expectancy that I was feeling from a list lit brothers who had planned on going.

BANDELE Lespected to be disappeanted when I went down there. Eddin tespect a million and a half men first of all. I never did expect that large a number of telks, and just to see that (so many people) were willing to take a trip outside their homes, it was definitely a charact your DAWSEY What are some of the impressions you developed about this march?

BANDELE On the way down there driving on 1.95, you could see who was headed to Washington. Brothers piled up in station wagons. Brothers piled up in pickups. Everybody was giving the salute. All right, all right.

AKINWOLF Part of the uplifting of emotions was sort of based on the fact that this was an image-building experience a positive image. We're bombarded with negative images of black men. It was a counterbalance to all the positive.

DAWSEY Where are we going in the aftermath of Oct. 163 What are you doing in terms of your personal lives or in terms of collective struggles.

BANDITE I was ted that whole thing about sisters you know that they are supposed to be in the kitchen sisters are going to be doing that supportive role period. So I think that me whole refecus is to deal with that with trying to see how I can appreciate women in different ways. I don't have to always love a woman as my

There are levels of love I don't think we really look at So I think it's a real self-analysis, a self-reflection kind of

DAWSEY Do you think the march is serving as almost a disciplining torce? As a touchstone? As a code of TOURF Because of communicating with brothers at the march. I started to realize that people are a list more open to ideas than I thought they were. Viole of times tilks who are political don't want to deal with tolks who are church oriented or church-based. We don't want to hear each other, but I teel like the great thing. I was that every aspect of our community was there.

Since the march in doing tenant organizing. I ve met several undividuals in my buildings who work with black men's organizations and church groups. I ve started to organize with them and speak at their events and try to tind ways for us to link up and talk alsout issues.

KILLY Since we've come back innered my sen's best triends purchased a heave this first leave and thin is just in example (of an effect of the near h).

Specificance a little but about non-estate live men-helping him in terms of getting the house ready trying up and so forth, to the extent that I in introducing him to black suppliers, black contractors—just running the whole thing down black accountants, everything to early able. Trying to keep the money in our community it's really a very beneficial very practical struggle.

Since I we been back, there also has been a greater commitment on behalf of myself to my tamily. My family is composed of my with I have three other children. One of my senses agoing through a difficult period now I had kind of left that to my wire and it was a burden. I we been very strong as the head of my tamily but I see my that I have to be more involved in that whole process.

DAWSEY Can we expect to see new levels of activism and leadership as a result of text. 162

BANDLEE Wife, a million and a half brothers at the match, every body understood from that point on. It is my re-passability to (d) what I have to do. It's my responsibility to start with some real page to all things.

You are very but he concerned about the health care of your family your extended family your community You are very much concerned about employment. You are very much concerned about education. You are very much concerned about housing. These are fundamental things that don't conterned each other.

I think when we get to idedlog ical things, then we begin to get twisted, fundamentally And wineed, to stay to used.

tocused KILLY When you do russ your consciousness then situations develop that present apportantities and support your new frame of nind Yau see things differently you approach things with more sensitival. I think there is time to grow as a result of doing this you like to see us as a people, as individuals, in the wake of the mes sages and mandates of the Million Man March?

BANDELL Impowered in a way where we are confident enough to make our own decisions to back them up with e-onomic power with spiritual, numerous kinds of power. I want to see us sufficient and self-reliant, clear as to our identity, where we have a __global understand ing of blackness.

AKINWOLT I want to see brothers relate to sisters up a more positive way and respectful way. I want to see our generation pass morals on to the next. I want to see our generation become more involved with the vounger generations and have a greater impact on the people who to

I want to see people take their business and their more yand spend it on black industry. So I want to see some consciousness in terms of how we spend our money and who we do business with KELLY I'm more of a personal responsibility sortest person. I think that each (it us has to really take a good lost at ourselves individually to see what we want individually.

Real losers of this year's presidential campaign - America's poor

Pacific News Service

Lorget gender gap politics. The stuming fact about this year selection campaign is that both Kepublicans, and Democrats have joined forces in making war on the poor That is the reason who both the well tare bill and the immigration bill the two most far reading anti-poor proposals in half a century—are now law with barely a ripple of profest from either parts.

Campaign seasons used to be tamous for producing deadlocks in Mushington as Democratis seram bled to tend off Republican efforts to help the rich and Republicans tought off Democratic efforts to help the poor Now those days are gone. And it's not the Republicans who have changed—it is the Democratic.

While launching rhetorical broadsides at Senator Dole and congressional Republicans, the real message of President Clinton and his campaign is that there are ne political differences between him and his Republican rival—other than age, health and style Each is out to prove he can be just as fough on immugrants, minorities and peor people as his rival.

Agreement on the poor robbed both parties, conventions of political debate. After all, what is to argue? Instead, the high priced corporate lobbyists got a chance to rub shoulders with those in power, or those who would replace them.

Today both candidates move smoothly from one lavish fundraiser to the next. In Silicon Valley, the president picked up half a million dollars in a single dinner from high tech corporate contributors who make the creation of an anti-timon environment a matter of principle. He lavishes these executives with praise for their technological innovation.

Clinton's criticism is reserved for those who can't attend or contribute Young people in minority communities become gang members whose activities must be controlled through curiew laws.

Mothers and children who need public assistance in small portions, rather than the massive corporate subsidies and tax breaks enjoyed by Clinton's dinner companions are depicted as a social problem. Clinton lectures them in a voice he would never use with an equal, dwelling on their need to reform themselves out of poverty.

For both parties, being poor has become a personal detect. Why not simply agree to a process for cutting off benefits, rather than a messy debate over trying to end poverty?

Waging war on the poor

At left are some of Tallahassee poor eating at the The Shelter on West Tennessee Street The irony of this year's election campaign is these and other poor people would have been far better off had it never taken place As both of the major political parties joined forces to pass the two most far-reaching anti-poor bills in 50 years, the poor have already emerged as this year's campaign loser. Pacific News Service's associate editor David Bacon writes about the bi-partisan attacks on immigrant and native-born poor.

e AND AND DESCRIPTION OF THE AMERICA

A smular consensus was reached on poor immigrants, the ideal scapegoal for voters fearful of losing their jobs and angry over paychecks that no longer pay the bills. These people work every day, as the Rey Jesse Jackson says, as seamstresses in sweatshops, room cleaners in hotels, strawberry pickers and low wage factory workers.

But today thanks to the minigration laws tew will be able to attend to petition for the husbands, wives or children left behind in their homelands. They will have to choose between permaminigration. Who gets picked mp? Men looking for a day y work on astroct corner. A tarm worker picking vegetables. Even children in poor neighborhoods who have lost any immunity as they play or walk home trom school.

As the new law doubles the size of the Border Patrol barro sweeps will become everyday events. Under the transparent rubric of a "pilot program" work documents will also be required paying the way for a national work ID Card. Under timented workers will continue to drive to work in their beat upcars, but the law will now prohibit them from having drivers.

licenses Far from using the campaign to resist the war on the poor Democrats in Congress are riding it for all its worth. Those who take solace in the hope that a new Democratic majority will indo the diaconian measures in both weltare and immigration retorm should consider the fact that more House Republicans (24) voted against it than House Democrats (13). It was the backing of a Democratic senator California's Drane Lemstein, that gave the immigration bill political legitimacy for other senate Democrats.

Five weeks before the election its already clear who the real losers in this year's presidential campaign are the poor. They would have been tar better off had the campaign never taken

DEA agent's decade long battle to expose CIA-Contra-crack story

Agents have been battling for a decade to expose the use of drug profits to finance covert operations.

Editor's note: For weeks the news media and politicians have treated a San Jose Mercury News series linking the CIA to drug smuggling by the Nicaraguan contras in U.S. inner cities as breaking news. In fact, a battery of liwe enforcement agents, Congressional investigators and investigative reporters have been battling to expose elements of the operation for years—to no avail, thanks to a massive government cover-up.

BY DENNIS BERNSTEIN AND ROBERT KNIGHT

Veteran Drug Enforcement Agent Celerino Castillo III says he never tigured his toughest anti-drug case would be against the federal government which employed him fur 15 years. Recently, flanked by civil rights leaders Dick Gregory and the Rev. Joseph Lowery, he staged a public protest at DEA headquarters in Washington to demand an official investigation into the government's clandestine "contra" policy which allegedly flooded America's predominantly black communities with crack cocaine during the 1980s.

This was hardly the first effort by the veteran DEA agent to expose the story. Along with numerous other law enforcement officials, congressional investigators and investigative reporters, Castillo has been battling for over a decade to expose the government's use of drug profits to finance covert operations against Nicaragua's Sandinista government

For Castillo, the big picture became clear around January 11, 1986 when he says he tried to alert then Vice-President George Bush at a U.S. embassy party in Guatemala. At the time Castillo was covering several Central American countries for the DEA. Convinced that "something funny" was going on at El Salvador's llopango military air base — later revealed to be a prime transshipment point for contra drugs, arms and money — he told Bush. "But he just shook my hand, smiled and walked away from inc," Castillo says, Bush met with both 1t. Oliver North, then the pint man at the National Security Council for sharing intelligence, transportation and military facilities with Central American drug dealers, and contra chief Adolto Calero.

In the ensuing months, Castillo meticulously gathered his own evidence. In a Feb. 14, 1989 memo to his Guatemala-based DEA supervisor, Castillo detailed how known traffickers with multiple DEA files used hangers controlled by North and the CIA at Ilopango and obtained U.S. visas, despite their background

"There is no doubt that they were running large quantities of cocaine in the U.S. to support the contras," Castillo told reporters in a 1991 interview on the eve of North's bid fur a senate seat in Virginia. "We saw the cocaine and we saw boxes till of money. We're talking about very large quantities of cocaine and millions of dollars."

John Parish & Polly Jean Harvey -Dance Hall at Louse Point (Island Records)

This little side project by PJ Harvey has the outward appearance of being a hopelessly bad vanity project You know projects that artists use their clout and power to push through despite not being wanted by the public for example, any solo projects by members of Guns N

But Dance Hall at Louse Point actually rises way above the usual narcissism involved in such records. It's an ambitious collection of arty experimental tolk-rock that could be a new direction in Harvey's career

A new injection of energy is just what Harvey needs. Although her debut album is a work of genius, her other two albums have been mediocre with flashes of greatness And her first vanity project 4 Ir = k D. m sounded like Harvey doing had Ioan Baez eovers

What makes the album work is Parish who produced Harvey's last when he's supposed to grind away, and his songwriting is top-notch Harvey is also in fine form, whether she's mumbling, moaning, or wailing She compliments Parish's music extremely well

Only on a few tracks do they falter, usually from too much pretension. One can't help but laugh at a song titled "Urn with Dead Flowers in a Drained Pool" and the cover of Peggy Lee's "Is That All There Is?" just goes too damn long for such lit-

Dance Hall at Louse Point is a rough gem, but a gem nonetheless And it could be the thing to help Harvey get out from mediocrity and back to the top

Eric Buscher Billy Bragg -William Bloke (Elektra Records)

You're a father now you see things in different ways for every parent will gain perspective on wilder days - so sings everyone's tavorite left wing British tolk singer Billy Bragg, on the first song of William Block. From Red to Blue

The lyrics are about the compromis es an aging left-winger with a wife and children makes as domestic life becomes the focus

Bragg has not put out a CD in a few years, choosing to focus on his wife and newborn child However. unlike the aforementioned character he sings about, Bragg has not lost his commitment to socialist causes, but looks closer to home for subject matter "I used to want to plant bombs on the last night of proms/but now you will find me in the bathroom with a baby in my arms "

Most of the songs on William Bloke have the same sparse feel as his earlier release Back To Basics with four of the 11 songs including only guitar and vocals or keyboard and vocals Bragg actually rocks out on two "Upfield " and "Goalhanger." using horns and a complete rhythm section to full effect. In the rest of the songs. Bragg makes restrained use of cello, mandolin, and organ, seeing they never get in the way of the lyrics which are always the centerpiece of any Billy Bragg album

That's where you'll find me, over the horizon (wading in the river look ing for that other shore. Bragg sings on Upheld Keep looking Billy, we are enjoying the search

Iravel On. Rider marks new territory for Scrawl, a long-time mainstay on the indie-rock circuit. Their major-label release shows that signing with the big boys has left them with their integrity and style intact

An almost all-girl group with deconstructionist pop leanings,

Scrawl's music is quiet and reflective, mellow if you will. Their songs break typical pop conventions with misshapen chords and wacky tunings (a given for most college rock bands nowadays). What sets them apart is their great use of harmony

Unfortunately, too much of the album seems bland and liteless Songs like "I'm not Stuck" and "Come Back Then" are pretty but need a shot of energy to keep them alive. On the flipside, when Scrawl. does 'rock out," they waste themselves trying to make if arty. "He Cleaned Up" tries so hard to make some kind of statement by repeat ing the same four lines over and over, faster and faster that it virtually deflates itself.

Introspection is tine and Scrawl

Oliver North's own notebooks are chock full of references to drug-related contra operations that clearly support Castillo's claims. On July 9, 1984. when the contras were desperate tor money. North wrote that he went and talked to (contra leader Federico) Vaughn, (who) wanted aircraft to go to Bolivia to pick up paste, wanted aircraft to pick up 1,500 kilos

Other evidence besides Castillo's reports has surfaced over the last decade that was routinely ignored or dismissed by responsible government

· An internal document of the House Committee on Narcotics uncovered Mattes recalls, was the Abuse and Control, dated June 25. 1986, and publicized in U.S. newspapers in March 1987, concluded that "a number of individuals who supported the contras (in both the U.S. and Central America) have suggested that cocaine is being smuggled in the U.S. through the same infrastructure which is procuring, storing and transporting weapons explosives, ammunition and military equipment for the contras from the United States

gence Report dated September 26. 1984 states that money to support contras being illegally trained in Florida 'comes from narcotics transactions." Every page of that document is stamped. "Record turnished." to George Kosinsky. FBI " Justice Department head Janet Reno, then Florida's chief prosecutor, apparently saw no reason to investigate turther

· In the spring of 1986, John Mattes, a tormer Miami-based Federal Public Detender, began working with Senator John Kerry's office to investigate the contra drug connection Mattes like Castillo, had sought without success to expose link between Horida contra training camps and drug trattickers

What we investigated and very intrastructure of the network that had the veil of national security protecting it, so that people could load cannons in broad daylight, in public airports, on Hights going to llopango Airport, where in tact the very same people were bringing narcotics back into the U.S. unimped-

Robert Pollard - Not In My Airforce (Matador Records)

Robert Pollard writes songs guided by the voices of rock that are himself to satisfy his soul. He perwhat we are so desperately lacking, and the perfect catchy tune these days someone who rocks and is not atraid to rock, to do jump kicks and wear striped pants and give us songs that satisfy our souls as well

Robert Pollard has been writing sones since he was eight years old. and writes about 5,000 a year His band Canded By Voices has been around for 10 years, only really getting a bit of the credit they deserve when Bee Thousand, an hour-long album of about 25 absolutely glistening jewels, came out in 1994

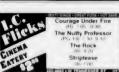

The songs Pollard writes are pertect things tiny fleeting moments of holmess. They are pure rock 'n' roll. nothing exactly new just something entirely Pollard's own, already nostalen and already classic Lyery song is a hit, every noise, every guitar hook necessary

brand new favorite companion. It you love the Beatles, you'll love this record It you hate the Beatles, you Il love this record - either way, Pollard's written more songs than Lennon, McCartney, Jagger, Richards, and Daltrey combined And he's not stopping now in his head. He writes songs for "Live it up before you pass away." he sings A drunken hero tor our times and torms live in order to give us kids all times to come. The perfect words

Another QB controversy brewing at FAMU

BY ED ESTES Staff Writer

The last Rattler quarterback to play a complete season in the orange and green was Tony Leell in 90 No QB has sur vived an entire year under head coach Bi-Is loc and this year may be no different

When replaced starter Ote. man Sampson in the tourth quarter during Saturday's marathon 59 55 victory over Hampton the reason was simple

I thought a ditter quarterback would give us a dit terent flaver loe

The seasoned senior stepped right in and stirred the potthrowing for 99 yards and two touch downs to the tourth quarter and six over times that tellowed completing 5-of fd passes as well as carrying the ball tive times ter 34 vards

Oteman is very intelligent and under stands what happened loc said. A hange was needed. Damian's perforfnance was (imply remarkable primarily because he doesn't get that many snaps in

Sampson the 6-toot 175 pound jumor transfer from Albany (CA) State has start ed every game so far this season completting 74 of 147 passes for 1070 yards and eight too hdowns. Sampson leads the team with the rushing touchdowns

But he has also thrown 12 inter eptions including nine in his past two games. In comparison. Slaughter has thrown only Is times, completing 10 for 146 yards with no interceptions and two touchdowns Carrying the holl he has 31 yards on 14 rushes and one touchdown

Last year the p-toot 200 pound senio was the starter in seven games for FAML passing for eight touchdowns and 940 vards while connecting on 72 of 152 pass es. He threw just two interceptions at one point going seven straight games without having a pass picked off. Slaughter also scored once on the ground in helping to lead the Rattlers to a 9-3 record and the Mid Lastern Athletic Conterence championship This week the FAMI coaching staff will be looking at Slaughter and Sampson for everall consistency at the quarterback position, thus sparking the tlames of controversy Both players will get an equal amount of time under center during the week's practices

While loc will wait to make it known who will get the nod. Saturday the indecision is not bad for FAML's week of preparation Lacing an undefeated and well-rested North Carolina &I team next FAML coaches are happy about giving the Aggres Bill Haves and his statt a tew headaches over which Rattler signal caller to prepare for Saturday afternoon MLAC contest

VOL. 82. NO. 37

City says plan targets 'chronic' problems

But local businesspeople question their new liability

BY JOHLARNOLD

Three strikes and they could be out Thanks to a recently enacted Tallahassee nuisance ordinance, landlords and business owners can be fined $500 or shut down by a citizen code-enforcement board for a year it police make three arrests on their premises in a sixmonth period.

Local businesspeople have expressed some reservations about the ordinance which took effect last week after being passed by the City Commission on Sept 25

City officials say the ordinance will help police cope with crime-plagued areas where the police are called out dozens of times. But some property owners think the city has gone too far by seeking to penalize them for the conduct of others.

Ben Isaacs, executive director of Capital City Apartment Association 'which boasts 70 members representing unnecessary

"Our concern is that there's already numerous other statutes on the books. Isaacs said Thursday

The ordinance gives the city's Code Enforcement Board - a sevenmember sitizen volunteer body that meets monthly - the power to sit as a Nuisance Abatement Board according to Brenda Janner, assistant director of neighborhood and community service, a division of the community municipal code board.

The nuisance board could fine tenants, landlords or business owners

Officials say the ordinance is another tool to combat chronic up to $500 or shut down the premises for "one year or at such other time as is stated in the order

Tanner said the board could not evict tenants directly. But she said landlords might be more apt to take action against their tenants it they were penalized for illegal conduct that takes place on their property

"If it was an issue that was an ongoing situation, tving up tlaw enforcement) man hours, the board could order a house closed where it couldn't be rented to anyone for a year she said. "We're going to start with who s creating the problem

Isaa, said he is worried about holding landlords liable for the conduct of their tenants.

What can a landlord do sometimes?" Isaacs said. We'd like to evict tenants who are nuisances. We can't always show they re a nuisance

Tanner said the ordinance is geared toward some 200 places in town to which she said the police are frequently called.

"We're seeking a process where we can tree up law entorcement," Ianner said. "If there are any student houses in this 200, I would be greatly." surprised."

City attorney Jim English said the ordinance builds upon a previous city ordinance that has been in effect for eight years and gives the city more flexibility in dealing with "real chronic problems."

"What it does is just provide you with another tool," English said, adding that the ordinance "is not real significant."

Secretary of State Christopher drops in, but African is unmoved

The New York Times

BAMAKO Mali - Since Secretary of State Warren Christopher arrived in this West Atrican country three days ago he has seemingly struggled at each public appearance. to crase the impression that this continent matters little to a Clinton administration preoccupied with problems elsewhere

Over and over Christopher the first US secretary of state to visit sub Saharan Africa in more than six years, spoke of his joy at being in the region and of his admiration for Mali a crushingly poor country that in recent years has improbably pulled off a peaceful transition to democracy

But as he moved from stops like a courtesy call on President Alpha-Oumar konare to a visit with Peace Corps volunteers in a dusty village just outside the capital. Christopher has instead been a reminder that an administration that pledged to pay greater attention to Atrica has arguably let the continent slip even farther off the radar screen of major toreign policy concerns

The French are constantly worrying that Washington wants to horn in on Atrica, which they virtually consider their property said an African diplomat who spoke on condition of anonymity

But Paris will not have anything to worry about for a long time. Say what you like about their policies but French leaders know their Atrican counterparts, names, and they sustain a dialogue with the

Caven perceptions like these officials traveling with Christopher have been at pains to say that the United States has not lessened its commitment to Africa, and have attributed minor missteps to the scarce time that Christopher had to prepare for his African visit because of a last minute trip to the Middle

With the exception of Ron Brown and his kind of advocacy work, they just seem to wander in from time to time and do these kind of ad hoc trips and efforts, said Walter Kansteiner a former National Security Council director for Africa under the Bush administration

What is more, many Africa experts say, the apparent political disengagement of Washington from African affairs under Clinton, and recent declines in US economic assistance to the continent, have worked in the tayor of a resurgence of undemocratic governments across the continent whose leaders have telt less pressure to respect human rights or allow fair elections

The political openings that we had after 1989 in Africa were very much connected to the end of the Cold War and to the fact that external powers, in the U.S. and in Europe were willing to encourage positive change said Richard Joseph, an Atrica specialist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Depth Overcomes Hurricane Mystique

BY ROBERT CIRAL

Now that the pre-season is over the #3 Seminoles can get down to business tomorrow afternoon when they travel to Miami to play the #18 Hurricanes in the Orange Bow at 3.30 p.m. on CBS. The Hurricanes. are the Semincles oldest rival, in this their 40th meeting between the two schools since the their first bout in 1951

Both teams enter the game undefeated bringing 4-0 records to this classic rivalry. And while previous match ups have been aerial displays of wonder Saturday's game will feature the No 1 and No 3 detenses in the country in Miami and Florida State, respectively

Last week, while the Hurricanes were relishing their bye before the perhaps the biggest game of their season, the Tribe was battling it out with the Clemson Tigers

The Semmoles racked up 453 yards of total offense, in a game which saw Florida State win 34-3 and a return to the offense of old Among the contributors were

THAD BUSBY who threw for 304 virds (259 in the first half) and count em ONE, TWO, THREE, FOUR TOUTHDOWN PASSES F.G. Green also had a spectacular day with five receptions for 156 vards and two touchdowns. Warrick Dunn had 135 all purpose varis 96 rushing 37 receiving)

Durn and Andre Cooper each caught a touchdown pass. Dee-Feaster rounded up the scoring with his second punt return for a touchdown this season. Dee Feaster rounded up the scoring with his second punt return for a touch down this season

So what does all of this mean" What this most certainly means is that we haven t begun to see what the offense is rapable of accomplishing. If Miami is a smart team. they should keep that in mind Seminoles however this it just another road game. It reads to be just another road game for the Tribe in order for them to over come the intangibles that surround this game the big one being 12 straight losse to Mann in the Orange Bow) Aside from the Grange Bowl, the Seminoles need to be concerned about a few things.

The Noles need to watch out for the infamous flanker screen which Miami loves to run against every body especially FSU This play is run stopping oriented haebacker-

It the FSU detense allows this play to occur with any regularity. Maami will enjoy some success offensively. Also keep an eve out for into Saturday's game. What post tion do they play Tight end. The only other scoring threat the Huiricanes have is their rinning attack. The Hurricane, will not be able to run on our defense end of

Capers Takes the Lead

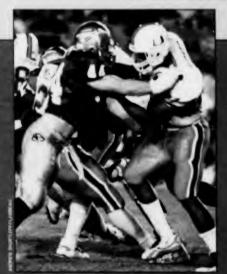

BY KELLY SHAW

The key to winning a National Championship falls to the strength of a team's defense. This year, Florida State has one of the most dominant defensive units in the country. One of those leading the attack is cornerback Byron Capers. Capers is one of FSU's four returning starters to the secondary. He is back for his senior year following a season in which he was seventh on the team in total tackles with 59 and ranked second in total tackles with 44. The secondary's most consistent player, Capers lead the team with eight passes broken up and earned second team All-ACC honors his first year in the number one position.

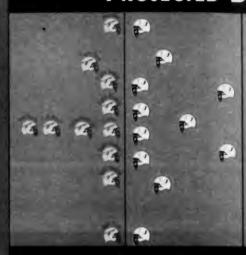

After four games in 1996, this native of Marietta, Georgia has recorded 11 total tackles, nine solo. He leads the team with four passes broken up and recovered a blocked punt for a touchdown versus North Carolina State. Capers is expected to compete for a place on the 1996 All-ACC team. In his first two seasons at FSU, the political science major played backup to two future NFL players. While in that position, he watched and learned what it took to be the best at his position.

Now, as the starter, coaches are impressed with Capers' leadership skills and strong work ethic. He has taken on the role of teacher for the younger players, just as Corey Fuller and All-American Clifton Abraham did for him. Along with a reputation as a punishing hitter, Byron Capers is known around the conference as a player with good size and great speed. He has demonstrated his speed time and again as a member of Florida State's All-American 4X100 relay team. He, along with fellow teammates Warrick Dunn and Phillip Riley, spent most of their off season time running track and increas

Hurricanes, Yuck!

BY JORGE PORRATA

Jimmy Johnson is my favorite NFL coach. I still root for Vinny Testaverede. I count Miami's loosing of the national championship to Penn State in 1986 as one of the great tragedies of my life. I can't help it, I grew up a Hurricanes fan.

From 1982 to 1989, I lived mainly in Coral Gables, Florida. My house was on Zoreta street, a block away from the University of Miami practice field. During my eight grade year, Vinny was my neighbor. In the afternoons, sometimes I would see Coach Johnson walking and run home to tell my brothers. The first college football game I went to was at the Orange Bowl. I am not alone. I have met many people here at FSU, including players, who grew up cheering for the 'Canes. However, I'll tell you what - I sure do hate them now.

My freshman year here at FSU was 1991-92 (leave me alone, I'm a double major). Like a lot of my friends from Miami, I was under the misguided impression that I could remain loyal to the Hurricanes and still be a Seminole. On the weekend of the Mlami vs. Florida State game, I hosted a party In my dorm room. My buddies and I watched the game, hooting and holering for FSU. Somewhere in the back of my mind though, I was thinking that if Miami won I would still be happy. Then we lost. All I could feel was despair and rage. I looked at the Miami players on the screen and felt something towards them I had never felt before, disgust. I couldn't stand to look at their tacky orange and green uniforms and that nasty bird anymore. On that day I learned that I bleed garnet and zold.

This weekend I am hosting another party for the UM · FSU

Miami passer ready for Seminoles

BY CHARLIE NOBLES

CURAL GABLES, Fla When Ryan Clement recalls his performance for the University of Miami last season in a 41-17 loss to Florida State, the quarterback describes it as "personally the most embarrassing day of my life, as a ballplay er and as a person

But it figured

Over the last decade, a University of Miami quarterback facing Florida State for the first time has had only modestly more success than a Florida State quarterback making his debut against Miami

Which is to say, very little First-time quarterbacks in this series between high-powered teams are a shaky 3-7. The last Seminole quarterback to win in his first start against Miami harks back to Peter Tem Willis in 1989

The last first-time Miami quar terback to do the same against Florida State Craig Erickson in

Yet the second time around quarterbacks in this series are an eve-catching 5-0

That seems to bode well for Clement, a junior whose counterpart when these 4 (t teams meet Saturday in the Orange Bowl Thad Bushy, a junior will be seeing the Hurricanes for the first time

The big thing about a Florida State Miami game Clement od i that it's usually played at warp speed. And with all out emotion

It's not really something that can be explained that much he said. You have to go through it to grow and learn and understand what it takes to win the tootball

Clement behaves he gets an car ly sample of precfootball when he meets Florida State

Turberculosis added to AIDS burden

BY ANDREW METZ Can News Service

BF11F G1 ADE When scien tists first proposed a return to this town that a decade ago became a bellwether for the spread of AID's in rural America, community leaders were wary quickly recalling how tearful travelers refused to stop for gas here and school teams boycotted local competitions.

But 10 years after a landmark government study of AIDS in Belle Glade brought isolation and embartassment the disease persists as does another scourge, tuberculosis

So amid rancor and distrust researchers are back with a new approach. They are asking the community to take the reins of a widened investigation into the interaction of AIDS 1B and a related discase called Mycobacterium Avium Complex that commonly afflicts AID's patients Community organiz ers have warmed to the idea. But, inthe past eight months, leaders have foundered as they have tried to rally support and convene an oversight board fighting over control and the lack of racial diversity

The future of the two-year study which experts say could help explain the causes of AIDS and IB and suggest possible prevention of the diseases - teeters in the balance

I don't know if we are actually oing to pull this off, said Dr. ledd Ellerbrock, the medical epidemiologist from the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, who with an infectious disease and my cobacteria specialist from Emory University, would lead the study 1 cannot go into that community without their approval.

What discovery?

Columbus Day along with the whole "Age of Discovery," is supposed to be observed today. But we will pass on that

Columbus Day should be equated to the Holocaust. So much of this day is spent focused on the conquests of Europeans that the culture of the conquered almost seems forgotten

There was no discovery. Whether you are talking about Columbus or Eric the Red they really did not discover anything. The very word discovery in Columbus time was used when one, through his own iron will-revealed the truth to those who were ignorant such as Gallileo proving the truth of the Copernican theory that our planets revolve around the sun

That was discovery

But in Columbus case - and this goes for all the conquistadors who tollowed - the truth was not revealed. The truth is that there were well-organized societies with religions and culture in this. New World before any European showed his armored head on the beach

Consider the Mayans, the Incas and the Aztecs. They weren't the mindless savages the European explorers led their people to believe. These Indians were experts in architecture, astrology and math. They had paved roads which rivaled those in Europe. They had complex sewer systems. They had a mastery of agriculture - with complex irrigation systems - which the Europeans had never seen

The people of the Americas were not simply animals who ran around wild and naked. They were scholars, doctors and scientists, whose war technology was not quite up with the Europeans

The indian cultures had a welfare system which Europeans could have learned from Many Indian governments provided tood and shelter for those unable to work because of a disability - that's a far cry from the way "treaks of nature" were being mistreated in the Old Country Those who could not work under the indian governments did not have to worry about feeding or housing their tamilies. As long as one worked, the government provided. It only citizens of the United States' citizens could feel so comfortable about their paychecks

Celebrating the new cultures which sprouted from the mixture of European and indian bloods should be the purpose of this day. Even though the Europeans tried to convert indigenous people to Christianity, there still are traces of indian religions in Christian ceremonies held today throughout Latin America

Above all, people should see Columbus Day as a day to recognize the sacritices made by many races of people - all of which contributed to America' diversity. The cultures and dynasties that were here before 1492 should stand as a tribute to all of us that consider everything we have here in this great country to be "self evident"

Hurricane unpreparedness

According to a lot of people I talked to on Monday Ckt " 1996 certain portions of Tallahassec's Disaster Preparedness Plan failed miserably. The governor and the president of FSU had sufficient notification of the oncoming Hurricane Josephine, to send state workers home at I p.m. But they didn't Businesses that kept employees at work until the last possible moment also tailed in basic ommon human decency. Instead, the state sent only the oastal workers home, making other employees stay until 4 p.m. It seems the administrative elite wanted their pound of flesh or to get every last cent of work out of their employees that they could greedily and avaricious-

This is outrageous behavior from government leaders who are in their position to serve the best interest of the people who elected them. Both state and business employees should have been let off early to be able to run their errands and go home to get their families and homes ready for the hurricane

Instead, after a full days work, people had to deal with rowded grocery stores, gas stations, roads, and highways. To add insult to injury, they had to drive in torrential rains and winds just to do their errands and go home. People during this type of erisis are worried anxious and impatient. These are ripe conditions for accidents which pull emergency personnel, such as police fire and ambulances away from where they need to be and force hem to struggle to navigate through overly crowded

In the past, because of the state government and FSUs retusal to let people go home at a decent time dur ing a hurricane. I ve had to travel, late at night, through horrendous rainstorms and winds so bud I was lucky it I could see two teet in tront of the car. My control of the steering wheel was constantly being challenged by gusts of wind, blinding sheets of rain, and deep, massive pud dies of water on the road.

I was also having to dodge flying branches tree limbs and different types of debris that easily could have turned into deadly flying projectiles. The whole trip my knuckles were white from painfully gripping the steering wheel. My desperate prayers to God. Christ and every saint I could drag from my memory banks was all that kept me company on that dark lonely highway leading to Lake Talguin

Hurricane Josephine didn't turn out to be a deadly storm. But it easily could have been. In the future, businesses, state and local governments should be more considerate and understanding of their employees, needs to be home sate and secure with their tamilies way before the onslaught of a storm

Mary Powell

Give us some flippin' parking

I have been diligently reading your paper every day an vaint in some silent hope one of your reporters would pick up on a story I teel is worth mentioning. At a time when there are more students on campus and, therefore more vehicles and people having to sit in traffic three hours to exit the parking garage still more student. W parking lots on campus are being closed!

I have been a student at FSU for two years now, and have basically always parked in the same lot (there are two side by side on Macomb between Park and College - by Potbelly s) as I'm an English major and this lot was the closest. W. lot to Williams I could find.

I parked there as recently as this summer and even the tirst two weeks of fall classes before I was rudely met with a 24-hour tow-away-zone sign and another stating both lots were now "privately owned." It wasn't until some time later signs were put up specifying the owners Sigma Chi fraternity. Now Task you how this can be possible. Did they already own the land or did they recently purchase? Parking lots that were once complete-Iv FULL now may contain 10-20 cars (and when I drive by around 6 30.7 a.m. these lots are almost completely empty which tells me these guys DO NOT live on cam-

Lask you is this fair to the rest of the student body? Why should they be exempt from having to get up two hours early and driving 80 mph just to get to campus to tind a decent park? Now where are English, music, foreign language and religion majors supposed to park?

The majority of parking around these buildings (Diftenbaugh, Williams, Dodd, Westcott) is meter parking. Are we expected to have to ALWAYS pay to park for the convenience of being near the buildings in which our classes are held?

Are we supposed to tight for a park on Woodward and walk back several blocks in the rain, wind, heat and cold' Is this blatant discrimination against students with these majors or merely an oversight on behalt of the park ing lot genie. I am ticked off, irked and puzzled by the whole affair I want answers! And I want a decent park!

PS Administration Don't bother checking my student records as you did to that poor chap earlier this year. You won't find anything"

The measure makes it a tederal crime to use it or other similar drugs to facilitate a violent crime It increases the penalty from 1 to 3 years in prison for simple possession of the drug, and it requires up to 20 years and up to a $1 million fine for possessing more than a gram of it with the intent to distrib ute it. In addition, it imposes a 20year penalty on anyone who give the it or similar drugs to people without their knowledge with the intent to commit a violent crime

Supporters of the law have said that a would-be rapist who drops a pill in a victim's drink to incapacitate her is just as bad as one who puts a knite to her throat

The tranquilizer is said to be at least 10 times more powerful than Valium and can cause victims to pass out and have little memory of what happens next Rep Patricia Schroeder D-Colo, has said the tactic is a major problem on college

The date-rape bill is particularly appealing to women, a constituency Clinton has constantly woord. Some polls show he is tayored by temale voters by a 2 to 1 margin over Dole

Boyd agreed that whether or not it creates jobs, cleaning up the environment should be done

Creating new jobs is an issue for the private sector. Boyd said Environmental programs should be installed if they can help

All three candidates agreed that the Endangered Species Act is still needed but Boyd and Sutton said it needs reterm since only a traction of the money set aside makes it to the organization

The current act is not working Sutton said 53 percent of the mon ey spent for the act goes to the lawyers. One and a halt billion dollars goes to our parks but only halt of that money is spent on the park itself while the other half is spent on administration

All three candidates were opposed to the one-cent sugar tax Boyd said he opposed it because the constitution is no place for a tax. Sutton said he would vote against it because he has promised not to create any new taxes it elected. Graham was opposed because there was no way to prevent the consumer from absorbing the cost through price

In regard to allowing companies to perform "environmental seltaudits, that would allow corporations secrees and immunity from penalties and liability all three candidates said the public has a right to know such information and that polluters should be responsible for clean up

Graham went so far as to say that self audits are ludicrous. He also added that companies have tar too much control of their environmental restrictions nov

Graham added many companies have the ability to sell their pollution rights to another company it not used or save them for the following year should their pollution produc tion increase. He said self-audits would lead to turther abuses similar to pollution rights

The public has a right to know Graham said. It a corporation with holds information from self-andits it should be considered obstruction of justice and someone needs to serve time in the pokey ease," said Linda Owens, research coordinator for the study in Talla-

Researchers are looking for people with Type For late non-set diabetes Owens said Type II diabetes patients are not dependent on insulin and the treatment would not help them

The insulin pill would not replace the need for injections, mere ly supplement them, Owens said Those who take injections will have to continue whether they use the pill

The program will include two classifications of patients. The first classification will be people who have been diagnosed with diabetes in the last two years, who do not take insulin and are able to control their diabetes through diet and exercise. A second classification will be people diagnosed and put on insulinin the last six weeks

Patients will be divided into three treatment groups. One group will take a placebo pill which contains no insulin. The other two treatment groups will take insulin pills with one of two dosages. Only the dispensing pharmacist will know who receives what

Owens described the insulin pill as an "allergy shot" whose purpose would be to block the production of antibodies that are destroying the Management of diabetes is so much more complicated when the body doesn't produce any insulin' Owens said. What we re hoping is it we can catch them early and keep them in the honeymoon stage

The study is being held nation wide in about 22 states including sites in Texas Georgia and Florida. and is paid for by money from a $31 million. National Institute of Health grant. The project has been under way for just three months now and is expected to last seven years the research is not limited to Deeb's office but includes four other Tallahassee doctors

Deeb said he is confident the insulin pill will be effective. "Preliminary data indicates it will but you never know until you do it in a randomized tashion. Deeb said

Panama, United States discuss creation of regional anti-drug hub

BY BOB DEANS

Con Veus Service

WASHINGTON — Pinamarian and U.S. officials looking to cotend the Armen, an inditiary presence in Panama into the next century have begin to rally around a common cause the drug war.

The Paraminian government has suggested using some US bases as the tore of a regional center for fighting Latin American drug fords, who will smugglor an estimated $25 billion worth of occarine into the United States this year.

The Clinten administration hasn't agreed to the proposal, but the Pentag, it at least is listening

"It is a very good, integril said Detense Secretary William Perry, who conted the Ander researt village of Bartholthe Argentinal last week to meet with his Latin American counterparts. "We are willing to work with them." Panama to convert that concept into a plan and, it the plan seems reasonable eventually into an implementation.

In a potential step terward, the White House last week named career diplomat John Negropointe to head U.S. efforts to explore a possible role for American troops in Panama after Dec 31, 1989.

That's the date by which the United States must return the Panama Canal to Panama and end a century of American military activity there under a 1977 treaty negotiated by President Immy Carter returned U.S. troop levels have declined to about 7.500 — down 40 percent trom 1994 figures — and the regional U.S. military headquarters and its staff of nearly 800 is packing up to move to new tachlites in Miami next summer.

The handover is moving torward. More than 1,000 military buildings and 22,000 acres of property — nearly a quarter of the Panamanian land controlled by U.S. troops — has been U.S. officials speak privately of post-1999 security concerns for the U.S.-built canal, a strategic choke point through which hundreds of billions of dollars worth of global cargo passes each year.

As the trisops leave however Panama is beginning to feel the loss from a presence that has pumped some $350 million a year into the tiny country $56.6 billion a year economy. At the same time U.S. officials speak privately of post 1959 security concerns for the U.S.-built canal. a strategic choke point through which hundreds of billions of dollars worth of global cargo passes each year.

In a White House visit last year. Panama's president. Ernesto Perez Ballodares, and President Clinton discussed the possibility of maintaining some U.S. troop presence in Panama beyond the end of 1999. Clinton added one caveat: the United States won't pay Panama to remain there.

We are interested in staying said the State Department's top Latin America hand assistant secretary lettrey Davidow

Our interest does not include paying any sort of rent

To get around that Balladares has since recommended setting up a multinational anti-narcotics center, with Howard Air Force Base at its core. Panama's contribution to the center would be to allow U.S. troops to remain, rent tree, at Howard to procide logistical intelligence and other support. Other countries in the region might contribute money, equipment and personnel.

The vision is a central post from which U.S. spy planes and radar could monitor Latin American drug operations and coor dinate interdiction efforts with regional governments.

The United States has operated similar functions for years out of Panama, which sits at the crossroads of Latin American drug shipments northward and has itself become a major narcotics transshipment point and money laundering base.

Combining sophisticated satellite imagery with airborne and ground-based radar U.S. torces in Panama can track some drug shipments and relay the information to domestic anti-drug units in Bolivia. Colombia. Peru. Mexico. Venezuela and other major producer and transit points across the region.

Even that has barely made a dent in cocaine shipments totalling some 300 tons a year into the United States though it has led to the seizure of thousands of pounds of cocaine annually and the apprehension, or death, of scores of drug smug glers.

It U.S. troops leave Panama. Much of what is done in Panama now particularly in terms of surveillance, would have to be done elsewhere, at a higher cost. Davidow explained in an interview.

He was a cute, harmless kid, but a kiss is not always just a kiss

BY JOHN LELAND Newsweek

The national media had largely pulled out of Lexington NC by the time leanie Buchanan squeezed her way into the middle school auditorium last Monday night

For locals like Buchanan, the damage was already done

Since Sept 19 when 6-year old Johnathan Prevette kissed a classmate and was disciplined for sexual harassment, the town had become an object of national dension, a case of political correctness run amok

It was an easy target. A cute kid had expressed some affection. What did that have to do with sex or harassment'

Support for Prevette poured in He tound a soulmate - and more media exposure - when 15 104 in Queens NY suspended 7 year-old De Andre Dearinge for kissing a classmate and pulling a button off her skirt (Both schools later decided the incidents did not constitute sexual harassment)

Over the weekend. Prevette rode on a float at a local car race, and walked off to exhortations of Kiss met kiss met trom grown women Travesty averted to the victim, the

Yet here in this small Southern town of 16,000 - hardly a launch pad for social revolution - there was still some sorting-out to do.

What behavior is appropriate for elementary-school kids and what for the administrators entrusted with their care? Buchanan and nearly 100 neighbors crammed into a hastily scheduled school-board

The board conceded that its sexual-harassment policy needed some tinkering, to take into account the

But most came to support the policy not to mock it Buchanan a volunteer classroom helper, told Newsweek of a third grader who was sexually propositioned by another left Check, whose daughter is in the seventh grade asked. How old does a girl have to be before no

As the Clarence Thomas hearings demonstrated, sexual harassment can be a swampy slog even when the participants are old enough to know better. In the last few years the debate has spread beyond the workplace and into the nation's schools. And there things have gotten even messier

A 1993 study of boys and girls in grades eight to 11, conducted for the American Association of University Women produced some alarming numbers 81 percent said they had been sexually harassed. Commonly teachers did little to step it

One third of those harassed said the problem began in the sixth grade or earlier. For these younger kids the issue becomes especially murky where do you draw the line between normal, developmental behavior and harassment between tlirting and hurting?

As with adult sexual harassment, we are increasingly asking the courts

Iwo weeks ago a jury in California awarded $500,000 to Tianna Ugarte, who was taunted by a sixthgrade classmate finding that the school had ignored her repeated complaints, the court ordered her former principal to pay $6,000 of the tine himself

The number of student complaints investigated by the tederal (OCR) is increasing steadily and now numbers about 200 cases a year

In August the OCR distributed a preliminary set of guidelines, for the first time tocused on harassment of students by other students 13 pages single-spaced with another 13 of tootnotes. Any district wishing to explain them to a " year old has a tall order ahead

Atraid of lawsuits some schools have overreacted drawing up rigid policies with inadequate tore thought or training

The untold story says Nan Stein of the Center for Research on Women at Wellesley College is that you now have a small growth industry of people with training packages and videotapes - and a lot of them have wrong intermation on them

The school board in Millis, Mass. has gone so far as to ban hand-hold ing. In Lexington, school policies drawn atter a highly publicized 1993 suit in Eden Prairie, Minn required teachers to report Prevette's kiss to the principal as soon as the girl complained.

The OCR wants to know you have labeled 1/8an incident 3/8 sexual harassment" McColl, legal counsel for the North Carolina School Board Association

This, too, may be an overreaction Our policy isn't looking for labels, says OCR's Norma V Cantu, but looking for illegal sexual harassment and preventing it in the future

Dr. Stanley Greenspan is one of many child-development authorities who believe that schools are wrong to label the behavior of 6- and 1 year olds as sexual harassment. The kids are simply too young to understand the concept. But, he says, it is a mistake to excuse unwanted kisses

as harmless play

Kather he sees them as a destructive form of bullying, and part of a continuum that includes sexual bullving at a later age. Young children. of 6 or 7 are going through a process of trial and error says lerlean Daniel, who teaches child development at the University of Pittsburgh They count on adults to give them

In a case like Prevette's she says the school missed an opportunity to teach both kids and maybe their classmates a lesson

Instead of filing a report the teacher should ask the girl. Did you want that to happen? so she under stands that she has the right to say no And you need to tell the boy that there are other ways to let someone know you like them. It you just chas tise the boy then you re treating the girl like she's just this object instead of teaching her to stand up for her

In Lexington, where Prevette was recently hailed by both Monica Seles and Jesse Helms, such wisdom can be hard to come by left Check found his passion tangled in his own language. The girl has been victimized. and they are making her aggressor there's that adult term again a

Last week, as New York teted 12 year old Yankee fan lettrey Maier for intertering with a baseball game. Pievette was only one of two kids cele brated for his diffuous behavior. And grown ups wonder where their kids pick up their bad habits

With labor's advertising money, Democrats improve chances for control of House

BY ADAM CLYMER

New York Times News Service

The race for control of the House of Representatives in some doubt for weeks is showing signs that Demox rats chances are improving, and that Republicans are struggling to undethe effects of millions of dollars of hostile AFI CIO advertising

Both parties predict victory although Republican forecasts of gaining seats are offered with far less assurance than they were last month But each side sees Republicans, especially treshmen as wide's damaged by labor's advertisements on Medicare and education

Even Speaker Newt Gingrish acknowledged last week that the chances of Democratic control had risen to 1 in 5 from 1 in 10 because of the unions effort which he called an ettort 30 buy and centrol the Congress. Democrats would need a net gain of 18 seats to control the House

The Republican grip on the Senate is more comfortable, though hardly secure Democrats would have to gain three seats and count on Vice President Al Gore's re-election and his tie-breaking vote - to control the Senate

Republicans captured control of both houses of Congress in 1994 for the tirst time in 40 years

But Democrats are laboring to hold onto the scats vacated by eight retirees and they lack the money to counter new television attacks from independent expenditures by Republican campaign organizations a form of campaigning approved as tree speech by the Supreme Court

Both the House and Senate contests are more competitive than the presidential race but they have not been much affected by it as of yet Still academic experts like Prof. Garv. Clacobson of the University of Calitornia at San Diego argue that it President Clinton wins by 10 percentage points the odds tavor the Democrats He added It he wins by 15 they take the House for sure

Whatever influence Clinton's coattails may have Jacobson said is likely to be strongest in the House races in which the Democrats have the most to worry about the 30 open seats abandoned by retiring Democ

Republicans insist that they will win enough of them, especially the 19 in the South-to-make up for any Republican seats they lose

The House torecasts contradict each other Rep. Martin Frost of Texas, who is hunkered down in Dallas with a re-election contest of his own said last week. I think we're going to win it back.

The president is obviously going to win, and that will have an impact. He said Democrats would gain scats in the East Midwest and West and hold our own in the

The Republicans counter with press releases listing Democratic seats they say they expect to capture 31 at last count. And Maria Cino. executive director of the National Republican Congressional Commit tee said on Thursday As of today we pick up seats, and we continue to be a majority

The GOP claims are similar for the Senate Sen. Altonse D. Amato of New York chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Committee said on Friday. The question is no longer whether the Democrats will lose even more seats in the Senate The question is how many

The lure of a better tuture will continue to draw immigrants to the United States Dominicans say so long as poverty and lack of opportunity here endure. Although some in Congress maintain that immigrants tlock to the United States for the benefits that the new measures on weltare and immigration would now deny them, interviews with more than two dozen Dominicans show that most of them dismiss U.S. efforts to discourage immigration as illogical and likely to tail. Rattlerettes break out of slump in a big way

The Florida A&M volleyball team won the championship in the 5th Annual Sarah Yates Invitational Tour nament Sunday behind the play of tournament MVP Tracy Parker at Gaither Gym deteating Florida International (9-15, 12-15, 15-3, 12-15, 15-9) in the final match to give FAMU a perfect 5-0 record over the weekend.

It was a roller coaster match of emotion lust as one team seemed to have things under control, the opposition would rebound and take a dramatic lead. But the most important drama of the day came at the expense of FIU as FAMU took its place atop the Yites pedestal for the first time since 1993

Game One belonged to the Rattlerettes, who scored 10 unanswered points before the Lady Panthers retaliat ed and narrowed the gap 10-7 FAMU went on to win utilizing multiple blocks from Melanic Grant

In the second game of the match EIU surged ahead late and FAMU taltered. Two errors helped give HU the edge it needed to win 15-12

The Rattlerettes avenged the loss in Game Three completely dominating the Lady panthers. The two teams fied at three before EAMU stunned FIU and ran ott 12 straight

The Lady Panthers would not let the rout get them down though tighting through an early fourth game LAMU lead to move ahead 9.8 on a Susan Moleski ace

As they did in Game Three. The Rattlerettes bonneed back again in decisive Game Live. Kills by Grant and Charleston and an III error helped give IAMU an 8-4 lead. FIU tailed to catch up this time, allowing I AMU to win the game, the match, and the tournament

This championship is a bright spot in what has been a dismal season for the Rattlerettes. They defeated MEAC rivals South Carolina State (15-0-15-1-15-9) and North Carolina A&I (16-14-15-10-17-15, 15-11) as well as Mercer (15.11.15.8-13.15.15.10), and Bethine-Cookman (15.9 15.1 15.8) before the win over 111.

We gelled as a team, and had good communication. said Grant, who was named to the all tournament team

We seem to have gotten over the rough spots, asid FAML coach Pam Reilly Hopefully well continue to play at this level trailed six times going into the fourth quarter only to come back to win

When they started to come back I started wondering it it was meant to be us coming down here to win one

But this time the 75 913 in attent dance sounded more like a crowd at Doak Campbell Stadium in the game's final ticks as the chant I-I-O-RIDAS-I-A I E exhaed through small waves of garnet and gold

Bowden gives the same halttime speech every game the Seminois inc. ahead in. It the detense does not give up a score the Seminoles win But this game was different. The Hurricanes were on a roll and ISL quir terback Thad Bushy was once again having trouble moving the ball

That was a big drive for us said Bushy It took time off the clock took the crowd out of the game and I think it took a lot out of them too

Bushy accounted for 60 yards in the drive to start the third quarter on 2-ot 3 passing and a 19-yard run

FSU's detense did shut out the Hurricanes in the second half but that was as much sprung by the offense in that opening drive than in any subsequent detensive stand They did it when they needed most to take the wind out of UM's sails. It was the wind that controlled the momentum at the game. Some peothe wind) in the tourth quarter said Bowden I d rather have it in the first and third to get momentum

C'in this case to get momentum ending dives for UM setting the Hum canes up at the Seminole 9 yard goal to go into the locker room on the regailt any confidence they had lost

Enter Rock Preston The junior tailback from Miami took a short swing pass bounced off two Hurri cane detenders eluded two more and by the end of the run tound him selt at the 2 yard line. He had need ed 1 vards on the third down play He got 15. Iwo plays later, Preston capped the drive with a score from our vards out "I never liked the Hurricanes " said Preston after the game, which made the nail he drove in their collective coffin even sweeter

UM's Danyell Ferguson was never able to get going against a swarming Seminole defense that limited him to a paltry 81 yards rushing on 27 carries, his lowest output since Nov.18, 1995 against West Virginia. All told, Miami's ground attack netted just 42 yards, compared to 222 for FSU.

With all the stars FSU boasts, the steady but game-breaking play of Vernon Crawford is easy to over-look. The senior linebacker whom teammate Daryl Bush once said would be 'the biggest surprise of all' led all Seminoles with seven tackles against the Hurricanes. It was his hit of UM's Ferguson that caused the famble for Shevin Smith to take 54 yards for what uld be the game winner.

Miami (4-f) allowed almost three times as many points as it had given up all year

It was a game marked by quick momentum changes and UM's success on third down at iversions 19-4-10 at one point but in the end it was FSU (50) that was able to capitalize are both accounts when it needed to

Skewed roofies law

Why does a rap struce to slip his victim some rooties in order to get some sericus jail time?

seems to us a rape is a rape and the perpetrator of that helitous crime should pay regardless of whether a drug or a knite is the weapon of force.

But Mr. Grandstander rives at President Bill Clinton, placated the anti-drug world and signed a bill Sunday outlawing Rosh pnol — aka realls their suck attempt to facilitate their violent crimes.

Rooties, for the uninitiated, are a tranquilizer much more potent than Valium, that can cause users or victims to pass out, it too much is taken. The drug is used daily by some 1-million people in 64 other countries to treat insomina.

But enough about legitimate medicinal purposes of this of that drug The point of the matter is that reoftes are becoming extremely popular with youngsters — a demographic group ranked on the scale of compassion akin to illegal immigrants and repeat felons, as far as Dole and gang are concerned. And if the kids like the stuff it must be

As wederess

The law Clinton signed provides for a 20-year sentence for the use of an illegal drug as a tool to commit violent crimes. But why stop there? Why aren't all rapists subject to 20 years in the slammer? Why do non-receive rapists still only receive a slap on the wrist, relatively speaking?

The answers to these questions can only lead us to speculate that the roomes law is not designed to stop or punish rapists. Rather the law is just one more prevarious step in the downward spiral that is the War on Drugs.

As if there weren't enough drug-users in prison new the new logislation provides that simple possession of Rohypnel pills, with no proven intent, can land the possessor up to three years in prison. And a recently enacted Florida law makes possession of rooties punishable by up to 30 years in prison.

What gives?

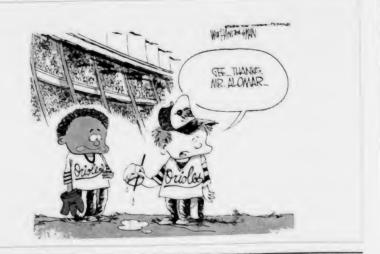

As non-violent drug users ret in prison for decades, drug free rapists and big time money launderers count down the days until they once again walk the streets. Logic would dictate that costly prison space be saved for these latter threats to society than drug users.

On second thought, why don't we just all volunteer to go to jail? That way we can save the lawmakers the trouble of passing Constitution-eroding laws in their pursuit to put the entire countercultural element behind bars.

Legislature

Candidates address higher education

BY IASON BLACK Staff Writer

Candidates for state representative in Districts 7, 9 and 10 have an incentive to pay extra attention to higher education issues during this campaign season. That's because their districts comprise the area around the Florida State and Florida A&M universities.

Recently, most debates have taken place over tuition costs of Florida state colleges and universities. And according to District 9 Democratic incumbent Marjorie Turnbull, the tuition issue will be raised again this year.

Current law allows university presidents to increase or decrease tuition by 10 percent from a base rate set by the Legislature. Most university presidents have used this flexibility to increase tuition prices, said District 9 Republican challenger Joe Griffin. "I worry about Florida universities," Griffin said last week. "They're being put out of touch by some people, and students have to go elsewhere for a cheaper education."

Input from university presidents remains an important component of the university system, said Jane-Gayle Boyd, District 10 Democratic

"University presidents have the local need in mind," Boyd said. "They should have some say, some control over tuition."

Turnbull said she supports university flexibility, citing its importance in decentralizing the operations and management of a university. She blames tuition-hike problems on the state.

"There's a problem because the state tries to use tuition to fill in gaps for inadequate state funding." Turnbull said.

But David Orne-Johnson, a Natural Law party write-in candidate for District 7, said he does not like the 10-percent leeway given to university presidents.

There just has to be a balance with tuition," Johnson said. "Sure, college costs a lot, but all the prices should just follow inflation."

Although students complain about tuition, Florida's state universities are priced significantly lower than other states' universities, some candidates note.

"I'm glad that that fact makes our schools more affordable to students," Boyd said. "But it puts us at a disadvantage because we can't afford to attract more quality professors. An amount of students' tuition goes to professors' hiring."

Currently, a professor must work six years before becoming eligible for tenure. After receiving tenure, professors go through a departmental review, school review and then the university analyzes all information about the professor.

Most candidates support the security and attractiveness that tenure provides to profes-

"If you have a person that has spent their life making significant contributions, they should remain secure," Griffin said.

Turnbull supports the tenure system.

"After their initial years, they're judged on their research methods, teaching styles and public service," she said. "Depending on the field they're in, weight may be shifted stronger to one issue over others."

In order to attract and preserve quality protessors, tenure must be offered as security, Boyd

"They're public emplayees, in a sense, and they need to have job criteria," Boyd said "But, we need to preserve their academic freedom as

Chrome Cranks put a raw edge on NY blues

Staff Writer

I rom the writhing underbelly of the New York trash blues scene that spawned such phenonienal bands as Pussy Galore Honeymoon Killers and the Ion Spencer Blues Explosion come the Chrome Cranks

They'll be slithering into our city tenight for a performance at the Cow Haus with Jacksonville's Dampading.

Although the Chrome Cranks seem a product of New York in near Is every respect, the band was actually formed in Cincinnati Ohio back in 1988 by singer guitarist Peter Aaron and guitarist William Weber After four years of line up changes and instability, the two decided to relocate to New York, a more suit. able home base for the grim urban blues that they were destined to create. In New York, Aaron and Weber hooked up with an old friend. bassist lerry Teel who s band the Honeymoon Killers was beginning to dissolve. In the Honeymoon killers Teel played with Ion Spencer tormerly of Pussy Galore and Russell Simmons who went on to concentrate their energies on the Blues Explosion, probably the most commercially successful product of the New York trash blues seene

We started jamming with Jerry and it was really coming together Auron said last week. We tried a couple of ditterent drummers, and tinally connected with Bob (Bert) about the same time Action Swingers and Bewitched were breaking up band, there are natural similarities Varon said. But what we re doing is a different thing. It's darker more moody. We shouldn't have to be locked into a label for such superficial reasons

Bob Bert has quite an impressive resume himself having played for two of the most influential American bands of the past two decades Sonic Youth and Pussy Galore He joined the Chrome Cranks in 1994 soliditying the band's impressive line up and adding another dimension of experience to their sound.

The Chrome Cranks indeed are ate a distinct brand of blues. When you put a Chrome Cranks record on sounds rise from your speakers like steam from the New York underground. Their music makes you tool dirty and proud of it letting you revel in all of those unclean feelings that have been festering inside for longer than you d like to admit

As creepy as The Cramps and as sludgy as Pussy Galore their version of the blues is one which offers a glimpse into the seedy underside of life in the city, with grooves that drive straight into your gut like a serpent writhing inside trying to make its way out

(The music) is an interpretation of the blues through our own experience Aaron said It's unorthodoxed approach, but it some that works for us. We try to present things in a way that makes sense within the context of what we knew it. Weals the Chrome Cranks third tull length is out new in the band's home label PCP The album was reclireded at the Turhouse a studio run by Jerry Techand William Weber which has also poor

More rails may turn to trails

BY KIM DROZI

For the nature lover or cyclist who finds the 16-mile St. Marks Irail a little too familiar, another, lengthier bike trail — the Gopher, Frog & Alligator Rail-Irail — could one day be an option.

But according to a progress report provided to the Leun County Commission Iuesday might, not all residents at Leon, Wakulla and Franklin counties are eager for the proposed trail.

Primary plans called for the trail to follow the old Georgia-Florida-Alabama rail line.

But once the plan arrived in the small town of Supchoppy in neighboring Wakulla County, residents raised objections, citing concerns over safety, maintenance and invasion of privacy by potential trail users, Louis Reis of the state Department of Transportation told the County Commission.

"There wouldn't be a mass intlus of people from Tallahassee," Reis said. "They still decided they didn't want the trail."

The Sopchoppy City Commission voted down the trail in a three-to-two vote, Reis added.

County Commissioner Anita Davis said she attended some of the earlier meetings about the bike-path plan and said the idea for the trail started in Sopchoppy.

"The most support for it was in Sopchoppy," Davis said.

Reis expressed hope that Sopchoppy residents would drop their opposition

 What would you do as president to make sure that the CIA does not smuggle drugs into the United States for gangs to sell in predom manthy black inner cities? Would you favor breaking up the CIA putting intelligence duties under each branch of the military or granting the Congress more supervision of the agency?

 Will you treat big time polluters like you now treat drug dealers CIA excluded?

Will you cease and desist from consoring art in any of its manifesturious?

 Would you push for legislation which would end the two party domination of the government' Candidates running under third parties or as independents face much flars her requirements for getting onto the ballot for local and national races than do Domocrats and Republicans. Would you like to see a more even playing field.

People of all races should unite, demand accountability.

BY SCOTT BLEWITT

Special to the Flambeau

Some call it the case that wouldn't die. Have you heard about it?

Some crazy tools out there seem to think the CIA smuggled drugs into this country during the mid '80s, targeting minority street gangs in L.A. in order to fund the Nicaraguan rebels.

Some also allege that they might possibly still be doing it to this day in one form or another. This isn't the same ClA that was exposed during the Church committee hearings in the '70s for violating its congressional charter when it was discovered they were spying on American citizens (mostly students) inside America.

Yes, it is.

So what's it all about, and why am I taking the time to write about it? Simply stated, because drug abuse is an epidemic that crosses all socio-economic, racial and class backgrounds.

Crack cocaine devastated the inner cities in the '80s, and it still is. My concern is that these recent revelations allege that minority street gangs were the sole target. This sort of accusation can only cause to divide our nation further.

Cocaine increased in all parts of this country in the '80s, not just in L.A. and the inner cities.

Ask yourselt a few questions to see if you think the Drug War is for real. Remember when we inscaled Panama to remove "drug thug" Noriega at the cost of more than two dozen American lives? Has the amount of drugs flowing into this country diminished?

Remember Kuhn Sa, the warlord of the Golden Triangle in Southeast Asia? His domain produced three-fourths of the world's poppies. He was arrested more than six months ago. Has the amount of heroin and opium in this country diminished? Did you know that the majority of the world's coca plants grow in the Upper-Huallaga Valley in South America? If we can go into Panama and remove Noriega, then why don't we do more than just the token interdiction in South America? What are we getting tor out $5 billion we spend every year to fight this "drug wat?"

Drug use in this country hasn't diminished, but the attack on our constitutionally guaranteed freedoms has increased in order to fight it.

If you are black and drive a BMW in L.A., you fit a "drug profile." It you have a Dead-Head sticker on your car, you fit the profile and can be pulled over and searched. So much for the Fourth Amendment!

I wish I had the space to talk about some of our ridiculous asset-forfeiture laws that have come about because of this "war." Are you willing to sacrifice some of your constitutional freedoms in order to receive greater "safety" from drugs as this country fights the "drug war?"

Benjamin Franklin said,

They that give up essential liberty to purchase a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety. Wise words from a wise man.

What can we do? We must

What can we do? We must join together, blacks and whites, as Americans. We must demand that our house be put in order. We must educate ourselves, and not let this issue die. We must have accountability, not scapegoats. And, most importantly, we must realize that sometimes only public action, not politicians' promises, is the only thing that can bring this phony "drug war" to an end. It is an election year.

Hold your representatives and senators to the task of bringing the truth to light. If an arm of our representative government is involved in smuggling drugs into this country, we must not be "a nation of sheep," as Avn Rand so eloquently stated.

This quite possibly is the biggest issue facing America today, let your voice be heard!

It's this line that makes explain ing why the Pictasters are so good

May be it's the tact that the band playing tonight at Hoyd's Music store maintains an incredible ener gy level throughout a performance Or is it their impreciable musical ability and great hornwork? Could it be that their music itself is just too mints happs bouncs and tun tor them not to be good.

FSU lacrosse team in it for the long haul, hopefully

BY J.LEE CHARLTON

Staff Writer

The Florida State Women's Lacrosse Club Team ventured off to Georgia Friday to play a total of three matches against another lacrosse team in hopes of returning more advanced in the sport.

According to junior Taryn Guariglia, the team's cover point defense, lacrosse is a precision sport based on the individual's agility.

"It's not a sport a person can be good at," she said. "One must have the determination and be dedicated out on the field."

Guariglia, who began playing on the team during her freshman year, added that in the South there are not a wide variety of teams which girls can join. A large percentage of the team members come from the eastern portion of the country. It is not that big in Florida. Historically, Lacrosse was a game developed by the Algonquin Indians and Native Americans in preparation for wartime. It was also the first sport played in America.

"People have heard of Lacrosse but they don't know what it is." said Guarilglia regarding the sport's unfamiliarity in the South. "We, the team, invested 8,000 tlyers during orientation, pasting them up in the dorms as a way of explaining to individuals." Although the Women's Lacrosse Club Team isn't a varsity sport, it has already played other teams in Georgia, Tennessee, Orlando, the University of Florida, and Clemson. The team lost to the Gators 6-3 and Tigers 11-2.

Most of the team's members are from the Kappa Alpha Theta soronty. They hold fundraisers to support team expenses, such as uniforms, equipment, and trips to compete at other colleges. Under Coach Lisa Drake's direction, the team has grown fremendously. The team started out with eight players and has, since then, progressed to 40 members.

"There's been a pretty good turn over," said Drake. "At least half the people from last year are back. That's the nature of a club team—sometimes you don't get the same people back." With her years playing on a professional lacrosse team, Drake has brought more than 18 years of coaching experience in Massachusetts to the Florida State. Drake, a former collegiate player at Pennsylvania and former United States Women's Lacrosse team member, believes the team has shown great dedication to the sport.

The vast majority on the team are advanced players and they re-learning everyday." sard Drake. They lack experience still because they haven't played enough, but there's no question, most (team members) are pretty good athletes. Several of the team members just play for the tultillment of the game, not necessarily for the competition. According to Guartiglia, she gimed for the sheer thrill of being out on the field with the rest of her triends and the opportunities it offered.

Friday darts and laurels

The week's been a slugtest with seasonal colds, exams and politics touling the air compelling chemical treatment and a few zingers directed toward those who dare tancy themselves American herees.

Dart: In the city brass's contempt of the downfrodden. The sorry horizing that crowded the front steps of City Hall on Wednesday to announce their anti-panhandling campaign should lighten up.

We agree with Undersheriff Larry Campbell Police Chief Tom Coe and City Commissioners Scott Maddox John Paul Bailey and Debbie Lightsey that the panhandlers along Tennessee Street make for a sadscenario But we disagree with the Tallahasses Politburo's mobilization against them and the plan to distribute tilvers to passers-by that panhandlers are 100 homeless or hungry.

The right against poverty would gain greater success it local homeless programs were given even a bit of the pork that goes into local law enforcement and road construction. But the battle regresses when the city bigwigs make such threatening gestures toward a situation that calls for greater compassion.

They ought to calm their uppity selves down a bit and get serious about the homeless and drug-alcohol cases that loiter around the Strip by trying to tix the problem—net just vainly hoping it will go away.

Next time the Legislature is in town, these same business owners and local government officials should hold a press conference on the steps of the Capitol and ask for increased funding for education and social programs — possibly pre-natal programs for the poor That would earn them a pat on the back.

Dart: To the Atlanta Braves organization for not using the playotts as an opportunity to make a spectacular statement by dumping the Braves mascot like the insulting parody of a culture that it is

Laurels and darts: To the second presidential debate. Slick Willie showed once again why he's president, absorbing attacks against him like the sponge he is

Dole on the other hand harped on stale arguments about the ethics problems in the Clinton administration. But as we recall, the Republican administrations that have attlicted our tair land over the years haven texactly had what would be called a good track record on the effices front.

The Nixon. Reagan and Bush administrations were riddled with so much corruption as to make the Khmer Rouge blush. We exaggerate a bit, but the point is the Republican Party has at least as sordid a history of whoring itself to moneyed interests as the Democratis.

Laurel: To Larry King, for letting a few of the alternative candidates for president present their views on CNN after the debate between the only two guys with a realistic chance, of winning Perot got the stage to himself for a bit, so as to vap on about the warped priorities of the tederal government. And it was rereshing to see the Libertarian and Natural Law candidates get a couple of minutes to make the rigidates to the nation.

But it's too bad that the debate system is geared so that only two boxs are featured in the right ever the big enchilada.

A woman's battle against MTV's hoochie mamas

Pacific News Service

SAN FRANCISCO - Chate was hore the man channe's these days

As a young basis we must be computered with boug my sisters portray the need yes as treaks an MTV and BTTT lessed to just compute by the most me freedom until the mouster at my local mosque. Frother Christopher Muhamorad, toggested that we worm a write the music industry and ask the sisters to step the obscients on music vide. So here it is my letter to the sisters who like to grand their way across my IV screen.

I guess it sevening being in a music cideo. It is about getting yours, or being seen, and torget everyone elseright? But do you know how you are aftering the minds and lives of your sisters. Do you ever think about the younger sisters, who learn tast and emulate you? Have you noticed the 12- and 13-your olds diabled up to look like 20 year-olds. Or are times so band that you don't care who you have?

I used to argue with my ex-boytrierd about waithing BET and MTV because the majority, it fire videns with sisted of not even half-maked gifts weighing and nighting like a food of a five let is not like I must be out of shape myse. If but it hears me to see my ex-boytriered by a daze with this even mesting and discover.

Then be turned the tables and started compraining about how he another with the building signal between their bigs, or within the Refl singles pare (in the risking) and start grounding 15 would post out of the corner of his eye, it wants me express on and I would you k at him to see it the was smalling at the states who and d like they were in the bedgin.

My 24 years of megabor used to to ill medical wheat she watched many nedgos with her best round he down to her. That's how your body mould have a woother therefore, who is the says hove six har. Why don't yield ance that that "is measured as here, when gittle begin opposing what they we seem in mass, you when gittle begin opposing what they we seem in mass, you down to be visited in a proposing what they we seem in mass. It does not be visited in a proposing them and not be them on.

Them does I have states railing themselves but has been bosselve manual and more When do they get these does about themselves. You are proceeding, to the whole world that on the whole world that on the world are made, break and reads store over and processes. You say say it you make all on business because them on their individuals having dust women does their about the world and women of their thought and their all you are to both a women to be at a women does the state of their their and processes.

What filld you that so run from any disting is just a courthing. You are a representative of all Black as more We are not been a find black get of We were particular bonding to a their We seem rapid and analysis of logether and III be damned it well wiggle our butt

Why are you on TV in tight shorts bething moving your bodies are and like you are froats? You in not froats. They used to all the strange people in the origin tracks. They did you become tracks sisters. You are not tenaled uses a mass him in areas you are female griddesses.

Idon! want to bear that you wear what you want to well. How many cothing factories do you own? Decyou design your clothes? And it you don't, who does?

You sisters are very very beautiful. You don't have to ordiness ter success ner to get some attention. You want brothers to respect you. disagreements, the two candidates see eve to eve on a few issues such as balancing the budget

Mi No 1 pri ority is a balanced budget," Suttonsaid last week. We need to take care. of this major issue first and forget about the blame

Boyd said balancing the federal budget by 2002 is possible

I think we can balance the budget Boyd said But we need to focus on that before anything else, like the 15-percent tax cut. There are several proposals out there that balance the budget, but we need to look at each one carefully to see how they work.

Sutton said he prefers GOP presidential candidate Bob Dole's approach toward balancing the budget Sutton added that he wouldn't support Dole's proposed 15-percent tax cut for all Americans until the budget is balanced

I agree more with Dole's balanced budget plan. Sutton said. 1 think President Clinton has vacillated too much on balancing the budget for ton said. They need to be given job the past tour years

Boyd on the other hand is skeptical of the Dok plan

Boyd objects to Dole's plans for the programs

Dole's plan cuts too deep into Medicare and Medicard Boyd said Clinton's plan cuts less and balances the budget as well

When it comes to welfare...

Both candidates agreed welfare return is needed

I definitely agree with a time traine to get people off weltare. Suttraining instead of spending $5 tril. flon to keep people dependent on someone else I think it's wring to

Boyd also said we tare need-Boyd said. We haven thad growth shanges but said many tate have already changed welfare programs. Honda is one such state

Under reterms passed by the state Legislature this year welfare recipients receive employment assistance job training and Medicare instead of cash. To receive benefits, recipients must work 40 hours a week unless they are minors or have a legitimate disability Continued job training will be provided after two years of work as well

I think the first thing to consider when helping people get oft welfare is that we must encourage them to acquire skills that will help them support themselves Boyd said

Tax cuts for education

In regard to college tuition and tax cuts for parents. Sutton said he would support a $500 fax credit for parents after the budget is balanced.

Boyd said tax credits need to be given to encourage people to attend college. But he did not say which tax breaks he supported or how much those tax cuts should be

The elimination of the federal Department of Education is another issue upon which Sutton and Boyd ditter Sutton said he likes the idea. which Dole has proposed.

"I d rather see education regulat ed at the state level. Sutton said Then is too much intertenence with the federal government in regard to education It's a state issue

Boyd agreed with placing more education but dragreed with the climination of the department

The primary responsibility for education comes from the state. Boyd said. But there is still a limit ed role for the tederal government and the department should stay in

Rattlers and a blowout Wilson will likely break Ray Alexander's schools record for career receiving virdage (2.638). He needs just 68 yards this week and only three catches to surpass Gary Harrell's MEAC record of 184 career grabs

The stage will be set for Wilson's record breaking game as tormer San Francisco 49er and DSU Hornet John Taylor will be in attendance. Taylor will be honored for his record break ing career efforts, many of which Will son has already broken

The two major records Taylor still holds are for career touchdowns (33) and single season receiving scores (13) FAMU would like to win one in Dover with Taylor watching as he helped the Hornets to their tirst ever win in Tallahassee as a senior

In addition to the historical incentives riding on this game, the Rattlers should go in confident as DSU has lost two straight to FAMI and 10 of 14 overall But the past tour games have all been decided by a touchdown or less with the Hornets taking the 1992 3 games As a result coach loe is guarding his team against complacency

We want to make certain we stay tocused with our bye week oming up he said. We have a young team with room for improvement. It sjust a matter of time before we put it together. It we can win the rest of our games by one point. I'll take it

Female officers confront own fears, external pressures

BY DENNIS LOVE Los Angeles Daily News

LOS ANGELES — Officer and LAPD recruiter Pat Guessferd deals with it almost every day: The doubts and fears of other women considering careers as policewomen.

"I've heard everything," said Guessferd, a 14-year Los Angeles Police Department veteran. "They'll come up to me and ask, 'Am I allowed to have children?' Or they'll say, 'My husband doesn't want me to do it,' or 'My boyfriend says it's not for a woman.' ... Some of them worry they will lose their femininity."

Officer Cassandra Nickerson, a six-year LAPD veteran who also works as a recruiter, hears it too, concerns from women about being accepted as real cops by what is still a male-dominated culture — both on the street and within the LAPD itself.

"I tell them that the LAPD offers a good career with lots of options for what you can do. But! also tell them: 'Yes, they're going to test you out there. There's going to be times when some guy who's 6-9 and 250 pounds isn't going to want to go to jail that day. You might have to work with a guy who maybe thinks women ought to be doing something else.'

"And I tell them, 'That's the way it is all over. You have to be assertive. You have to make your own way."

It can be a tough sell.

Even in these ostensibly enlightened times, police work isn't always the first career choice that comes to mind for most women. Despite that inherent challenge, the LAPD recently has come under fire again for its track record in recruiting women for the 9,029-member force.

Currently, 17 percent of LAPD officers are women — up from 3 percent in 1980, but still not nearly enough, according to critics.

"They are not even close," Los Angeles Councilman Nate Holden said at a Sept. 27 council ses-

Rvan Cappy's term as president of Horida Statel. Investiv's Intertrater intx council will soon by up but Cappy says the work done by ILC to improve the grock system will continte.

There is been a lack of communication scholarship and service. Cappy said. We re-addressing those issues and doing things to help those out.

The IFC is an elected board, hosen by members of the 23 traternities at FSU In the past IFC has been rispen sible for serving as a governing coincil for the traternity system.

This year HC's prioritic were tocusing on the voids in the area of service scholarship, and communication. HC administrative vice prodent Adam Mory said.

In the part traterrities accomplished a great deal of community service through philanthropies and today they have found other way—to contribute.

Cappy said one example is the Bryer Day program where a traternity and sorority are paired up to deliver flowers to the elderly once a week

Alpha Lau Omega president Derek Cooper said traternities have begun to put a stronger commitment into community service.

It's something we can make a direct impact on. Cooper said. We are able to get the manpower into these projects. It's doing more hands on not just saving. Here $5.00.

A good spiritual foundation is also an invaluable tool for blacks to stay focused, according to Kumutugregations are upwards of 75 percent temale and 25 to 40 percent

The reason many black men are disenchanted with church is because of the misrepresentations it instills in black people, according to Kun-

One reason men don't go to church is all the pictures of Michealangelo's brother on the windows, he said. Was (lesus) really white with blond hair and blue

On civil rights, Clinton steers a bumpy course

New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON — In his nearly fear cens to effect breedent Contour has amassed a civil rights record in along that et any president in the last 30 years.

So why do so many civil rights advocate—both liberal and onserva five—mistrust him so much?

Since he entered office in lanuary 1993. Clinton has appointed more women and missinty-group members to cabinet and other high-fevel positions than any other president. He has appointed the highest percentage of minority group members and women to the federal bench.

He became the first president to back measures forend bias against homosexuals, he stepped up enforcement of fair housing laws, and he stoutly detended the government's affirmative action role declaring in a speech in July 1995 that his goal would be to mend it not end it.

It you look at his overall record, both in the appointments he is made and the polities be a pursued a said Wade Henderson, executive director of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, a condition of liberal organications. his record stands with the best of recent presidents, with the possible exception of Evidon Tolmson.

But so tricky and polarizing are the politics of race and sex that the civil rights policies of the Clinton administration have drawn praise and scorn in equal measure from liberals and conservatives.

With compelling evidence, conservatives say the administration has pursued classically liberal policies, despite trying to portray itself are moderate. They note that the people Clinton appointed to entorce antiediscrimination laws came by and large from liberal organizations like the NAACP Legal Detense and Educational Fund the Mexican American Legal Detense Fund and the National Women's Law Center.

They also say that the administration sought to expand the legal basis for affirmative action to include the need for a diverse work force, not just to remedy past discrimination.

And they point out that despite Clinton's promise to change any federal affirmative action programs found ineffective or resulting in quotas, only one—a Defense Department procurement program—has been scuttled.

Philosophically, I think they are straight, pro-preference liberals on these issues. Said Linda Chavez, president of the Center for Equal Opportunity, a conservative group. They interpret affirmative action to mean having double standards, having different rules according to race with attention to the bottom line, according to numbers. There's not a whole lot of difference between the way the Clinton people enforce the law and the way the Carter people did."

While conservatives complain that the administration is too liberal or civil rights issues, however, liberal groups maintain that it has not been bold enough and is too willing to tack in the shifting winds.

They recall that Clinton quickly abandoned Lani Guinier, a law professor from Philadelphia who was his first choice to head the Justice Department's civil rights division, when her past writings drew fire from conservatives. They note that after the storm that followed his pledge to remove the ban on homosexuals in the military, the president put forward a policy that left the ban in place.

He delayed filling important civil rights posts, squandering what civil rights groups said had been an opportunity to undertake new initiatives while the Democrats controlled Congress. And he signed a welture bill that civil rights advocates say will throw at least a million children into poverty.

Even Clinton's stand in defense of affirmative action, perhaps the detining evil rights moment of his presidency was taken with the knowledge that abandoning the policy would have meant a certain presidential primary challenge from the Rey Tesse Lackson.

There is no question about it," Tackson said in a recent interview. My position on it was quite public and I stated it to him. I had no inclination to run. My choice was, rather, to support him. But if he had taken away that program for equal opportunity he would have crossed the line."

Clinton's aides deny that the prospect of a Jackson challenge in the primary figured in the president's decision to support affirmative action. But that Jackson would make such a threat is indicative of what some critics regard as the president's primary failing that he responds more to political considerations than to those of principle.

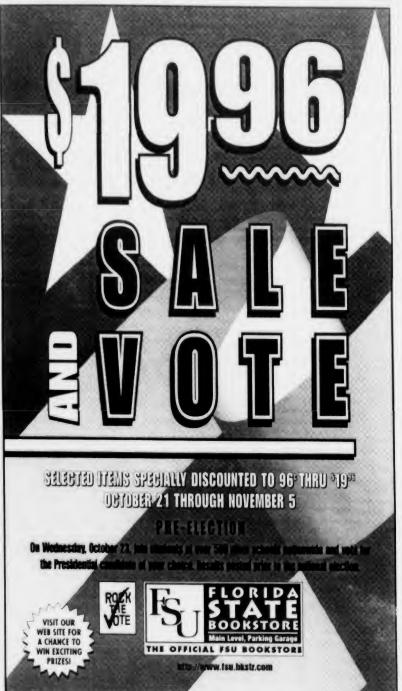

There isn't the malevolence that there was in the Reagan administration or the indifference that there was in the Bush administration, said an official with a Hispanic organization who spoke on condition of anony mity. But there is a calculating approach to the issue that is principally politics driven.

Clinton has argued that he was seeking innovative way: to look at the divisive issues of race ethnicity, class and sex. And in what apuld be read

Teen drug testing, driving restrictions. Welcome to Amerika

Just because you re paranoid, don't mean they re not after you

- Nirvana

Don't drink don't smoke, whatcha gonna do?

-Adam Ant

President Clinton wants to have teenagers pass a drug test before receiving drivers' licences, the prez announced in his weekly Saturday radio address this weekend

Clinton gave his drug czar and transportation secretary 90 days to come up with a plan to implement his proposal, which administration sources say would be geared toward 15- to 18-year-olds

Clinton also announced administration plans to extort states into adopting "zero-tolerance" drinking laws that would strip drivers licences from anyone under 21 who's busted driving with any alcohol in their system.

The zero-tolerance drinking law, passed by Congress last year, requires states to pass similar anti-drinking legislation or lose up to 10 percent of their federal highway funds. This is how the drinking age was torced up to 21 in every state, so the evidence indicates that states will play along with this ted ploy as well.

We would hope that Clinton had enough courage to put a halt to the sickening attacks made by out-of-touch politicians against the youth of this country. But our hopes, tenuous before Clinton's pronouncement, have been riddled with a few more holes. The re's plenty wrong with the zero-tolerance law and drug-testing proposal.

- They represent more examples of the teds* torceful encroachment upon the states
- The selective age entorcement is unconstitutional as there is no compelling reason for the age distinctions.
- Drug testing does not reliably indicate who is using drugs, only who can't beat the test

We, as a country, have a heck of a lot more to worry about than trying to arbitrarily subjugate the rights of young people just because they are young

Why must youths, more than any other demographic group, endure these insulting attacks? Are teenagers really that much more of a threat to society than other age groups?

But alas, teens vote even less than the rest of the electorate. So they get screwed with these laws.

What's next drug testing to get into college? To have children? Please

Drugs are not the work of the devil. They can unleash artistic impulses, alleviate boredom or numb the pain of this often-horritic existence known as 20th-century "living."

Clinton should find more constructive uses of his time than bowing to the diseased curs that want utter compliance with their fascistic laws.

Readers says Mr. Jones ain't fit to print

BY GADI BEN-YEHUDA

Special to the Flambeau

Here's what you can expect from this article a cogent direct, valid argument and some well-researched defintions that are meant to enlighten and prove a point Here's what you should not expect mindless and irrelevant prattle scurrilous sarcasm and ill-tounded arguments. In short 1 am not Rick lones, this is not the IP and it you are looking for entertainment, turn on the TV and flip to Channel 19.

I have a tew bones of contention to pick with Mr lones, the tirst being attirmative action. His argument rans like this, the government should stay the hell out of business, and the most qualified person should get what ever job he or she is applying for. Says Hones—society and government owe them (meaning women blacks and other non-White Anglo Saxon Protestant heterosexual men who have been historically and still are tragically underrepresented in the upper echelons of business, the government and the military) nothing. Tet me say that in the presence of no other social force. I would heartify agree, and so would any follower of liberalism. But, as so often the case: conservatives such as Mr. Iones have removed themselves from their proper historical context.

When the Constitution of the United States was written—the same Constitution that all federal employees, from FBI field agents to White House jaintors, agree to uphold and detend—it stated that blacks whom it called. All Other Persons I were three fifths of one human being. The common law of the land, upheld in the Dread Scett decision, said that black human beings were property which MUST be returned to their inviners even it caught in non-slave states. When the blacks were emanipated, the were already evoluted from the government, they had not written a single word of the laws that applied to them, and were handicapped by lack of education and inculturation by a society that never forgave them for having been slaves.

When a doctor performs an unnecessary procedure that inhibits a person's ability to enjoy life when a stalker causes mental anguish, when a senator embezzles money it is not enough that they perform corrective treatment, cease their predatory activity or return the money they took. As a society we either time them heavily or sent them to a peritentiary. Pentientiary, from penitience the derivative of poole (Latin for punishment), and defined as "regretting sins or oftenses and willing to atone." Then the appendiction is a place where one repents for one sams. A society that commits an act of their, that handicaps that malignantly pursues a segment of its population should be treated like an individual who perpetrates the same actions it must pay pentence.

Mr lones would also be well to remember the alleged reason that the revolutionaries in 17% came together in the first place was because they tell that they were not represented in their government, they wanted to have a voice in and a vote on the laws that applied to them. After four score and seven years, how many laws that applied to blacks had been written by or voted on by blacks?

Attirmative action is the penitence that our country must do for the crime not only of the slavery that was legislative fact for ST years, but for the dogradation of Atricans in this country that is to this day a part of the living Constitution kept in a nuclear-bomb-proof chamber in Washington D.C.

Before Mr. Jones speaks a work of how he never owned slaves, or how his grandparents were Irish, or poor or came over in 1912 from Eastern Europe (and how this somehow alleviated him of any responsibility), let me again state that they act of penitence must come from the SOCIFTY that unduly punished blacks. Those people who came to the country after abolition, and those who never practiced slavery, still enjoyed the privileges of whiteness to the same extent as plantation owners. The blacks in 1815 could not help being black, even it they were visiting dignitaries from other countries had Nel son Mandella visited Memphis in the late '50s, he would have had to drink from the "colored" water tountain. even though he was not even American. Likewise, even though Mr. Jones HIMSI LF did not practice slavery, it is his debt to pay the segment of society back what is indeed owed to them.

The second item I wish to point out to Mr. Hones is that liberalism is a philosophy, as is conservatism, tas issm. socialism anarchism and monarchism. One is not another, and it only illustrates how poorly Mr. Iones is educated that he can contuse them. It the Hambeau were truly liberal why would they print socialist propaganda? It seems to me that Mr. Iones should brush up on his political philosophy, lest one mistake his soil the patch work of vacuous, erroneous and mean-spirited ideologies that are the essence of his periodical.

Finally I would draw his attention to a line from the New Yest Times from which the Flumbeau occasionally borrows articles—all the news that s tit to print. Perhaps, Mr Iones, it you and your conservative friends did something of note in the community, or indeed the world short of shutting down government, it would make it into the pages of more journals than just The Limburg Letter.

Currently IIC is dratted an agree ment with the administration that would set new policy for grade point averages Mory said

Over the next few years, up to probably the year 2000 requirements for being in a fraternity are going to be getting higher. Mory said. Right now it s a 2.25 GPA but by the turn

We want to show the greek system is more than just a bunch of people drinking and partying as it is commonly perceived to be he said

IFC has launched a public relations campaign and through the media niembers say they hope to put aside the Animal House image to show that greeks contribute to many facets of university and community

I think the public relations campaign is crucial, said Sigma Nu president Danny Ferron - Most times the sentiment on campus is so against the greek system IIC and Panhellenic that they will not recognize what we do

This is our way of saying we do this everyday Terron added What do you (other students) do?

Barboni said she already has seen an increase in fraternity involvement in other aspects of 15U

Last year, because of a lack of communication, traternities did not participate in Stop Rape Week, which offered a workshop targeted for men at FSU But traternities are making more of an effort as regards sex education, as evinced during last week's Stop Abuse For Everyone week Barboni said

The sex respect workshop and keynote speaker Janice Altman featured during SAFL Week generated a good turnout from fraternity members, Barboni said

It shows that they re supporting the Women's Center and this whole week and month to end domestic and relationship violence." Barboni

Barboni added that she attributes the successful contribution to IEC president Cappy

Tthink Ryan Cappy is probably the person to thank in the respect that he is the one who is the president, and he is the one who probably made it happen, she said

Unfortunately, we didn't have as good enough response from sororities," Barboni added. Putting out banners is great, but what we really needed was women to listen and par ticipate to avoid abusive relation

Agreed Councilwoman Jackie Goldberg 'It's terrible - We do not believe they are recruiting appropriately and we are trying to work on

The criticism resulted from findings that of the 875 cops hired during the first nine months of 1996, 16-1 percent were women - far short of the goal set two years ago that women account for 43 percent of new

But not everyone agrees that the LAPD has necessarily been remiss in its recruitment of females Council man Marvin Braude, for one, warned in 1994 that a 43 percent goal was unrealistic simply because of the limited pool of prospective applicants.

'It wasn't practical then and it probably isn't practical now." Braude said at the Sept. 29 council session.

Sgt. Tom Smart of the LAPD's recruitment division, which in tandem with the city's Personnel Department is responsible for finding and hiring officers said he is happy with the progress we've

He points out that Los Angeles ranks tirst among California's 10 largest cities in percentage of women on the police rolls, and compares tavorably with other large cities around the country

(In New York, for example, about 20 percent of that city's 31,000 officers are women, according to NYPD Detective Mark Patterson But that Women's Center director Diana be held within the next two months tigure includes transit officers. Pat terson said which the LAPD does not factor into its statistics)

The LAPD also likes to emphasize that dozens of women have attained sergeant and lieutenant status, and three currently hold captain rank.

Yet, Smart argued, sheer logistics reduce the numbers of women the department is able to attract

In an average year the LAPD hires about 5 percent of those who pass the rigorous seven-step exam and graduate from the Police Acade

During the past year, 15,237 people were tested 3,274 of those were women. Of those women, 224 were

To nearly triple the recruitment rate for women - which is what achieving a 43 percent level would require - he said the department would have to test about 5,000 to 6,000 women per year

And they are simply not there right now he said. And we recruit aggressively - about 50 to 60 events a month, many of them gender-specitic. We go all around this city, this state, Arizona, Las Vegas. We just went to Philadelphia. Believe mewe're out there pitching every single otticials in the Clinton administration have vowed to press on with tighter security

David R. Hinson, the head of the FAA, said on Wednesday that tighter security measures would remain in place even if the crash of the Boeing 747 which killed all 230 people aboard, was eventually proved to be a result of mechanical failure. The search for improved security measures was under way even before the TWA disaster occurred

The exact provisions and details of the bag matching and profiling are secret. We're trying to keep a lot of this stuff secure so we're not produc ing targets for people, so someone can say. You re doing it here, so I'll target somebody else said one official of the commission, who spoke on condition of anonymity

The White House commission and the airlines are planning more tests in January when they will try bagmatching on shuttle flights and at hub airports, where thousands of passengers converge in short periods to change planes.

The existing test is on small air lines providing "point-to-point" ser vice, officials said, although these include narrow-bodied passenger

The commission, headed by Vice President Al Core, had originally recommended trying out domestic bae matching at two small airports and one hub airport, but the next phase lasting through November, will be expanded to additional airports officials said

Solid start for Tiger Sharks

The Tallahassee Tigersharks (2-0) deteated the Baton Rouge Kingfish (0-1) in a thrilling overtime shootout 4-3 on Saturday night at the Leon County Civic Center

The 6,026 tans in attendance were treated to a stellar pertormance from goalie Sonny Mignacca, who had 32 saves on the night, helping Tallahassee remain undeteated this year

Tiger Shark center Aaron Nagy scored the game-tying goal on a rebound with 2.56 left in the game, insuring that the contest would head into a shootout. Then, detenseman Sean O'brien scored the gamewinning goal on the 18th shot of the shootout

The Tiger Sharks survived a penalty-marred first period that resulted in 7.33 of power play for Baton Rouge Despite their 17-shot period, the Kingtish scored only one goal, courtesy of Stephane Charbonneau with 11 50 remaining at even strength The second period remained scoreless until the sixth minute, when Kevin Malgunas cashed in on a Tiger Sharks power play opportunity by deflecting an O'brien shot past Kingfish goalie Christian Soucy

Six minutes later, Tiger Shark right wing Jeb Fiebelkorn scored an even strength goal, giving the team a 2-1 lead. The Kingtish would not lay down, however, as Alain Sirois scored on a one-timer from Charbonneau to tie the score six minutes before the period ended

The third period was scoreless for twelve minutes until tormer Shark Don Parsons came back to bite his old team, scoring on a turnover to put the Kingfish ahead, 3-2 The score remained unchanged until Nagy's clutch goal in the 17th minute. After a two-minute break, both teams went to the shootout

"Shootouts are great fun for the tans," Nagy said "But it would be tough to play hard for sixty minutes only to lose on a penalty shot

In the fourth round of the shootout, the Budweiser Detensive Player of the game Rob Dumas went 5-hole on Soucy for the first score Dimitri Leonov immediately answered the goal with one of his own that soared right over Mignac cas head ear Fellow Students, My name is Jason, and I am your Director of Campus Concerns for this year. I am responsible for addressing any campus concerns you might have. I applied for this position because I wanted to make sure that your concerns and complaints would get to Student Government, and from there be proptly addressed. In order to do that, we have to listen to you, the students. Unless we get feedback from you, we can not accurately represent your wants and needs.

This is why Student Government is launching the "Feedback Frenzy". It is our way of reaching out to you to listen to what you have to say. By taking just a minute to stop by one of our five campus sites and completing a survey next week, you will be able to tell your Student Government how you feel about various campus issues. In addition, we will place thirteen feedback boxes around campus in order for you to voice your concerns anytime you want. I urge you to take advantage of these opportunities to let your Student Government know about your concerns. In return, I will work along with the Student Government to try to resolve those concerns. By being better informed, we will be a more effective Government.

Feel free to swing by the Cabinet office (next to the 2nd floor Union Lounge) or call 644-0074 to talk about any questions or concerns you have. I look forward to working for you this year!

Clinton proposes drug tests before teen drivers' licenses

New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON — President Clariton said Saturday that teenagers should have to pass a drug test before receiving drivers heenses, and he instructed administration officials to report back to him in 90 days with a plan, including possible legislation, to make such a practice standard across the country.

Clinton announced the anti-drug initiative in his weekly Saturday radio address, in which he also announced that the administration would issue a final rule on Monday putting into effect a law passed by Congress last year designed to stop drunken driving by young people.

The law requires states to make it illegal for anxone under 21 to drive with any alcohol in their blood States will have two years to enact the "zeros-tolerance law" or risk a portion of their federal highway money. The law also requires the suspension of the driver's license of anyone under 21 who is caught driving under the influence of alcohol.

Citing the anti-alcohol measure as a model, Clinton said. I believe we should use the privilege of a driver's license to demand responsible behavior by young people when it comes to drugs too.

He added. We're already saving to teens it you drink you aren't allowed to drive. Now we should say that teens should pass a drug test as a condition of getting a driver's license. Our message should be simple. No drugs or no driver's Arthur Spitzer, the legal director of the The American Civil Liberties. Union's District of Columbia branch, said the move was an example of this drug manna gone crazy. He said the organization would consider mounting a legal challenge.

Clinton has been under assault by Bob Dole and the Republicans on the drug issue for weeks, since his administration reported in late August that marijuana smoking among American teen agers had jumped 141 percent from 1992 to 1995 and that overall teen age drug use had more than doubled

The Dole campaign has run a television commercial showing Clinton in an MTV torum in 1992 joking about his vouthful experiment with marijuana. And Dole has accused Clinton of displaying moral confusion, saving. Two will never have a tirm contident national message against drugs when our leaders are ambivalent themselves.

Republicans in Congress have also sought to obtain a memorandum written by Louis I. Frech the director of the FBI, that criterized the administration's drug policy. The president invoked executive priss lege and refused to hand over the document. Saturday Clinton said that even though drug use by teen age is had increased. all the evidence is that 90 percent of our children are drug tree.

They are doing the right thing he said. They are not experiment the

The president added. We are asking them, the 80 percent who are drug tree, to be responsible enough to participate in this drug testing program to help us identify the lift percent who are on the brink of get tring in trouble and get them away from drugs before it's too late.

Our goal must be to help parents pass on their values to their children. Ciniton said—to help their children to act responsibly to take charge of their lives and their futures.

Clinton assigned General Barry McCattrey—the administration is director of drug policy and Frederico 1. Fena, the secretary of transportation, to report back to him in 90 days—well after the election with the plan to require all teenagers to pass a drug test to get a license.

legislation requiring states to have such a program in order to receive their tull share of highway money

Last year Congress took such a step at Clinton's urging on teen agers and alcohol. Under the new law on zero tolerance, for drinking and driving by young people states that do not have such a law within two years risk. 5 percent of then ted etal highway money the tirst year and 10 percent in each subsequent year.

The rule being issued on Monday spells out how stringent states must be to comply with the law

Clinton's proposal on drug tests tor teen ages seeking drivers licenses was promptly denounced by the American Civil Liberties Union

Spitzer of the District of Columbia branch, sard. We just think it some more example of this drug maina gene crazy kids shouldn't be using drugs but there's lots of other things kids shouldn't be doing, and depriving somebody of the ability to drive may mean depriving them of the ability to go to school, get a rob-support their families or do the kinds of things that prevent them from doing drugs.

'Clearly, this whole discussion has occurred at a different level than ever in the last couple of years, said-Dr Timothy Quill a professor of medicine and psychiatry at the University of Rochester in New York and a leader of the movement to make assisted suicide legal

One reason for the pace and seriousness of the legal debate, which has included reterendums in the states of Oregon, Washington and California has been the controversies surrounding Dr. Jack Kevorkian Kevorkian has been present at the suicides of at least 42 seriously ill people since 1990 and was acquitted atter three prosecutions. Widely crit. icized as reckless, Keyorkian has caused even supporters of assisted suicide to call for regulations and caused opponents to declare adamantly that it will never work

But the issue is not just whether patients dving of a disease like AIDS or cancer have the right to have doc tors help end their suttering Instead. all sides say, the more troubling questions involve how social attitudes toward death might change it doctors can help kill a patient inevitably harden. Would a poor person, ill and supported by tederal death said Dr Margaret Pabst Battunds and with no prospect of recoverv. be discouraged from holding out for a natural death? Would an old woman, bedridden in a nursing home, burning through her children's inheritance, be swaved from waiting for her illness to take its course? What kind of pressures doctors for lethal drugs?

Proponents of assisted suicide focus on the individual and what they see as benefits for the terminally ill

What gets encouraged is the individual's responsibility for one's own tin, a protessor of philosophy at the University of Utah, "the comparative control over its timing, the character of it who is there in what setting She added. "It will be an enormous social change

The issue of assisted suicide reached United States Circuit Courts would be brought to bear upon the of Appeals in Oregon and New York most vulnerable people to ask their within months of each other last spring

A Homecoming Celebration

Hosted by Florida State University International Programs

Participating students and faculty are invited to celebrate FSU's 30 years in Florence, 25 years in London, and 16 years in Costa Rica.

3:00 - 5:00 pm Friday, October 25, 1996 Suite 5500, University Center

"It's not just garbage anymore...

Because of state and local regulations, your household waste is divided into categories that are picked up by different trucks and disposed of differently. If you're a City of Tallahassee solid waste customer, you need to separate your waste into the following categories for collection.

hazardous household waste such as food & kitchen waste, packag ing, foil, diapers, cat litter, plastic bags, plas tic bottles not accepted for recycling

RECYCLABLES

In brown paper bags: newspapers, mags zines, catalogs, junk mail, office paper cereal boxes, shoe boxes. In the bin. empty cans, glass bottles & jars, and plas tic beverage bottles (milk, juice, water & soda) No other plastics. No pizza or wax-coated boxes. Most apartment corr piexes have a recycling center for these items. Use paper bags to hold items

APPLIANCES

BULKY ITEMS

Furniture, mattresses. lamos, bikes, lawn chairs swingsets, plastic pools, TVs Managers of apartment complexes have to request special collection of these items

VARD WASTE

In trash bags or small boxes: Vegetative matter such as leaves, pine straw & grass clippings. Stack small limbs (6 feet long, 4 inches in diameter) Managers of apartment complexes have to request special collection

For City customers with residential service, garbage is collected twice a week, recyclables once a week, yard waste (like leaves and small limbs) twice a month, bulky items (like furniture) twice a month, and appliances twice a month. Set them out by 6:30 a.m. on your scheduled collection days, within three feet of the curb and 10 feet away from obstacles. Call us if you don't know your schedule. Keep piles of yard waste, bulky items and appliances at least four feet apart from each other.

FAMU Volleyball on a roll after beginning year 4-12

The Rattlerettes extended their winning streak to eight following a 16-14-15 10. 15-8 win over Florida Memorial Saturday evening at Gaither Gym

Sadly only 45 tans showed up to wit ness the triumph, a telling sign of the season prior to this past week

The win pulls FAMU to 12-12 overall, its best record since a 2-1 start it was the sixth consecutive road win for FAML all coming within a span of eight days. The Rat. tlerettes remain undeteated in the Mid eastern Athlet ic Conterence at 4

Brandi Charleston led the Rattlerettes with 16 kills And Dawn Finley added 12 of her own Iracy Parker led the team in assists (40) and hitting percentage

throughout, it was the detensive our kness that allowed the Rattlerettes to pull away from

Lour Rattlerettes posted double tigures in digs, with Melanie Grant's 19 leading all players. Memorial though, recorded just 54 digs, 38

The win followed up a fough I riday night victory over Jacksonville University 14-16-15 8 15 12 4 15 18 16

I-merald Smith led LAMU that night with 16 kills and Charleston chipped in 14. while Grant led the team with nine blocks

I magainst quotas. I magainst suring anybody any kind at preter each for something they re-not qualified for the said. But because I still believe that there is some discrimination and that not everybody has an opportunity to prove they are qualified. I tayor the right kind of attirmative action.

In tact, as Clinton seeks another term, his advisers and leaders of some liberal groups would argue that his stand on attirmative as tien has shered up support for the policy and ettectively removed the issue and with it race from the presidential cameaien.

land. It's just drappeared

Clinton's advisers have no doubt about why. I think that President Clinton deserves credit for that both for what he did in 1992 and what he's done since—said George Stephanopoulos the semor adviser to Clinton in a recent interview at his ettice—The way he's tarked about civil rights issues has raised the bar for opponents.

From the start, Bill Clinton scenied to be a different kind of politician when it came to civil rights issues.

From early childhood, when he watched his grandtather's respectful and courteous treatment of black patrons at his grocery store in Hope Ark Clinton has exhibited a comfort and case in his personal dealings with members of minority groups. especially blacks. He has displayed. and almost flaunted, his tamiliarity with black culture, black music and black teons. He has looked at home in black churches singing wellknown African-American hymns by heart and even preaching with the adence and idioms of a black Baptist minister banker in Washington who has known Clinton for years recalls at conversation with the president and a number of prominent blacks on Air Force One last lanuary. At one point, Vernon Jordan, Clinton sclose friend and contidant remarked that the president was one of the few white people who knew by heart all three verses of Lift Every Voice and Sing. a hymn often sung at civil rights gatherings and considered the Negro national anthem—by many blacks.

Triest Green, a black investment

I said. Mr President, I beg to ditter You are one of the few people period, who know all three verses. Green said.

Yet as Clinton prepared to take office four years ago, both traditional civil rights groups and their conservative antagonists viewed the occasion with a mixture of hope and trepidation

As a candidate, Clinton had criticized the civil rights record of his Republican predecessors. George Bush and Ronald Reagan, who often seemed hostile or indifferent to civil rights issues. Clinton promised to push for proposals like legislation that would allow people to register to vote when they renewed their driver's licenses or applied for government benefits. He also promised to end discrimination against homosevuals, press for stateheod for the District of Columbia and remove limits on the monetary damages women could win in sex-discrimination stiffs.

But it Clinton was expected to lead liberal civil rights groups out of the political and policy Sinai, here were indications that he might be an uncertain. Moses: He had campaigned as a "new. Democratione more moderate than the Democrats of old."

At times he trumpeted his disagreements with groups like the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People or the National Organization for Women

Clinton spoke a language of racial moderation, said Will Mar shall, director of the Progressive Policy Institute a right-of-center Democratic research and advocacy organization. He spoke of reciprocity-rights and responsibilities—rather than the language of grievance and

In January 1992, a little more than three weeks before the New Hampshire primary. Clinton, then governor of Arkansas, left the campaign trail and went home to approve the execution of Ricky Ray Rector, a black inmate who was mentally impaired, for killing a white police officer. On June 13, 1992, Clinton took the stage at the convention of the National Rainbow Coalition lackson's organization and chastised Sister Souljah, a black rap artist, for flippantly, suggesting that blacks take "a week and kill white people."

In the transition to the presidence Clinton criticized women's groups that were pressing him to appoint more women to his Cabinet, snapping at them for being—bean counters.

Such utterances were unusual coming from a Democrat and caused uneasy teelings among civil rights advocates.

I think the black community felt they had invested heavily in Bill Clinton, had helped to elect him and had big expectations "said Milton Morris, senior vice president of the Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies, a research group

Florida A&M (6-1 overall 4.0 in the Mid-castern Athletic Conference) and head coach Billy Joe had been taking down a let of Maalex latch in winning three consecutive games by the slimmest of margins, one point

UNSUNG HEROES

This week, our Unsung Hero award goes to the entire Rattler defensive coaching staff for their efforts in preparing the team for the Wing-T offense for the third time this year.

Those efforts were indeed successful, as FAMU's defense held the DSU to just six points in the first half en route to a 47-26 win in Dover Saturday.

Congratulations, coaches, on a job well done!

Against Delaware State (2.4. 1-2) the Rattlers would not let it come down to that

Before Hornet tailback Durmont Perry ripped off an 80-yard run with 1.56 to go in the first quarter, FAMU had already put up 23 points

The final score, 47.26, was closer than the game. With the score 47.6 ceach loc called off the dogs and took

Quayle in town to draw votes for Sutton

Democratic candidate Allen Boyd says he thought Quayle was in town to give Republican Sutton "a spelling lesson."

BY KIM DROZE Staff Writer

Former Vice President Dan Quayle will speak in the Florida State University Union courty and today courtesy of the Bill Sutton for Congress campaign.

Sutton will face off against Democrat Allen Boyd for the congressional District 2 seat in the Nov. 5 election.

Although Sutton and Quavie have never met Quavle will speak on his behalt as part of his Southern four promoting Republican candidates for Congress Sutton's campaign manager Drew Maloney said Monday

Quayle has already spoke for at least five congressional candidates

Maloney said Quayle's visit to FSL where he will speak about education, will be beneficial to Sutton's campaign.

"It's not too often the former vice president comes to Tallahassee " Maloney said. "It's a good boost for FSU as well as the Sutton campaign.

But Boyd said he believes Quavle's visit will have little or no impact on the race.

I think voters in North Florida are independent voters who think for themselves. Boyd said

Maloney maintained that a fair percentage of North Florida voters are conservative, which will make Quayle's visit to Tallahassee success-

Boyd said his campaign will not bring in any speakers. He added that he wants to give voters has beliefs, not someone else s

Kantor says Dole a latecomer to campaign finance reform

Hearst Newspapers

WASHINGTON — Commerce Secretary Mickey Kantor on Monday said Republican presidential nominee Bob Dole was a "latecomer" to the light for campaign finance reform who had opposed past reform efforts.

We welcome Bob Dole to the ranks of those who want to reform public financing of campaigns. Kantor told reporters. The senator was the major reason in the past why we couldn't get campaign finance reform in Congress.

Kantor said Dole's new support for campaign finance reform means that "we might finally see changes in the system. I'm delighted that Sen. Dole is finally seeing the light."

Dole reversed his long standing opposition to campaign finance retorm on Sunday tollowing disclosures that the Democratic National Committee accepted contributions from Indonesian billionaire Mocheta Riady chief of the Lippo Group U.S. laws bar political contributions from foreign nation als according to a spokesman for the Federal Election Commission, who noted that a loophole allows foreign nationals to contribute money if they are legally living in the country at the time.

Dole said that, if elected, he would appoint a bipartisan commission to craft a campaign finance plan that would bar non-citizens from contributing and would ban 'soft money' — funds contributed to national parties to get around strict limits to candidate.

It you re not eligible to vote, you shouldn't be permitted to make a contribution, period said Dole, hammering away at the Riady contribution. During his Senate career, Dole repeatedly joined other Republicans in killing or delaying campaign finance legislation

This year for example. Dole was instrumental in delaying consideration of a bipartisan campaign finance bill. The measure, which eventually died would have banned special interest political actions committees, set spending limits on congressional campaigns, and require broadcasters to provide inexpensive television and radio time.

Tips for paying less without living less

c 1996 Roth Vete York Times News Service

Have you ever been on a diet? Most of us can answer ves to that one I liken becoming trugal to going on a diet

It you go on an extreme diet you re going to teel deprived and you won't stick with it A common sense approach works better

The same is true of the more extreme suggestions put torth in the name of frugality nowadays. People who reuse dryer lint or who make wind chimes with the metal lids of freren juice containers are using garbage to make garbage

The right approach is practical pireimony a way of thinking It s mply means buying only what you need Or want. And buying it used whenever possible

Here are some tips for saving money that you can incorporate without dread into your daily activ-

READING

The best was to read cheap at course is to use the library Howev er paperback books at (successful) garage sales rarely exceed 25 cents in most towns, there are used book stores where you can trade those books once you've read them. Gen erally you get about one tourth of the cover price in trade, and the stores prices will generally be halt the cover price

By buying used books you can save money and read on your own schedule without having to worry about library late fine-

PUMPING FUEL INTO YOUR CAR

It your car is like mine (the tamous Oldsmobile) and balks and pings at the mere thought of running on regular unleaded try what I do 1 let the fuel run down to half a tank then I till the tank alternate's with premium and regular unlead ed. This approach is not as good as having a car that will run in regular unleaded, but it is a lot better than buying premium unleaded every tim

GETTING BETTER MEALS WHEN YOU TRAVEL BY AIR

It you have had the standard air line meal lately you are already aware that most airlines have gone cheap as far as food is concerned.

It you wind up on a flight that serves a meal, you can get more for your money by asking for a special meal when you make your reservations. Most airlinus offer low-cholesterol vegetarian and other varieties, almost any of which will be better than the standard meal. There's no extra charge, and you don't even have to be lewish to ask for the kinher mes

TOSSING USED BATTERIES

Don't throw out those dead AA batteries right away Remove them from say your Walkman and

These clocks take such a small amount of power that batteries too weak to run anything else may have enough power to run a clock - for a while

USING UTILITIES

Watch your thermostat! It your house is empty while you are at work turn your heat down before you leave. The minimum setting for most home thermostats is St degrees I which is high enough to keep your pipes from free ing Make this part of your leaving for work routine (coffee pot unplugged stove off doors locked thermostat lowered) and it will become automatic

New York Times News Service

COLL MRIA SC - When Susan A Christie teaches state employees about the new federal welfare law she clucks her tongue and moves her hand to imitate the action of a metronome

You have got to hear that clock ticking she said in a three-day workshop for 24 case managers. You must have a sense of ungency. There is a five-year litetime limit on welfare under the new federal law a two-year limit for most families in South Carolina. We can't let them languish Time is a-wasting

The new law is forcing state officials to change the culture of welfare agencies around the country, shifting the focus from the determination of eligibility and the issuance of checks to employment and jobs. Unless weltare case managers make this change, the new law has no chance of success.

For many case workers as for many welfare recipients, the change will be traumatic. State employees must now collaborate with welfare recipients and help them find jobs, a goal that may be thwarted it case workers are too paternalistic

Ms Christie the director of professional development at the American Public Weltare Association, an organization of state and local officials and welfare polics experts hops around the country training employees in different states, she told her class here. We ve been treating clients like children. But children don't get jobs-Children get taken care of by their parents. We must treat clients as adults not as children. To tell people the new rules is a very adult thing to do."

Social service agencies, once a backwater of state government have become a testing ground for the biggest experiment in social weltare policy since the New Deal

Striding round the classroom here with a purpose tul, no-nonsense manner. Ms. Christie asked students You know who s going to get people sobs under weltare reform' I'm locking at you You should feel some weight on your shoulders. The president isn't going to get somebody trob Congress isn't going to get somebody a tob. There are folks in this country who don't think states can pull this net But I do You can make this piece of logislation come along

In state plans tilled recently with the tederal govern ment Ari to Kentucky Nebriska Oklahema and I tall Ill affirmed the need the cultural change

Changing the culture of the weltare office to support work and self-sufficiency requires that the philosophy and purp at the program change the Unih plan and. Housepul assistance is seen as a support service to emible adults to participate in employment related activities pell as in criticipent

James I Clark director of South Carolina's Depart months will write and The biggest challenge has as is to charge the culture, the oureauctory of writing Case winters have and throughout the country any disliked become in face the next contains demonstrage day hire new

has decreased if persons to the holdown states to $15,000. But in a sign of the new employees or results. Clark wards told social serviced many morphists because a 450 ments from the performance was to solute fors in pirt because their had not placed youngh we have propietts of aids

Under the aid from Ms. Chronic sand a mel workers could be your persons or effect. I make here I have the money There seems long you want. And for many case managers of the control of green up that kind of power

In Washington, tentering our course on still debating the ments of the reason of the law some theral Democrats still express will nev bey also then see the law as impost or immoral, a betray is of the nation sublights in to the poer-State officials, espirally those on the first lines do not have the luxury of criticisms the new policy. They are supposed to make it work and their concerns are

Enzabeth E. Müller, a case manager for South Carolihas Department of Social Services in rural Ramwell is trying to figure out how weltare recipients will get to sobs because we have no public transportation, no taxis

Lawerence lackson, a case manager in Bishopville SC said. The paperwork keeps growing and growing. In addition to the old forms for determining eligibility we now have a whole new set of paperwork for weltare reform - employment plans individual selfsufficiency plans, referrals to job clubs and so on

Case managers still have all the old duties interview ing applicants, ventying income and expenses, assessing eligibility visiting welfare recipients in their homes

In the past-weltare mothers were entitled to public assistance regardless of whether they worked, but under the new law, they must work within two years of receiving aid

Charlene D. Garner, a case manager in Charleston, S.C. said. A lot of people seem to think they re owed that mores

And Ms. Christie asked. "Why shouldn't they think that' We ve called it an entitlement. But it's not an entitlement anymore

Ms. Christie, a former weltare official in Utah and Colorado tells case workers here that the behavior of welfare recipients is not right or wrong, good or bad except as it helps or hinders them in getting jobs

Think of your clients as unemployed people not as weltare mommas she said. Make work the pre-eminent theme of all your interactions with clients Case managers seem to have got the message. They celebrate each success. When a client gets a job we all holler and scream, the whole office," Ms. Miller said.

Although the tederal law sets a litetime limit of five years on welfare payments to any family states may set stricter omits. And South Carolina has chosen to do so. with a two-year limit for most families

Because welfare recipients go over the clift in two years. Ms. Christie said, state agencies can no longer be slow in providing the services needed to get jobs. A welfare recipient who needs counseling from a 30b coach or instruction in English as a second language cannot wait six months, she said

John C. Walker a welfare worker for 13 years, handies cases in Richland County which includes Columbia. Farts of this county are like a third-world country We Honduras he said. A family that's been on well tare for two or three generations will have real trouble finding jobs

But Walker added. The concept behind these neterms should have been in place 20 years ag . The old weiten system tostered dependents. It was dehum in ing It sucht people to be are and the its We ve been adding surselves in think that people can live on Charleston S.C. or $159 a morth

Jazz great Joe Lovano graces Tallahassee

BY JOHN BUSCH

Because of his amazing dexterity within the realm of Jazz tenor saxophonist loe Lovano has received overwhelming critical praise for his ability to play almost any style within the genre with the utmost of easy.

The iazz artist of the year as chosen by Pown Beat magazine, and this year's Housewright Enument Scholar at Florida State University. Joe Lovano is paying a three-day visit to FSU. His visit entails several masterclasses on subjects such as improvisation iazz harmony and iazz composition. Lovano's stay will conclude with a concert at 8 tought at FSU's Opperman Music Hall.

loe Lovano was born in Cleveland. Ohio. in 1952 and began plaving the alto saxophone as a young child under the guiding hand of his tather tenor saxophonist Tony. Big T. Lovano

Big T* instructed Lovano in the basics of theory, harmony and interpretation and exposed him to the great saxaphonists traveling through Cleveland.

Lovano is a great advocate of learning the style of other musicians, and not just those who play one's own instrument. He encourages listening to other instrumentalists, especially rhythm sections.

Teaching yourself to play is also about learning other instruments." Lovano said during one of his masterclasses. "You always want to develop to become the most expressive player You're always going to be a student of music, you're always going to be building."

Lovano suggested listening to Thelonious Monk to learn about the attack and release of notes. Charlie Parker and Dizzy Gillespre for phrasing and suggested Miles Davis for style and teeling.

Learning from the greats is important but musicians should find their own style. Lovano said

Don't copy but learn to be inspired by these people—he said

Lovano entered the jazz world early on, as he began attending jam sessions while still a teenager. After high school. Foxano went to the tamous Berklee's hool Of Music in Boston, where he began playing with inture greats and collaborators John Scotteld and Bill Frisell. At Berklee, Lovano discovered modal harmony which expand ed his view about what was possible in the world of music.

Lovano's first professional job found him recording in New York City—where he now resides—with organist Lonnie Smith. A three-year four with the Woody Herman.

Big Band followed. After returning to the Big Apple Lovano set thed into a regular job with the Mel Lewis Orchestra which included six albums and gigs with some of the best jazz artists in New York.

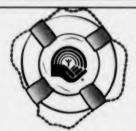

Joe Lovano conducts a masterclass on creative composition in jazz (above) followed by a demonstration as he plays one of his tunes (right)

> Joe Lovano will be teaching a free masterclass today from 10:10 to 11 a.m. in room 114 of the Houseweight Building at FSU, Tonight's concert will be held at Opperman Music Hall at 8 p.m. Call 644-6500 for more information.

William Floyd, Terrell Owens key in San Francisco comeback Sunday

c.1996 San Francisco Chronicle

SAN FRANCISCO - They were the unlikeliest of heroes on one of the unlikeliest of atternoons

William Floyd whose tootball career was given up for dead a year ago and Terrell Owens, a training camp rookie phenom since consigned to the sidelines were in the middle of the emotional swirl that ended in Sunday's improbable comebackwin

Owens hit the jackpot in his first NFL start. He caught a 45-yard touchdown pass from Steve Young with 2:08 left to tie the score at 21-21 in a game the 49ers had been losing.

It was a go route "said Owens. playing for the injured and slumpridden [1] Stokes. He wanted to take the pattern down the outside but cornerback Ashley Ambrose, who already had an interception was playing him there So Owens cut just inside of Ambrose, got a step and was off to the end zone.

Once you have a step on the DB you just keep going. Owens said. 1 was looking for the ball to come over my shoulder, and I had to concentrate on the catch

He seemed to juggle it for an instant, and Ambrose in desperation. tried to strip the ball - as satety Bo Orlando had done to Owens on his first catch of the day to cause the 49ers' first lost fumble of the season

It was not an auspicious beginning, but Owens ended the game with tour receptions for 94 yards, a statistic that pleased Jerry Rice asmuch as it pleased Owens

They re going to have to cover him now. Rice said. Maybe (the defenses) will back off me a little.

Ambrose was supposed to have gotten help from Orlando on the touchdown play, but instead the safety elected to shade to Rice's side of the field

The first-quarter drop was still in Owens mind as Ambrose was shaking him down

I was kind of leery of that being that I got stripped (earlier). he said Coach was telling me once I had my hands on the ball to squeeze it and hold onto it. So that's what I was try

Police shooting reveals deep-seated animosity

Staff Writer

Last week police went into the Fbons Gardens housing project at 1010 N Machinib St. to investigate a report that people were tighting with guns and knives The scenario was not all that uncommor for that area, but what happened next was

When officers had to take down young man in the project who was suspect ed of having a pistol-several people began velong at the officers complaining police wen too rough

From what people to done the police threw him dewit hard said Will Taylor who lives in the Macimb Street complex That's just the way they handle black tivik

Within minutes, some 1st people were throwing his ks and Buttles and shouting insults and threats at policy.

We took him into curt sits and just got out of there. Tallishassee Police Depart ment spekeswoman Rhereta Soitt said this week She said the police officers were not

Folks who live in the 1/13 unit housing complex say the ruckus was not simply over the way the young man was taken into custody. but it also was about the shooting death two weeks earlier of 19-year-old George Nuke Williams by a police officer

They were mad about the way the bey was arrested (last week) but the shooting paved the way for the riot to happen," said Gloria Swanson, a resident of the complex

A Leon County grand jury is expected to wrap up two days of testimony today in the case involving Ofc Lawrence Revell, who police say shot and killed Williams. Will Taylor and some other black residents of housing projects around town say they do not think the the grand jury will get a full picture of what happened on the night of the shooting On Sept. 27 officers were attempting to arrest Williams at the Springfield Apartment Complex on Ioe Louis Street, when Williams tried to flee in a car

More than 100 FSU students gathered in the Union to hear Quayle.

Quayle says vote Sutton

BY KIM DROZE

Staff Writer

Despite his late arrival from a delayed plane, at least 100 Florida State University students hung around to hear former Vice President Dan Quavle make a plug for U.S. Congress District 2 Republican candidate Bill Sutton and presidential candidate Bob

"Is this crowd pumped up? Is Bill Sutton going to be the next congressman? Are we going to elect Bob Dole as the next president?" Quayle asked the cheering students.

"Let's rust do it." he shouted

Quayle's trip to FSU was part of a Southern tour to support Republican congressional candidates. His next stop will be in Ft. Lauderdale

Flooding ravages New England

BOSION - After three days of forrential rains, people all over New England were pumping out flooded basements Tuesday while in parts of New Hampshire and Maine commuters were taking detours around

Water main breaks had left Portland. Maine, and its surrounding suburbs without water for no one knows how long. Area schools were closed, and officials also urged all businesses to close

The river meanwhile was still rising in one of the hardest hit towns. Exeter N.H. where dozens of homes were evacuated Monday after a record 15 inches of rain-States of emergency were still in effect for parts of Maine, Massachusetts and all of New Hampshire

30 percent of Americans had no health care last year

A new study by researchers at the Harvard School of Public Health says that 31 percent of Americans were without health insurance or had difficulty getting or paying for medical care at some time in the last year

The study to be reported in Wednesday's issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association, involved telephone interviews with 3.993 randomly selected

Problems in getting needed medical care affect about 1" million uninsured adults and 1" million insured adults in America - the researchers said - Problems in paying medical bills are reported by 13 million uninsured and 17 million insured Americans

Doctors report blood pressure drug not safe

WASHINGTON Medical emergencies caused by very high blood pressure are often treated with a drug that is neither safe nor effective for the condition, doctors reported Inesday

Use of the drug, the short-acting form of mfedipine, has become standard practice in many emergency rooms and offices even though 11 years ago an advisory committee of the Food and Drug Administration unanimously recommended the drug not be used for such emergencies On Tuesday in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Franz H. Messerli of the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans and three other doctors are urging a halt to this use of short acting nitedipine. marketed as Procardia by Ptizer Inc. and Adalat, by the Bayer company. They said their review of medical jourhals shows that patients have suffered strokes, heart attacks and other serious, sometimes tatal, complications after taking the drug

Researchers: Electric pump can improve treatment of diabetes

An electronic pump the size of a hockey puck can greatly improve the treatment of diabetes researchers are reporting Wednesday in The Journal of the American Medical Association Surgically implanted under the skin and programmed to release insulin into the abdominal cavity the pump frees patients from having to give themselves shots several times a day to lower the high levels of blood sugar that are the hallmark of the disease

The pump manufactured by MiniMed Technologies, Inc. of Sylmar, California, is still experimental, but would become available in 1998 it approved by the Food and Drug Administration. The cost is estimated at about $10,000, in addition to the cost of surgery to implant it

Dole adds new element to economic package

WASHINGTON - Bob Dole has added a potentially far-reaching and controversial new element to his economic package, promising that he would act immediate ly to exempt from capital gains taxes any inflationinduced increase in the value of land, homes, businesses, stocks or other assets

Dole was acting at the behest of his running mate, Jack Kemp, who argued that the policy will spur eco nomic growth by freeing trillions of dollars of wealth currently locked up in properties that people do not want to sell because of the taxes they would have to pay

Kemp has been talking about the new policy in campaign speeches for several weeks and Dole gave it a pub lic, if backhanded, endorsement Monday

Clinton holding back on partisan appeals

Something is conspicuously missing from Bill Clinton's speeches in these concluding weeks of the 1996 campaign. As much as he wants his party to recapture control of the Senate and the House of Representatives on Nov. 5, he is careful to avoid explicitly partisan appeals

Voters are suspicious of partisanship, said one of the president's aides. "So he is not going to go out there and ask them to give him a Democratic Congress so he can push through a Democratic program. You can't throw it in people's faces that way at least in his view, or you'll remind a lot of them that they dirather not see a concentration of power in one party's hands

The degree to which we succeed in this is the degree to which we don't push the issue too hard.

One more runoff, thanks to new FSU card

BY JASON BLACK Staff Writer

Some 459 votes for recent student government elections were not counted, the Florida State University Hections Commission declared Juesday But the tive-member commission decided to let stand nearly all of the results from the Sept. 25 general election and Oct. 2 run-ott.

The missing votes were the result of the recent reissuance of FSU Cards which are given to all students. During the recent conversion from old to new FSU Cards, some students were reassigned new card numbers

Because the database tailed to match correctly students new and old numbers 227 general election votes and 229 run-off votes were not

The computer assumed that those students weren't registered. said election commission member Russell Hellem "We didn't know the system would do this, the SG isn't involved at all, actually we just accidentally found the problem

The problem affected only two seats in the general election, business Seat 3 and undergraduate Seat I but did not significantly change the results of those races, the commission tound in a 3-1 vote

The results of the social science Seat 2 run off election was altered enough to warrant a special Oct 30 run-off the commission decided in a 4 | vote

concern that more problems would persist if the two attected general election seats were put to another election

It we tollow through with contesting the seats, you open the door to a lot more problems said Rich Templin, a commission member and student senate president.

Whoever's party it attects will be pissed, and the person in question will miss out on the election of a new senate president at (tonight's) senate inauguration, Templin added

But commission member lane DeWeisse said letting the general election results stand could upset the losing candidates in the attected

What happens when a person tinds out the numbers and contests?' DeWeisse said before moving to validate the two general election scat results

In the attected run off seat the card problem had given one candi date 51 percent of the vote, and thus a victory But, by adding the missing ballots, the candidate's percentage moved down to 50 percent, torcing the special election next week

The run off won't affect mauguration said student senator Steve Thomas "All we need to maugurate is 75 percent of the senate, and one seat won't stop that "

No promises

You would think that legislative candidates hungry for as many supporters as possible would be eager to make pledges that would make them appear tavorable to voters

But Karen Woodall, a social services lobbyist who serves as chair of a statewide Health and Human Services Advisory Committee, has tound most of the state's candidates to be pretty tight-lipped about making promises - at least written ones

Woodall has been going door-to-door asking candidates to sign a pledge against voting for budget cuts that would strip money from programs that aid children, the elderly, the poor and the disabled those citizens who don't have the money to send lobbyists to the capitol to plead their case with fancy dinners, campaign contributions and other politically motivated fellatio techniques

And imagine what Woodall tound? It seems that only six or seven candidates replied in time to meet her deadline. But really, the cold, hard reality is that politicians in the capital want the poor and needy to behave like homosexuals in the military - in other words, don't Just look at the track record. In the last session, legislators had $900 million in new revenue. Yet they still managed to slice $415 million. from budgets that provide services to the state's neediest residents And people in Tallahassee wonder why "vagrants plague Tennessee Street. to com a bigoted phrase from the Tallahassee Democrat.

Oh well, at least we can count on legislators to provide plenty of new jail space for everyone. We don't even need a lobbyist to make

U.S. District Court Judge Wilkie Ferguson Jr. of Miami ordered Monday that Miami Herald reporter David Kidwell be released from the l'alm Beach County Detention Center atter 14 days behind bars

Well, thankee Judge Ferguson. But we remain a bit puzzled as to why it took a tederal judge, rather than state officials, to bring some sense to this ridiculous jailing

Kidwell was wrongtully jailed by Circuit Judge Roger Colton atter Kidwell placed principal before convenience and refused to answer questions about his 1994 jail interview with John Zile, who is charged with first-degree murder in the death of his 7-year-old stepdaughter. Christina Holt

The state's 4th District Court of Appeal had denied a request to stay kidwell's 70-day contempt sentence pending an appeal By so doing, the 4th DCA showed that it's composed of the same kind of backwood ilk as Colton

Thus, the need for Monday's hearing before Judge Ferguson, who questioned why Kidwell should be called to testify when the state already possessed a heffy bit of other evidence, including a confes-

The legal profession should be ashamed that a reporter has to spend any time in jail for doing his job and that the teds had to come in to restore some semblance of sanity to the state's court procedures

On Saturday Oct 19, at 5 p.m. I was involved in a vehicle accident at the intersection of West Call and North Monroe streets and had to be taken to the hospital by ambulance. I would like to thank the members of the Tallahassee Police and Fire Departments, the paramedies. the hospital statt and the private citizens who rendered assistance in a difficult situation. Far too often, assistance in these types of situations goes unrecognized, but as an individual who benefitted from your actions. I say "thank you. At this time the case has been lett unresolved, and I am hopeful that anyone who witnessed the accident will come torward with further information. I was driving a blue Mercury Cougar was traveling east on Call, and was struck on the driver's side of my vehicle, by a red vehicle traveling south on Monroe I noted that there were cars stopped in the inner northbound lane of Monroe and am hopeful that someone who witnessed the right ct way let the stop light will come forward

Immediately after the accident, two individuals came to my ossistance, and I am grateful to them. I remember my interactions with both of them. A gentleman had a phone and called for help, and a lady checked with me to see it I was injured. After responding to her inquiry. I requested confirmation of the right-of-way of the stoplight asking for confirmation of the fact that I had the green light and the other vehicle the red light.

She stated that she had witnessed the accident, I had the green light, that the accident was not my fault and that I should try and place my car in park and remain still until the paramedies arrived. The police report shows no record of this person's confirmation of my right-of-way. and I am now faced with trying to find this individual or any other person who might have witnessed this accident. At this time, due to this lack of confirmation, the case is being left unresolved. I am in a difficult situation, of no fault of my own, and I am hopeful that someone will come torward with information

Again, thank you to all who rendered assistance, and it you have any information about the accident, please call me at 222-1311 or 644-350"

Because of state and local regulations, your household waste is divided into categories that are picked up by different trucks and disposed of differently. If you're a City of Tallahassee solid waste customer, you need to separate your waste into the following categories for collection.

GARBAGE

In your garbage can or dumpeter Bags of nonhazardous household waste such as food & kitchen waste, packag ing, foil, diapers, cat litter, plastic bags, plastic bottles not accepted for recycling

RECYCLABLES

In brown paper bags newspapers, magazines, catalogs, junk mail, office paper, cereal boxes, shoe boxes. In the bin empty cans, glass bottles & jars, and plas tic beverage bottles (milk, Juice, water & soda) No other plastics. No pizza or wax-coated boxes. Most apartment complexes have a recycling center for these items. Use paper bags to hold items

Old washers, dryers, refrigerators (doors removed), water heaters, stoves, air conditioners. Managers of apartment complexes have to request special collection of these items

BULKY ITEMS

Furniture, mattresses, lamps, bikes, lawn chars. swingsets, plastic pools, TVs. Managers of apartment complexes have to request special collection of these items

YARD WASTE

In trash bags or small boxes. Vegetative matter such as leaves, pine straw & grass clippings. Stack small limbs (6 feet long, 4 inches in diameter). Managers of apartment complexes have to request special collection of these items.

For City customers with residential service, garbage is collected twice a week, recyclables once a week, yard waste (like leaves and small limbs) twice a month, bulky items (like furniture) twice a month, and appliances twice a month. Set them out by 6:30 a.m. on your scheduled collection days, within three feet of the curb and 10 feet away from obstacles. Call us if you don't know your schedule. Keep piles of yard waste, bulky items and appliances at least four feet apart from each other.

School Board sees another emotional night of debate

BY KIM DROZE Staff Writer

A Lincoln High School senior expelled by the Leon County School Board last week for allegedly sexually assaulting a girl had bis case brought to the table again last night after an intensely heated debate

Henry Hunter, the student's attorney, argued with the board that new information had been discovered since the student's expulsion. He said the funcion High football star should be allowed back in school until the School Board could hold another hearing to review the new evidence.

But the School Board voted the same way it did last week, in a 3-2 vote to keep the student out. It also shot down a motion by School Board member Curtis Richardson to hold a special meeting to reconsider the board's decision and examine the new evidence.

Hunter did not pursue an injunction at a court hearing scheduled for Tuesday afternoon. The injunction could have overridden last week's School Board decision to expel the student, enabling the student to stay in school until his December trial.

Hunter said he was told by School Board attorney Graham Carothers that the tive members of the school board would receive facsimiles of the new information it it was tiled with the school board clerk before noon on Tuesday

School board members said they had not seen any intermation until the beginning of Tuesday night's workshop meeting.

But during a news broadcast before the meeting, School Board Chair Donna Harper questioned why the new evidence had not been brought forward at the first hearing last week

Nonetheless, Harper said at the board meeting that it would not have been appropriate for her to discuss the information she had been given before the meeting. She added that she had not had enough time to study the information.

I was provided with that information by a private business (the news station). Harper said

Supporters of the student, who turned out Tuesday night in hopes that he would be let back in school. Said they were outraged by the school board's failure to read nut hom.

Tuesday night's board meeting was the last for two of the board members who had voted to expel the teen, which means only Harper can bring the matter up again before the board. That's because board policy only permits a board member who voted with the majority on an issue to recommend the issue be reconsidered by the board.

The student's tather accused Harper of playing judge and jury saving she has too much power. He added that Harper has taken away his son's college and profession al career.

He knows he hasn't done it and has been charged with something he knows he has not done. The said

The school board previously ruled to let the student attend a second-chance school, but the young man's tather said he is adamantly opposed to the idea. Cur rently he his looking into home schooling for his son

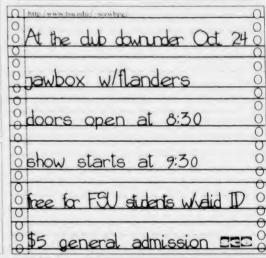

Too many kids don't need to be (in second chance school), 'he said. 'It's said. I'm not down on the instructors, but they get cheated out of their childhood, especially if they don't deserve to be there."

Barbara flobbs, another attorney representing the student, said that their next step is to take the student's case to the 1st District Court of Appeal, where they will appeal the board's decision

It's the good old boys." Hobbs said, reterring to the three board members who expelled the teen. It's a joke We're not going to get anywhere (with the board).

Homosexual relationships can be ravaged by abuse, study says

BY VICKI HADDOCK
San Francisco Examiner

SAN FRANCISCO — Gays and lesbians are more likely to be victims of downstte violence than artir-gay violence, Suggests a survey released Tuesday by the National Coalition of Anti-Violence Programs.

Yet the findings indicate that most gays and leabians injured by a lover never report the abuse, much less see their batterers brought to justice. The survey seeks to document that little acknowledged truth that homosexual relationships can be ravaged by abuse just as heterosexual relationships sometimes are. It comes as the San Francisco district attorney's office is launching a campaign to heighten awareness of the crime in gay and lesbian relationships, and as local activists are on the verge of creating a hotel voucher program to shelter male victims.

Last year. San Francisco's Community United Against Violence, which participated in the survey, logged reports from 347 people who called its hotline seeking help from same-see domestic violence. At the same time, CUAV reported 324 incidents of anti-gav harassment—from insults to violence—motivated in part by the victim's sexual orientation.

The survey, which bills itself as the first national set of statistics on lesbian and gay domestic violence, is really an unscientific tabulation by community activists in six American cities. Chicago, Columbus, Minneapolis, New York City. San Diego and San Francisco. Combined, they documented 1,566 incidents. Activists in four of the six cities logged more cases of domestic violence than anti-gay hate violence.

Yet the gay community has been slower to rally around the cause of donests violence, in part fearing it would feed into prejudices about the nature of ear relationships.

The time has come for us to contront domestic violence as bravely as we have hate violence," said Costance Potter of the Gay and Lesbian Community Action Council in Minneapolis. Indeed, CUAV insists that the number of domestic violence reports logged last year in San Francisco represents only a tiny fraction of the actual incidents of abusive relationships among gay lesbian bisexual and transgender victims.

The district attorney's office reported handling at most a dozen cases

It a case makes it to the (police department's) domestic violence unit it's handled very well, said Greg Merrill, CUAN's director of client services. And the prosecuting DAs are excellent. The problem is people don't report that they revictims—and it they do it's a crapshoot whether they get a responding police officer who handles the case appropriately.

Researchers only recently have begun to explore same sex domestic violence. A study presented at the Fourth International Family Violence Research Conterence found that abusive gay men held many of the same psychological traits as abusive straight men, poor self-esteem and an inability to sustain intimate relationships.

Other studies of abusive lesbian relationships report that batterers tend to be overly dependent, using violence to squelch their partners' independence, and that alcohol and drugs often figure into the abuse

The National Coalition of Anti-Violence Programs estimates from its review of the scanty research that domestic violence occurs in a quarter to a third of same-sex relationships.

One 50-year-old artist, identified in a CUAV testimonial as Ben Abraham, said after enduring 18 years of abuse at the hands of his lover—whom he said beat him and regularly pointed loaded guns to threaten him—he walked out for good, moved and got counseling.

Alliance of GOP and Cuban Americans shows rift

BY MIREYA NAVARRO New York Times News Service

MIAMI - At a recent citizenship ceremony Rep. Ileana Ros-Lehtinen called the 2,500 immigrants from 83 countries taking the oath of allegiance "the embodiment of the American dream" and assured them that 'the promise of America is so great because of people like VOU

The words came from a Republican, but they contrasted sharply with the message the Republicanled Congress has been sending from Washington with the passage of measures like the tederal legislation that limited weltare benefits for legal immigrants

Ms Ros-Lehtinen voted against that bill, and also broke with her party over the immigration bill and the measure that would declare English the nation's official language Her rebellion underscores the disenchantment of Cuban-Americans with Republicans, a demographic group the party has long taken for granted

Now Cuban-Americans may help elect the first Democratic presidential candidate to win Florida since linimy Carter in 1976

President Clinton is scheduled to visit Florida on Tuesday and Wednesday, making stops in Miami-Coral Gables and Daytona Beach The latest Mason Dixon Florida poll shows him and his Republican challenger. Bob Dole in a statistical dead heat - 47 percent for the incumbent and 44 percent for Dole.

centage points Among Cuban-Americans a majority would still vote for Dole, statewide polls show But there are cracks in their alliance with the Republican Party

A survey in August by Dario Moreno, a political scientist at Horida International University, in Miami, found that although Clinton gets the support of barely a quarter of Cuban-Americans, only 57 percent would vote for Dole, compared with the 72 percent who voted for George Bush in 1992

The Republican nominee prevailed in the state in 1988-1984 and 1980, with 80 percent or more of

Although Cuban-Americans about 7 percent of the statewide electorate, are not usually critical as a voting bloc in Florida, which Clinton lost in 1992 by 100,000 votes, a shitt in Cuban-American support could help close that gap (Other Hispanics make up another 3 percent of the electorate but tend to split their vote between the two

TICKE I ASTER

Ms. Ros-Lehtmen broke with her party over the same issues that have turned off many Hispanic Republicans. She refused to sign the Republicans' 1994 campaign agenda, the Contract With America, over provisions she called "a stab in the back of immigrants

'Our Republican Party is send ing mixed messages," said Ms. Ros-Lehtinen, who emigrated from Cuba in 1971. "In San Diego we say we're the party of inclusion, and yet the legislation we're putting forth seems to go against those statements.

But she and other political analysts agree that although Cuban American voters may thirt with the Democrats this year, in the end they will resist seduction. Clinton, they note signed the welfare bill He signed the Helms Burton bill that discouraged toreign investment in Cuba, but he has so far delayed allowing lawsuits against companies that use confiscated US property in Cuba

I'm not sure Clinton is going to get all of the vote that Dole is los ing," said Moreno, an expert on Hispanic voting patterns. The real ditference is that you don't have the automatic support for the GOP'

Despite her disagreements with her party. Ms Ros-Lehtinen is actively campaigning for Dole, She said Hispanic voters are still attract ed to the party that emphasizes family values, eschews new taxes and includes lack Kemp, who as housing secretary established solid ties in South Flortda and who is regarded as a softer voice on numority issues

We're still a family and there's no cause for divorce " she said

But Clinton has benefited from Dole's attention to other states at the expense of Horida, and from his own quick response to Cuba's shooting down of two civilian planes belonging to an exile group

Democrats point out that after Clinton showed a hard line toward Cuba by signing the Helms Burton bill, he removed toughness with Cuba as the main reason for Cuban Americans to vote Republican

That's certainly his position, pro-growth " Dilger said "But he finds a way to get both sides of a party to a middle road

He looks out for long-term interests and implications." he added

Host received contributions as high as $500 from an array of groups including contractors, investors, builders, the Tallahassee Builder's Association and the Realtor's Political Action Committee

Wright received $4,092 in campaign contributions. His largest contribution is $3,500 which he lists as a loan in his name

Wright is not owned by any one said Randie Denker, a local attorney who contributed $50 toward Wright's campaign. He has not taken money from special inter-

Denker said Wright's vote is needed to fill the void left by Carol Kio Green's defeat last month. The election is Nov 5

I ve never seen such a prodevelopment environment on the commission as exists right new Denker said. I think it's more critical than ever that we get people like Wright that care about these issues and aren't bought and paid for by development

Clitton Lewis, who contributed $100 toward Wright's campaign said Wright has intelligence integrity and a love for the environment

In regards to a recent environmental forum, Lewis said Wright "not only gave the right answers

I m not anti-development, but I want responsible development, said Herring, who said she donates money to candidate forums instead of individual candidates

(Wright's) platform is responsi ble growth, with consideration for the environment," she said. "That's the platform I feel most comfortable with as a resident of the county

Outkast crafts hip-hop southern style

BY KALON HOPKINS Flambeau Writer

Somewhere below the Mason-Dixon line, aging bebop tans wearing taded dashikis and scutted platform shoes sip on mason jars of chilled White Lightning, and rap about the refusal to believe that the eld jazz-based soul is dead.

As they listen to Sonny Rollins on reflective black was, suddenly through the pearl gray smoke of reter trapped in the screened in parch they see the landing of Atliens. Out from the musical time machine. Outkast abslices them and takes them on a ultimate hip-hop journey.

Reports say that there will be another Outkast sighting at the Moon tonight at 9

This rap duo gave Atlanta its first serious consideration from hip-hop heads nationwide with the 1994 plat inum debut album "Southernplayalisticadillacmuzik."

This was a record that not only was an honest celebration of laid back southern living patterned on the melodi. "Dis stivings of Curtis Mayfield, Isaac Hayes and the like, but it was successful. The album's first single, "Player's Ball," went gold in a matter of weeks, holding down the No. 1 spot on the Billboard rap chart for six consecutive weeks. In short, Outkast showed the music industry that the South could definitely hold it's own when it was time to grab the mic.

In a September interview in The Atlanta Journal Constitution, Outkast's Big Box explained this southern style

"That album was basically us describing the southern litestyle. We had to introduce ourselves and our crew grappers | Goodie Mob and | producers | Organized Noize and let everybody know that there was something going on here besides that booty—shake music they bear in the stringlish."

Black and untapped as kids, the two 21 year olds

Antonic Big Boo Pattern and Andre Do Benjamin tell victim to a negative lifestyle like so many criban youth as a means of survival. This lifestyle partially explains the depth conotion and introday of the lyrics and the concept behind. Moreone their second and latest album—which corresponds with the meaning behind Outless.

The group's name Outker te presents, somebody on the outside of the inner rowd, the mainstream. It is a label for insiquence or theree, and can also portray innovation and difference, as Big Box sixs.

On CD. Elevator—the first single from their new LP, coments their pre—to in the hip hop scene with conscious verse, about the realities of coming up in hips hop and the many traps that conform you on the way with a catchy blook that hyprotizes you to chant along—the and you your monuma and your consins too Rollin down the strip on vogues. Comin. up slammin' Cadillac doors.

Smooth background vocals compliment the drums and gutar fiels on "Tazzybelle" a track that comments on the plaght of black women in the Arrian-American community and the group's concerns about its future Sample less, the Arlien cut No. 4. Wheelz of Steel spawned from great soul music, adds a hard edged hip-hop attitude. The fitle track and "Babylon" guide the listener into Big Boi and Dre's words of pagged-edged real ism.

With pumping rhythms coming from out of this world, Outkast will abduct an entirely new group of listeners, carrying them to a new dimension of sight, sound and mind.

Outkast raps at the Moon tonight with special guests India. The 18-plus show is tree to FSU students and $10 for all others. Doors open at 9 p.m. and the show starts at 10 p.m. Call 878-8900 for more.

Baccone Dolce - Barbecurd Cats (Mos Records/Moon Records)

Nothing about local ska band Baccone Dalce's debut CD Barberued the better showrases their own brand of humor than the back photo a shot of the cooked cat remembering his prison days, except maybe the rest of the album

Barberged to its is a wall monday shot of ska with a twisted sensibility The govs of Baccone Dolce may be warped, but they display it proudly

For example BO Blues chron icles the hard fight to smell good Rinclahb is a loving ode to one of the band's tavorite pastimes. Picture" pays tribute to James Bond and other spies and "I pity the tool" glorities one of America's truly underappreciated TV shows. The A Team

The lyrics are nothing but long inside tokes without their musical backdrop for the band never seems to play ska straight. Instead, they prefer to throw in bits of tunk reg gae punk and even heavy metal

The great horn section even seems to Arm of Contridence, lessamine proves be doing variations on 60's go-go that it can be done and done well and the House 5 O theme is a

It's these differ really sets Bac rest of the bands in the current ska glut and what makes rting to their hows so much tun They truly sound like they re having the best time playing whatever they want and it carries over into the listener

Barbecurd Cats is a treat to listen. to because it has the power to release the tun-loving treak in all of us

- Fric Buscher

Jessamine - The Long Arm of Coincidence (Kranky)

It isn't very often that a band with an amazing debut can manage to pull out an equally impressive sophomore album With The Long

It was nearly two years ago that Krapky released the tirst an amazing collection of spaces

moog drenched psychedelic pop that seemed to which about in the atmosphere like some foreign aural intrusion from another dimension. This album uses the same sort of hypnotic momentum that tueled the first album, while being divergent enough to keep the music intectious and new

The album's opening two tracks. Say what you can and " or what you mean" trick the listener by parading as two separate tracks, but even after the 10th listen you have to check the counter to determine where one ends and the other begins The album maintains this sort of teel throughout its ten tracks, halt of them "simulations," the other halt improvisations

The vocals of Rex Ritter and Dawn Smithson seem to act as gentle reassuring guides as you float through the esoteric ethereal realm ot Jessamine. It's hard to ditterentiate exactly how much of the album is pre-planned and how much is improvised. Analog keyboards interact with guitar and bass lines to create seamless transitions within and around songs

The Long Arm of Coincidence micely balances dense excursions into count such as It's Cold to Space which push one's definition of many with himself the atmosphered melodies and entrancing rhythms as in All the Same

It may be trendy these days to jump on the space rock bandwag on, but there isn't another band quite like less imine. This is the direction music should be heading.

As far as R&B is concerned In Vogue's "Don't Let Go (Love)" (produced by Organized Noise produc tions) is the joint to check for. This single is Maxine, Dawn, Terry and Cindy's first single in four years. The quartet's voice-invested sexual intensity is incorporated into the song, and creamily blends together into a singular flowing voice. On top of the whining call of a guitar. En Vogue's harmony evokes the lost teeling of a welcomed, vocal caress that has returned, merely, when they seduc tively sing

FSU's Presberry nets honor

Florida State's LaTova Presberry has been named the Atlantic Coast Conference Volleyball Player of the Week after helping to lead the Lady Seminoles to two road ACC victories over the weekend.

Presberry, a sophomore outside hitter from Detroit, MI, posted a 378 hitting percentage in the wins over North Carolina and North Carolina State. She recorded a double-double in both matches with 15 kills and 16 digs against the Tar Heels and 26 kills and 21 digs against the Wolfpack Overall, she averaged 4.6 kills and 4 I digs per game. Presberry's 26 kills against NCSL were a season high while her 68 attacks were a career high

Juhl named ACC Player of the Week

Florida State sophomore goal keeper Melissa Juhl was named ACC Player of the Week for her two shufout performances this past week. The biggest highlight of her two wins was 151's 1.0 victory over No. 10

Juhl, a native of Marietta, GA is the first player in the program's twoyear history to earn this honor. She had four saves against the Lady

The Lady Seminoles have already accomplished their two most important goals for this season to beat an ACC team, and to tinish the year over 500

Those assured, they now need only look at what's really important to FSU fans, what would make a year successful with only one win a with against UT

Silver and ash on the line when FSU plays UVa

They play for the Old Oaken Bucket when Purdue battles Indiana every year, and they play for the Little Brown Jug when Minnesota meets Michigan.

Now, in the spirit and tradition of those longtime college tootball rival-ries, the Florida State Seminoles and the Virginia Cavaliers will vie for the lefterson-lippes trophy in their annual Atlantic Coast Conference gradition contest. The trophy—an engraved silver pitcher seated on a wooden base, symbolic of the 19th century tamily ties between the two schools.

— was born of FSU's first ACC defeat in football since beginning conference play in 1992 occurring last year in a 33-28 less to the Cavaliers. The first score recorded on the trophy is Virginia's upset.

De trophy was presented to UVa President John T. Casteen III Sept. 20 in Charlottesville. It will be up for grabs for the first time in Doak Campbell Stadium this weekend. when the Cavaliers come to Tallahassee for FSU's homecoming weekend

"The Jetterson-Eppes trophy commemorates the dedication of these two universities to Jettersoman ideals of service and public education." said FSU President Talbot D'Alemberte

"We also believe in triendly, spirited competition and fair play," he added. "And, an all fairness, we can bring the trophy back to Tallahassee and keep it here awhile."

The "letterson" in the trophy's name is for Thomas Jetterson, who tounded the University of Virginia, in addition to serving as president of the United States.

letterson's grandson, Francis Eppes VII. was a three-time mayor of Iallahasses and a longtime president of the Board of Education that governed the Seminary West of the Suwannee, the institutional forerun ner of what is today Florida State.

Eppes was mayor when the city gave the land for the seminars, which opened its doors in 1857, and he was instrumental in keeping the school going during its formative years.

The silver pitcher was given to leppes by the citizens of Tallahassee in appreciation of his helping to settle the frontier town. The inscription reads of Eppes 184 Intendant of Tallahassee, 1841-42. A token of Regard from his tellow-citizens for his untiring and successful services in the promotion of virtue and Good Order. The pitcher is on permanent loan from the Tallahassee Historical Society.

The wooden base of the trophy has its own history. It was crafted from the remains of the McGuttey Ash once one of the oldest frees on the Virginia campus. Planted in 1826 near Payilion IX on UYa's West Lawn, the white ash grew to 103 feet.

In just its second year of existence, the Lady Seminoles are now poised and ready to avenge a 4-0 defeat at the hands, or rather, feet, of the Lady Gators last September at Pearcy Beard Stadium in Gainesville.

That game, the first-ever regular season match for both programs, saw FSU outshot 37-6 before a crowd of 4,442. But it did serve notice to the rest of the NCAA that FSU had found a goalkeeper in Melissa Juhl to rival the best the Atlantic Coast Conference, and thus the country, had to offer. Juhl recorded 16 saves in the game and went on to break the ACC record for single-season saves.

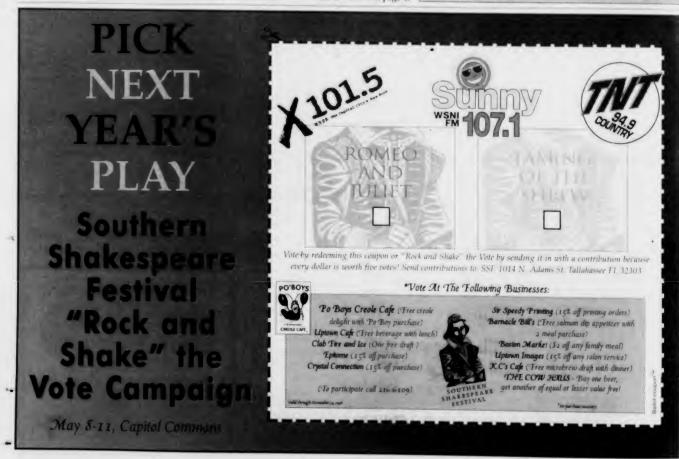

"I think she's definitely the best goalkeeper in the ACC," said forward Lauren Lynch. "I think she's the best in the nation."

Thus far, the largest crowd to show up for a game at the Seminole Intramural Soccer Complex has been 917, but that should change as the Lady Seminoles really face for the first time the spotlight of the rivalry that has evolved between the two schools.

As Lynch will admit, the FSU soccer program, despite a 10-4-1 record heading into last Sunday's win over Clemson, had yet to be taken seriously.

Now, though, with their first ACC win behind them, the Lady Semi-

The heated race for Leon County Sheriff has gotten a few degrees hotter

A group calling itself Citizens for Ethical Law Inforcement claimed at a news conference Wednesday that Democratic sheriff's Candidate Larry Campbell lied about what happened during a 1988 SWAT Team raid he led against 23 inmates at the Leon County Jail Campbell said the group by making the accusations so close to the Nov 5 election, is trying to throw the election to his challenger Republican Ld DePuy

The group includes supporters of Democratic candidates who lost against Campbell in the Sept 3 pri mary They claim Campbell, the current undersheritt, repeatedly switched his story in interviews with authorities investigating the raid which the sheriff's department said was intended to quell an inmate disturbance involving up to seven "instigators

Marching against Quincy Farms

United Farm Workers of America began its march Wednesday morning from the Quincy Farms mushroom plant in Greensboro to Quincy's St. Thomas Catholic Church. The UFW hopes that more than 1,000 people join the march before it reaches Tallahassee on Saturday. The protestors are trying to draw attention to their boycott of Prime-label mushrooms and their push to unionize the plant. Marchers stopped off at the Winn-Dixie in Quincy to protest that company's refusal to drop Prime-label from its shelves. They then walked over to the IGA to thank the store's management for joining the boycott.

County Commission candidates discuss who has responsibility

BY MARIEL BETANCOURT Staff Writer

The candidates for the Leon County Commission District 2, 4 and Atlarge seats agree that homelessness is a problem in the county, but disagree on who is responsible for caring for homeless people

District 2

"Government, in some respects, is burying it's head in the sand," said Republican Marvin Gray, whose name will appear on the Nov-5 general election ballot as a candidate for District 2.

Gray said he supports a cooperative effort between agencies, churches, Leon County and Tallahassee so that help for the homeless is not "burdened on one shoulder, but shared by all."

Jane Sauls, the Democrat running for the same seat, agrees

"The county and the city can't do all of it," Sauls said. "I think the community is aware of the problem. We need to get them to step up and be a part of the solution."

part of the solution."

To solve the problem, Gray said the community should focus on providing work for the homeless.

"We pay prisoners by the hour," he said. "Why couldn't we pay a home less person to work?

"I've ridden down Tennessee Street and seen some healthy specimens sitting out doing nothing," he added

Sauls said the county should focus on providing money for human services

"We might need to look into increasing tunding," she said. W(h) if it is Sauls said. The Shelter's location on West Tennessee Street is not an issue, Gray disagreed. He echoed the sentiment expressed last week by city leaders who say the homeless have created many problems for the merchants along the street.

"(Merchants) have a right to be able to run a business," Gray said

District 4

Democrat Baxter Wright said help for the homeless should be discussed by both the county and the city

"It's more apparent in the city," Wright said. "But I don't think that limits the problem to one of city concern.

"These dual bodies overlap." he added. "We need to do more in terms of coordinating our efforts in addressing all types of problems."

Homelessness is a national issue, Wright said.

"It really comes down to an issue of priority" he said. What kinds of issues does a body of government wish to make as a priority."

Incumbent Bruce Host, a Republican, said the county currently is investigating all the issues that concern the county through a study by the 21st Century Council, a private think tank which was organized by City Commissioner Steve Meisburg to address juvenile crime

"There will be a prioritization of community needs." Host said. "I don't know how the homeless issue will rank in that needs assessment."

needs assessment.

The county should concentrate on providing money tor all human service agencies, rather than dealing with each issue separately. Host said "We have a plethora of human service needs in the community" he said "Every social service group in the community comes to us for support".

At-large

Republican Stan Derzypolski said he supports a consolidated county and city government

"People are pretty well fed up with (their) bickering. Derzypolski said. We could solve some problems better it we were consolidated."

Under a consolidated government, money once used for administrative purposes could be used to fund human services, he aidded. It we look at where we re-pointing these dollars, we could use (them) a lot better. The land

Paperwork and permitting costs for housing developments all a would be reduced. Der ypolski said. Currently, the county and the city are making it harder and more expensive every day to buy housing. The said.

Jobs for the homeless should be a priority. Derzypolski said. While the Shelter's location is not a problem, he said the homeless need something to do during the day so the merchants do not suffer.

At large incumbent Rudy Maloy and District Landidates Douglas Dodd and Bill Proctor did not return calls for comment

'Government needs to do more'

BY MARIEL BETANCOURT

Advocates for the homeless say the county and the city do not adequately address homelessness.

Leon County allocates $3 million, 2.4 percent of the county's budget, for human service organizations such as The Shelter and the Emergency Care and Health Organization, FCHO.

"It is vitally important that they support what we redoing," said Mel Eby, executive director of The Shelter. "We don't teel that human services are enough of an issue in the local government."

The Shelter provides overnight lodging and dinner tor the homeless. Last year, the County Commission paid for nearly one-third of the Shelter's $234,000 budget with a $68,992 allocation. This year, The Shelter will receive the same amount, according to the tentative 1996-97 budget "We'd like the county to do more," said Lee Brever, executive director of the Tallahassec Coalition for the Homeless. "But the county may not have the money and may not have the responsibility."

Currently, neither the city nor the county claim responsibility for the homeless, Brever said. "The city and the county should be willing to play not only a financial role, but encourage and coordinate." The said

The City and County Commissions, local agencies and the community should all work together under one plan. Brever said. But one group must be in charge, he added.

To date nobody (is), and nothings happened," he said. That's the role of government. It they won't, nobody will."

Glory to the Tories

It's about time our friend north of the border started putting its toot down

In a slick move by Canada to show the United States that it simply can t bully toreugners a process it pleases, its lawmakers are passing a bill that puts the idiotic Helms-Burton Act in a little perspective for folks.

Mr. Helms seems to believe that Cuban born naturalized U.S. citizens whose property was confiscated after the 1959 Communist revolution can sue toreign businesses that use those properties. Of course none of the United States toreign economical allies were notified about this. This is clearly anoth crease of the States trying to play policeman to the entire world

Canada's retaliatory bill suggests that Canadians deserve compensation for lands seized from their Tory ancestors during the American Revolution A rather revealing history lesson that the United States needs to think long and hard about. This great democracy didn't form by osmosis

Nobody wants Castro in power But it history has shown anything, he isn't going anywhere and all the bans we pass haven t done anything to change that fact. Eight U.S. presidents have tried, and our box in green is still smok ing his cyarrs. And it our elected representatives continue with such historically blind legislation as the Helms-Burton Act, our country could find itself in a very precarious position in the rapidly developing world economy China is already buying our beet. In a few-years it will be buying prime farmland in Arkansas

But Helms is crafty. President Clinton personally doesn't like the bill. but he desperately wants to win Florida's 23 electoral votes because he wants to dominate as many traditionally Republican states in the South as he can so he can keep his lead on Dole locked nice and tight

But it's still amazing that Republicans, who continually try to attack Clinton on his toreign policy, would want to pass fegislation that is inevitably going to seriously harm our country's relations with toreign businesses who employ hundreds of thousands of U.S. workers

But maybe something good could come out of this insanity. Maybe all the descendents of the Indians we stuffed onto poor, crime-ridden reservations throughout the 19th and 20th centuries will organize and sue the government to get all their prime East Coast land back

Besides. New York could use a little culture

Ain't no way to go

In case you missed it, convicted killer John Farl Bush was put to death Tuesday night in Florida's electric chair

Bush's execution was the first to be viewed by Secretary of State Sandy Mortham, whose signature appears on all Florida death warrants. She traveled to Starke to sit with the victim's relatives, reporters and other observers

Most people in the state probably did not hear about Bush's electrocution after all electrocutions have become rather common in the Sunshine State The story of his appeal battles in court were buried inside state new spapers, if it was covered at all

No, we're not blaming the media here. We're not blaming any one for the lack of attention Bish's execution drew. Rather, we think these killings have only become too common - the public hardly blinks an eye when a man's life is ended. Life, being precious, deserves more respect, even if Bush did not hold that same respect for others

Lesson of the March: Hispanicity is finally catching on

BY GREGORY RODRIGUEZ

Pacific News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Is Hispanicity catching on? Two weekends ago, some 25,000 demonstrators from a variety of Latin American national origins held a Columbus Day march to demand respect for Latino-Americans a group to which all claimed allegiance

Puerto Ricans from the island marched side by side with Mexican American activists from the Southwest Dominicans from Washington Heights in Manhattan joined ranks with Salvadorans from the Adams Morgan district of Washington, D.C.

The idea of collective Hispanic identity is not new. In Spanish-speaking countries from Spain to Argentina, Oct. - Columbus Day - has long been reterred to as Dia de la Hispanidad. In those countries, it is generally understood that a common history has created a shared it ill-defined cultural bond. But in the United States, which has the greatest diversity of Latinos of any country in the world, such an easy notion of a shared history and lan guage has long since given way to a multitude of generational and national distinctions. A tourth-generation Mexican American in Texas who speaks only 1 nglish may find it hard to make common cause with a spanishspeaking Cuban retugee in Miami

The contemporary U.S. term "Latino" gained currency years before a pan-Latino ethos actually came into being Ironically corporations trying to capture the largest share of the nation's Spanish speaking market may have been the most aggressive propagators of the notion. Marketers dettly tashioned ads and styles they hoped would attract Chicanos in f. A. as much as it would Colombians in Manhattan But this practice of lumping everyone together has always rubbed - and continues to rub - some the

In an interview last year, Puerto Rican actress Rosie Perez said she didn't much like Los Angeles because there were "too many Mexicans there." Some Mexican-American movie-goers are protesting the movie industry's selection of Jennifer Lopez, a Puerto Rican actress, to play the murdered Tejana star Selena in the upcoming

The organizers of the Latino march aren't overly concerned with either the deeper cultural bonds among Americans of Hispanic origin or the nuances that separate the variety of cultural icons. They are primarily interested in evincing a united political tront to promote an agenda they say will improve the lives of poor and working people and protect the rights of immigrants. They are evoking the sense of a wider Latino identity that franscends nationality, not to broaden the public's perspective of Hispanics but rather to tit a wildly heterogeneous and politically unwieldy population into the narrow

It we would only all unite we could change the system" has been a Latino mantra - and lament - for decades. Ed Roybal. California's first Latino congressman spoke of the Latino electorate as the Sleeping Giant more than 40 years ago. Latino communities have been seen as untapped political forces whose less than enthusiastic participation in electoral politics or tendency to divide their vote invariably wind up, election after election, disappointing the politicians and activists poised to lead them. One of the consequences of the disappointment is that Latino heterogeneity has come to be identified as a weakness

But even as organizers were planning the tirst mass Latino civil rights march on Washington to promote the politics of Latino unity. Latinos from California to Florida. have been wondering whether the myth of Latino unity was exactly that. The emergence of a sense of Hispanicity has been mirrored by a growing appreciation of Lati-

While politicians bemoan our heterogeneity of national origin, class, race, language and political bent, more and more Latinos have begun to recognize it as a cultural strength.

no diversity. While politicians bemoan our heterogeneity of national origin, class, race, language and political bent, more and more fatinos have begun to recognize it as a cultural strength

The lesson of the march may well be this. Trying to fit a population increasingly aware of its multi-dimensionality into a civil rights era model in which an ethnic group is tantamount to an interest group may be like shoving the genie back into the bottle

Editor's note: PNS a sociate editor Gregory Rodriguez is a research tellow at the Pepperdine Institute for Public Policy and author of a new report on Southern California's emerging Latino middle class

Welfare recipients to be fingerprinted

BY MARIA F. DURAND

San Antonio Express-News

SAN ANTONIO — Texas will begin fingerprinting welfare recipients in Bevar and Guadalupe counties this week as part of a $1.5 million pilot project to reduce fraud. The inkless process known as finger imaging, which scans fingerprints much like a photocopier, is aimed at catching people who apply for food stamps and Aid to Families with Dependent Children more than once at different locations. But civil libertarians, welfare advocates and recipients see the program as invasive. They say the savings from catching fraudulent applications will not recoup the cost of implementing the high-tech program. "I don't like it," said Ivette Garra, a 25-year old mother of three. Garra receives $226 in AFDC money and $330 in food stamps for her three children. "I haven't done anything to be giving my fingerprint away. What am I going to do, take my $226 and run." The Texas Department of Human Services will have to scan the fingerprints of about $10,000 adults in food stamp or AFDC households in the next three months. The imaging system immediately checks against a master file for duplicate records.

The pilot project, the only one of its kind in Texas, is part of state welfare reform approved last year by the Legislature. Evaluations of the program will be done to measure whether the state will implement the program statewide. "I don't think there is any doubt that people in Texas want to take care of those in need," said Jessica Shahin, spokeswoman for the Texas Department of Human Services. "But they also want the government to be accountable and the programs to have integrity and provide a step up to those who need it." A bipartisan state coalition helped pass the reforms almost a year before Congress approved its own changes at the federal level. State reformers promised to weed out fraud and cut benefits to people who didn't need the help.

The treatment of the case of the expelled Lincoln High School toot ball player by the press and the com munity has been appalling. The issues have been so drastically skewed that the victim has been entirely torgetten. Friends and family at the tootball star have rallied behind him to fight against his expulsion because it lessens his chances of being recruited by college teams

They call the School Board ruling untair They say the victim has a history claiming that she is sexual ly promiscuous, and he is innocent

Before the School Board meeting on Oct 22, members of FSUNOW and the FSU Women's Center let the victim's voice be heard. They protest ed against a second hearing to consider re enrolling the student and applanded the School Board for doing the right thing the first time

In all the talk about the supposed untair treatment of a high school tootball star, an alleged sexual attender, the victim has been torget ten Victims of sexual assault often bear the blame for crimes against them. It is disgraceful for this victimto lose her voice, her rights because a high school, or university might lose a star football player

Many women who are sexually assaulted or raped never report the crimes for fear of being exploited or blamed, and cases such as this one propel that tear and make it real Regardless of the victim's sexual history regardless of the accused ottender's prospects of football glory sexual assault is a crime that should never blame the victim or glority the ettender

The Lincoln High School football player was expelled because he allegedly sexually assaulted a female classmate. That is simple enough But he is a tootball player, a good tootball player with a shot at being recruited by college teams. So suddenly things become more complicated. That just doesn't seem right.

The media has extensively covered the teenager's plight He is tiving to regain entrance into school. The is going to miss the prime recruiting season it he can't play tootball. Why is the media tocusme so much on an alleged sexual offender? What about the woman who was victimized? Shi has rights, too.

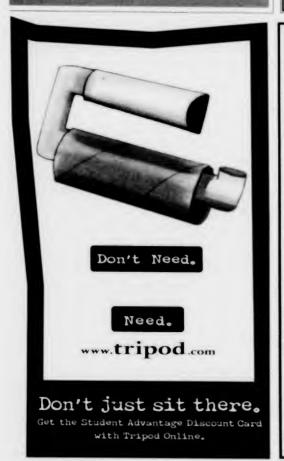

I went to the school board meet ing on Oct 22 with several members of 15U NOW and the Women's Center, to protest giving the student another hearing that could allow him to re-enroll in school

I encountered several young women who were protesting to allow the student to return to school. They asked me if I believed the girl's stoiv They asked me it I knew her She has a reputation, they said That made me so sad. Since when does a man have a right to abuse a woman because of her reputation? Women should understand how difficult it is to admit you are a victim of sexual assault, much less press charges

When are we going to stop further victimizing the victim? Her rights are every bit as important as his whether he plays tootball or not

This week Eamon Gilbert helped put the carrousel together

"I didn't know how it would look, said the first-time ride assembler. A Lincoln High School junior, Gilbert began helping Tuesday with preparations for the annual event.

"I'm pretty proud of the accomplishment — krowing I helped put it up," he said, admiring the view from atop one of the ride's 48 animals."

Assistant ride supervisor Bill Stack said the biggest reward of the business is the teeling of achievement from setting up, breaking down, moving and all the responsibilities involved.

But in the midst of all the hustle Stack, who credits his wanderlust with bringing him to the tair, said be has as much fun as the fair's guests. With Reithofter, now 100 years old, drawing more than 10 million people each year. Stack says memorable moments occur almost weekly. In his four years on the road, he claims to have met some 30 by; name bands and musicians, among them Charlie Daniels, Three Dog Night, Chicago and Blosd. Sweat and Iears. But it is not just the perks of the job that make vivid memories, he said

"Once I got hit between the eyes by a quarter that flew out of (a rider's) pocket," he said "These rides cut loose a lot of change."

Ferris wheel operator Dan Mather recounted a powerful memory from his 12 years in the carnival business

"A good friend of mine was killed on a carrousel." Mather said, adding that the victim had climbed to the top of the ride while it was in metion. "All of a sudden an ambulance appeared and police were everywhere."

Still, he says traveling with the tair has been a dream since childhood and the positives far outweigh the negatives.

"I helped out with the fair every year in my hometown until I was old enough to go along," he said

Carrousel operator Robert "M" said he had a similar start working at the fair in his hometown before joining as a member of the traveling crew. Robert says his tavorite part of his job is watching other people have fun.

But before Robert will see any smiling patrons all the fair's rides must receive the state's seal of approval. Hunter Lyles, Inspector Specialist of Flonda's Department of Agriculture, examined ride-Wednesday

Lyles, who travels throughout Florida inspecting carnival rides, said the state requires machines to be up to the manufacturers' specifications. Though missing or loose pins and bolts are the most common areas corrected during inspection, he said in 10 years of experience he has caught hundreds of more serious problems such as structural damage

"Sometimes I go home thinking," God, what if I hadn't caught that," he said. "The stress factor can be very high."

The fair will run through Nov. 3.

Campbell said the allegations are politically motivated

It's just strictly gutter, dirt politics, Campbell said

DePuy said he had no prior knowledge of the press conference and that Campbell should be presumed innocent unless the allegations are verified.

The SWAT Team, led by Campbell, rushed cellblock 2F or the old Leon County Iail in 1988, tossing in a stun grenade to disorient the 23 inmates, some of whom had refused to return to their cells. After the raid several of the inmates were alleged by taken to a separate room, handcutted and beaten by sherift officials

Several inmates eventually brought a civil lawsuit — from which Campbell was dropped as a detendant — which was eventually settled out of court.

In a Ion 29 1989, letter to the Democrat Campbell justified the raid saving a riot had occurred at the just several SWAT team members and Department of Corrections Inspector James Keen testified that there was no root or emergency at the col.

The Citizens for Ethical Law Information has sent a report of its tindings to the FBI, the state attorney's office and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement. It's report, among other charges, claims that Campbell changed his account of his encounter with immate Willie Johnson, who went to the hospital atter the raid. Campbell said Johnson suffered a cut lip, which was the worst injury he said took place during the raid.

In an April 1988 FBI statement and in the letter Campbell wrote to the Democrat. Campbell described how Johnson violently kicked him during the raid But in two subsequent depositions and in a May 1991 statement to the special prosecutor Campbell said Johnson was not violent and did not kick him, according to the group's report.

The grand jury noted the impact of Campbell's failure to report the incident

"One of the great hindrances in our investigation was the lack of proper reporting by the sherrift's office and the time period that has passed since the incident, the grand jury stated on Sept 17, 1991.

Douglas, Ariz., may host corrupt border crossing

BY DAN FREEDMAN 1996 Hearst Newspapers

DOUGLAS Ariz — Law enforcement officials consider it the most corrupt of six border crossings in Arizona. And it ranks as a leading candidate for "dirtiest" U.S port-of-entry among the 38 on the U.S-Mexico frontier.

Welcome to Douglas, population 14,000, a border backwater in southeastern Arizona, a land of sagebrush and cactus where the legendary Cochise fought the U.S. cavalry for 10 years before his surrender in 1871.

Federal agents are in the midst of a major investigation aimed at rooting out graft in Douglas, according to Daniel Knauss, first assistant U.S. attorney in charge of the Tueson office. "We have a severe corruption problem in Douglas," he said. "The entire operation down there is under scrutiny."

Since 1991, five Douglas-based federal employees — INS Border Patrol agents and inspectors and Customs inspectors — have been convicted on charges of conspiring with dealers to speed cocaine into the United States. Former Border Patrol Agent Jorge Luis Mancha is awaiting trial on similar charges.

Several present and former Customs officers who have served in Douglas say border officials town leaders and even some local cops have turned smuggling into Douglas major industry, a Southwest border version of Al Capone's gangster-driven Chicago of the 1920s. "It's corruption incorporated," said one inspector who works there

Douglas is the site of an infamous under-the-border tunnel, used to channel drugs from Mexico into the United States Authorities sealed it in 1990. Corruption may well have taken the tunnel's place as the drug world's in-bound conduit here.

"Anyone who wants to get a load through Douglas, no problem," said the inspector. "You've just got to see the right people."

The inspector asked not to be identified for fear that speaking out might result in unemployment, poor health, or maybe even no health at all

One measure of corruption's influence in Douglas is a series of conversations last year between an INS officer posing as a corrupt inspector and a prominent figure in one of the "gatekeeper" organizations, the people whose job it is to move cocaine, marijuana and blacktar heroin from the tumbledown precincts of Agua Prieta on the Mexican side into Douglas. From there it goes to Phoenix or Los Angles for nationwide distribution

Agents of the Justice Department Office of the Inspector General had the INS inspector wear a recording device during meetings and also taped her phone conversations.

"Obviously inside also we have people that will help us and do whatever is necessary, said the gatekeeper Francisco Leon Venegas, reassuring the INS officer. Lucy Navarrete, that as a corrupt inspector she would be in good company.

"A close, friendly relationship is formed with affection and love, and a lot of trust." he said "We all try to help and take care of each other we would get rid of any obstacle that could harm you."

Venegas reserves a few sharp words for "dirty" inspectors and officials working for other "gatekeepers" who risk law enforcement detection through their carelessly ostentatious lifestyles.

"They don't care," he tells Navarrete. "There are some that are building very big things. There are others some with very fancy and expensive cars."

In a measure of the smalltown closeness that exists between drug dealers and border officials. Venegas casually drops the names of several border employees in Douglas, among them Customs port director Frank B Amarillas Jr and INS port director Wayne Morris. "You know them all, huh?" Navarrete responds Cryptically, Venegas responds "The majority, but not because they are of any interest to me. It interests me to take care of the people that work with me."

Morris, the INS port director, said in a telephone interview he could not talk about the extent of corruption among his employees and law entorcement efforts to root it out. "It there is anything going on at the port of entry, I can't comment on it," he said.

Still, he added, "I trust the majority of my employees. I teel they redoing the job. Rumors come and go and we pass them on to the authorities. Whether they're true or not I don't know."

Amarillas, the Customs port director, was more explicit. "I don't think there's a problem." he said, also in a telephone interview. I really don't."

Amarillas, 59, a Douglas native, describes himself as an anti-narcotics stalwart, the top drug-seizing inspector in Douglas for 12 years before his appointment as port director in 1989.

"We do have procedures in place to weed out individuals who are corrupt," he said. "I believe in the system I believe in myself I believe in what I do."

At various times since his appointment as port director in 1989. Amarillas has been scrutinized by Customs internal affairs agents for close relations with suspected drug dealers.

Amarillas confirms these probes but he dismissed the allegations as the product of chatter from "disgruntled employees" too willing to interpret some of his administrative decisions as evidence of wrongdoing

An example Amarillas accord ing to Customs sources, ordered subordinates not to inspect a truck purportedly loaded with charcoal and driven by a triend of his, a man convicted in the 1970s of smuggling marijuana across the border and still suspected of involvement in drugs. Asked to put the order in writing. Amarillas allegedly responded: "I'm not that stupid."

In the interview, Amarillas said he knows the convicted dealer but denied they have ever been social triends. All he ever did for the convicted dealer. Amarillas said, was to ease the red tape burden on the charcoal loads he was importing Amarillas denied he ever told any inspector not to look inside the truck.

Every place in Douglas you meet people who at one time or another were involved in narcotics." he said "As port director. I have to deal with whoever pays their bill to society."

Sninggling, in fact, has long been a teature of border life. In Douglas, it became a mainstay of the local economy after copper mining in nearby Bisbee tizzled in the 1960s, and Phelps-Dodge closed down its open pit operation. First it was marijuana and heroin, tellowed by cocaine as Colombian cartels joined torces with Mexican drug lords.

You're talking about generations involved in sminggling various commodities, said one Customs investigator with long experience in Douglas. "The tamily relationships and friendships of people in positions of responsibility—that's a major problem."

Women shine in The Screened-in Porch

BY KALON HOPKINS Flambeau Writer

The cleverly crafted play I screen doe Perch will amplify minds and grease emotional trigger switches

On the production front burner. The Screened in Parch written by Marian X plays at FAMU's Essential Theater tonight through Sunday

Directed by Protessor Valencia Matthews, Screened in Porch set in the present, is a dramatic account of two childhood friends who lose contact and many years later become neighbors. As adults, they realize that the same qualities that brought them together as children now cast them apart. This realization forces them to diveinto new discoveries of triendship and woman-

Jawbox puts a little mystery in punk rock

Robbins said in a phone interview Wednesday. It's like a musical conversation. It's a challenge because we'll be playing and suddenly we have to deal with a strange rhythm that this treak wants to play. It's like What is Zach going to do and how can I get that ditty I have in my head out

In order to write the new material, lawbox had to stop touring, a change of pace for a band that spends most of its time on the road

We didn't do much touring since we began recording in January of 1996 Robbins said. We kind of made a vow not to tour. When you re out on the road 10 months out of a given year it interferes with your ability to write songs. You start playing older stuff instead of concentrating on the new Jawbox marks the second album released by Atlantic Records. When the band signed with the major label in 1993, a lot of their fans worried that the band would sell out. According to Robbins, that was never to be a part of the deal.

We thought of going to a major as a sort of sate ty net. Robbins said. We wanted to be able to pay our rent and beyond that have the music on our own terms. When we signed, we made sure that they were not going to turn us into a product to just sell a sh't-load of records.

It seems tonight's big event is the Jawbox show with Flanders as the opener as part of Student Campus Entertainment's week of Homecoming festivities for Florida State University. The show is free for PSU students with valid ID and $5 for all others. Doors open at the Club Downunder at 8:30. The Cow Haus will have a Post-Jawbox party for all those interested in continuing the punk revelry after leaving the show. On Friday night three bands from neighboring Florida cities - Gainesville's Bloom, and Lysergic and Gizzard from Jacksonville - will continue the punkness in Tallahassee for a cover of $3 at the Cow Haus. For an evening of laid-back listening, try Turbolounge and Mad Nimbus at the Cow Haus on Saturday night for another $3. Locals Kangaroo Court will play the first installment of "Hall of Sound" at the Warehouse with Cryptic Kitchen on Friday night. "Hall of Sound" will happen every eight weeks and is a showcase for original music with Kangaroo Court and another band playing each show. Friday's cover is $5 and the show starts at 9 p.m.

With Halloween coming up, the Rainbow Center Family Resource and Support Program has planned a benefit combining two things that can only be put in the same sentence because of the ghoulishness of the season: Gothic and blues. The Gothic Blues Bash offers music and dancing with the ACME Rhythm & Blues Band and a first chance to parade in that Halloween costume at the American Legion Hall on Friday The show starts at 9 and lasts until 1 a.m. Tickets are $5 and there will be a cash bar. Proceeds go to benefit the Rainbow Center which helps families break the cycle of abuse through education. Sunday could also prove to be an excellent day to get outdoors, with Pam Laws and Trefoil playing at Maclay Gardens at the "Moon Over Maclay Picnic and Promenade with Pam Laws." Pull up a blanket and a picnic basket next to the lake at Maclay around 5 p.m. and you'll hear Laws as well as the soothing sounds of harp, violin and guitar from Trefoil Tickets will be sold by the carload ($30) or van/pickup truck ($50). But the rules of African-American males within and outside the play reminds me of something similar to what Malorim X said. Wilhams added You can help but you can't do it for me. You can be there but it is my job to take care of me. My sanity comes from inside

This play of neighbors, triends, and three generations of African-American omen journeys into the natural territory of communal healing, which Matthews calls intical

We all have demons we deal with constantly. The principle at hand is knowing how to corese them, said Matthews. This knowledge or experience is vital, because healing is an on-going process."

Williams added to the idea of healing, focusing on the necessity for the characters in the play to combat stereotypes that have systematically entrapped them

"There is a definite need for the healing of black women." Williams said There is a need for healing because the mammy nannie, the whore and any other un-savory icon that one can name, has been heaped on the shoulders of the black woman

The strength of the women in Screened in Porch demonstrates how some African-American women have persevered in the torrent of trying times

"We as black people know (women, have always been trailblazers, our cornerstone "said Williams with a furrowed brow and deepening concern grow ing on the edges around his mouth. They are the tie that kept us going

Williams looked away at the stage's off-white lights and, with a quasismile unconsciously nodded in agreement with his words

There is always that strong black woman, that force "

The Screened-in Porch will be performed Oct. 23-27 at 8 p.m. in the Charles Winter Wood Theatre on FAMU campus. Admission is tree for FAMU students, $5 for other students, $7 for senior citizens, and $10 general admission. This play is not recommended for children. For more information, call 561-2425.

The criminal actions of George Williams Ir by resisting officers with violence, was a forcible telony is defined in Section 7.6.08 Florida Statutes, as his conduct involved the use of threat of physical force or violence against another individual," the grand jury's report reads

Police patrols were on alert Wednesday night in case any African-Americans living in the housing projects and other low income areas of town became upset with the findings and threatened officers with violence

Several residents of and near the Fbony Gardens project at 1010 N Macomb Street and the Springfield Apartments at 1700 Joe Louis Street said earlier this week that they did not expect any significant, violent backlash against police.

We know they re not going to charge the others. Lonnie Johnson, who lives at Ebony Gardens, said Monday

On Wednesday, the grand jury whose members were picked at random from voter registration rolls. heard testimony from Police Chief Tom Coe and other police officers

I am proud that the grand jury also concluded that Otc Revell bravely performed his sworn duties in a professional manner consistent with his training and experience Coe wrote in a statement to the

The Tallahassee Police Depart ment has a reputation for modern police practices and professional lay enforcement service and we will continually strive to live up to the high expectations our community has for us." the statement contin-

The grand jury's report supports an investigation into the shooting conducted by IPD's Internal Attairs That investigation cleared Revell of wrongdoing, finding that Revell used adequate and legal torce to keep from being severely injured or killed by Williams The Internal Attairs report was released a week and a half ago.

On Sept 27, Revell and three other officers went to the Springfield Apartments in an unmarked police Cherokee at 10.30 p.m. to arrest Williams on six outstanding warrants. When Williams spotted the otticers, he fried to escape in a car

Police say Williams backed the car up at high speed and hit Ote David Odom, who struck the back window and then was thrown to the ground Police reports say Williams was looking directly at Revell while attempting to put the car in gear Revell says he heard engine revving and thought Williams was going to ram him so he fired one shot through the windshield and into Williams head

Some witnesses who said they saw the shooting say Revell did not tire the shot They say Ote Chuck Perry killed Williams

Atter the grand jury reached its conclusion at about 4 p.m. Wednesday jurors witnesses and attorneys lett through a back door, eluding members of Williams family and the press waiting in the hall outside CHIFTTOWN

Warren Goodwin, the assistant state attornes who presented the case to the grand jury sould not be reached for comment Wednesday

Jenese James, who lives near the Springfield Apartments, said she agrees with Williams cousin that the decision was outrageous

(The jury's report) says. Police others do not have a duty to retreat, said James, who said she lett work early Wednesday to get to the courthouse. They didn't know it he would hurt somebody (Revell should have) gotten out of the way

The grand jury's report states that 'Generally there is a duty to retreat before resorting to deadly torce, unless you are in your dwelling or it reasonably appears that by retreating your personal danger would greatly increase Police officers do not have a duty to retreat. They have a duty to entorce the laws including serving arrest

The grand jury's findings mean that Revell will not tace criminal charges for the shooting. Last year a grand jury reviewed five police. shooting cases. Lach time, the jury tound the officers acted within the bounds designated by state

Pataki vetoes solar panel credit bill

BY RAYMOND HERNANDEZ

N.) Times News Service

ALBANY, NY - Siding with the state's electric industry. Gov. George. Pataki has vetoed legislation that would have allowed homeowners with solar panels on their roots to send power back to their utility company and get credit on their electric bills in a statement on Wednesday accompanying the veto, the governor said he supported the intent of the bill but was concerned about what he called inadequate safety standards in the measure

But the veto angered environmentalists, who regarded the bill as a key step toward encouraging New Yorkers to use a sater and cleaner form of energy. They dismissed Pataki's questions about safety as simply an excuse to kill a measure that utility companies had opposed for tinancial reasons

Pataki ordered his statt to submit a new bill, saving that he would attempt to build consensus on the issue between the utility industry and the environmental community

This veto should not be viewed by solar advocates as an unfavorable commentary on the solar industry. the governor said. I believe solar power should be an important and larger component of our energy supply

The veto, dated last Friday but made public on Wednesday illustrates the quandary the governor faces as he tries to bolster his image as a friend of the environment without alienating powerful business organizations and his other traditional Republican supporters

He has already angered conservative anti-tax groups over his decision to add to the state's debt by lobbying on behalf of a $1.75 billion bond act to pay for environmental cleanup projects across the state

The bill vetoed by the governor on Wednesday would have allowed owners of single-family homes to install solar cells on their rooftops and run their electric meters backward to send spare electricity back to their utility companies. Thus the homeowners could have seen their electric bills drop to zero or even register a credit with their utility company

Only 30,000 homeowners would have been allowed to take advantage of the measure, which would have limited the amount of power produced by households to no more than one-tenth of one percent of New York's total power supply. Still, energy experts argued that the measure could lure a solar-cell manufacturer to the state, cut pollution and help avert blackouts during peak hours of power use

New gun crackdown angers Canadians

BY COLIN NICKERSON The Boston Globe

OTTAWA - Canadians generally like their guns reg istered and restricted. There is no tradition here of a right to bear arms, as in the United States, and even gun enthusiasts are horrified by the American penchant for packing pistols in pockets, purses and glove compart ments. But the tederal government may have backed one gun law too many in its latest effort to regulate the possession of firearms, including hunting ritles and other sporting weapons. Four provinces and one territory are challenging a law that requires owners of tirearms including hunters collectors and target shooters - to register weapons with a new federal entity, the National Cun Registry. The measure joins an array of provincial and tederal gun rules that make ownership far more difricult than in the United States

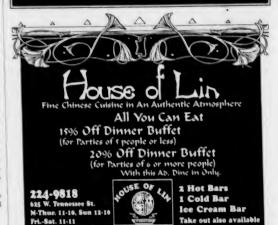

Manitoba Saskatchewan, Ontario and Yukon Terri tory have joined a law-suit brought by Alberta against the tederal government claiming that the new registration system goes too far and among other things, will give police imprecedented authority to inspect homes and other private premises

This isn't about cracking down on crime this is about wiping out the tirearms community in Canada. said David Tomlinson president of the Alberta based National Firearms Association, a gun lobbying group

The requirement is part of a sweeping package enact ed this year, that bans possession of ritles designed to look like military assault weapons, extends restrictions on owning handguns to an outright ban of all short bar reled 25 and 32 valiber pistols, and imposes heavier jail penalties for gun smuggling and other criminal ottenses involving tirearms. The harsher prison penalties for use of guns in crime are applauded by most Canadians. Polls consistently show that roughly 70 percent of Canadians support strong gun laws. Cuns are dangerous and you want legal controls on their use, like you regulate cars or alcohol said lack MacDonnell an Alberta ramber

But the plan for a massive new registration program tor weapons seldom associated with crime has provoked RECYCLE Recycle RECYCLE Recycle

Students slow to join farmworkers

The United Farm Workers of America's four-day "farmworkers crusade for justice" began Wednesday outside the gates of the Quincy Farms mush-neem plant the union calls unsare But not too many students have taken an interest, judging by the manch turnout.

No students (have shown up) yet. Rebecca Flores-Harrington said Thursday as she marched with 15 other impassioned activists into the town of Midway just west of Tallahassee.

Harrington, a UFW vice president, hopes 1 000 people, students included, will join the crusade by the time it hits the Capitol on Saturday.

Emotions high during Senate hearing on CIA-drug scandal

BY DAVID L. MARCUS The Baston Globe

WASHINGTON — A Senate hearing on alleged CIA links to Central American drug traffickers turned raucous Wednesday with tales of a government conspiracy to poison black communities.

Black students and community leaders dominated the standing room crowd, loudly applauding a lustice Department investigator who promised to get to the bottom of this and sering three senators as they asked for restraint

The Senate Select Intelligence Committee hearing was prompted by a California newspaper that detailed how CIA supported Nicaraguan Contra rebels in the 1980s raised millions of dollars by allying themselves with drug trat fickers who helped introduce

Boyd and Sutton address immigration

BY MOLLY CRAWFORD

Flambeau Writer

With one of the highest migrant populations in Florida, the Big Bend will be deeply affected by any decisions Congress makes in regard to immigration and migrant workers benefits.

And the outcome of the U.S. Congress District 2 race will play an important rule in how the government addresses these issues. Democrat Allen Boyd and Republican Bill Sutton ofter similar stances on immigrant issues. But they lack specifics on how to cope with the state's immigrants—including the 5000 or so farmworkers who work in agriculture in neighboring Gadsden County.

Sutton says he has the experience to address the immigration issue because of his nine years of work in the Coast Caused.

"I know they can be productive active citizens eventually." Sutton said

Boyd said immigration is an issue the entire country needs to address especially states like Florida.

"We need to decide how liberal we can be." Boy'd said.

He added that illegal aliens take jobs and government services away from legitimate citizens

"Immigration is draining our system in border states," he said

Issues regarding immigration and assistance for migrant workers have been raised in some of the proposed amendments which Florida legislative committees are working to get on the 1998 general election ballot.

Such amendments, similar to congressional proposals, would exclude

Madam Mortham's family outing and avoiding the CIA-drug story

Mortham's enthusiastic support of the death penalty ain't nothing but political.

Sandra Bloody Sandra

Let us now in this most insidious of political times sing to the tune of the Adams Family theme song

They read and they raise throne the Mortium Family ising to the time of the Adams Family theme song).

In case you missed it on Wednesday it was reported in all Flinda papers that Flonda's Secretary of State Sandra "Morticia" Mortham threw her hubby. Al "Gomez" and son Al pugsly. Mortham into the Mortham family car, rumored to be a hearse, and headed for a family outing at Starke prison to watch a member of the underclass. John Earl Bush Jr., get exe-

Rumor is that the noteriously anonymous hooded executioner may have been one of Mortham's parents

As is usual, there is talk the Mortham tamily outing was re-pired by Sandra's bloody just to project the most bloodthirsts image, a la Bob Dole at the national level, for the (right) wingtiuts who dominate the Florida Republican Party and who will pick the next gube material nomin

Not so says Mortina Mortham. Hell to hear Sandra tell it. she didn't even realite any one else would be there but the Merthams the guy getting fried and a tew other curious (IT'S KETS

We had no intention at all of this being a political experience I did it have any intention to tell anyone I had gone. This was more for me so I could see what it was like "Mortham is quot ed saying in the Var river

Rumor Mill

Scutt button the street has it that Morticia Morth in which never been mistaken till a genius, was told that the man being executed was her like yould meet all the Republican Party leb

We had to explain to her later that rich white guys hard v ever get executed said to is un a Deep Du du The Bosh who the Mortham tankin watched get burned one until dead was a pen r black man. That's reverse racism a qualitasis from one Mortham allegedly replied

The same source also tells me that the Mottham's more demanded to be scated at the execution of dogs at the animal shelter before they would allow their terminally ill tamily pet rat to be put to sleep. Sounds plausible. I tried to reach Mortham for a common but I was informed that this noble public servant was on a statewide tour of gravey ands for the indigent must be see where they put these guys, after the state tries there

The Dope on the CIA ... Much ado about something

Ever since the National Memory Visas story a series at suggesting that the era of crack cocame began when Runald Reagan ordered the Central Intelligence Agency to Illegally bankrell the Nearaguan Contras against the will of Congress numerous big city papers such as the L. 4. Time Tolland Ch and the Ves 1 me have weighed in with ha replitting features disputing the notion that the CIA was culpable

The bottom line of these critiques seems to be that the series exaggerated the extent to which the CIA-backed Contras were responsible for introducing the crack craze onto the streets of

California sinner cines

I tried to trudge through a couple of them but gave up per haps to my disadvantage. It was evident after only a few paragraphs of most of these article that there was more interest in looking the other way, rather like the CIA with the Contras who sold excaine in the United States with full knowledge of the latter. The tone is wears and cynical. Or course the CIA consorted with escaine dealers it is a nasty world out there blah blah

There seems to be little, it any shock at the knowledge that the CIA consorted and or covered up for even one escaine deal er under the guise of national security, which the Ministry story certainly shows was the case. And it's not like this is news

The connection between the CIA and occaine dealing Con tras has been widely documented in books and in some news outlets during the Contra war. In the late book I recall in adding in the Salara Liam, Fot a busted Contra who had his m ev and his coxaine returned to him after intervention by the U.S.

Of course these same papers who today pooh pooh the CIA ocalne Contra connection are the same gang of sophisticates who were sexped by the small Lebanese paper 41 stars later to be called a dirty officerag, by Ronald Rollgan, about the Iran Contra scandal

The revelation that the Reagan administration had been selfing alms to Iran's knomenic homping government, the same people we had been told who were responsible for killing a bar racks full of U.S. Mannes in Lebanon, also produced a lift of fact shuffling by the establishment press until the truth could no longer be defined. In fact the story about the arms sales to Iran had been written about by a few lonely souls in the alternative press and e en by a few mainstream reporters such as wire ser vice reporter Robert Parry even betere the tull delans were ti vesterd in the Leb inese paper. But the New York I will the Walley and the network news out all accepted kea gun administrative denials at face value so today just as the establishment press downplayed the reof the Bush administration in paying the way for Saddam Husseer to build his socialled war machine by funncling and and technology through the U.S. Agriculture Department (the records of which were altered and, or destroyed according to a clingressional investigation which was soon forgotten by the jaded national press) they shrug their shoulders and aim their guns at the messenger bearing the latest bit of news about the complicity of our own government in the murder and maybem that began to plague America's inner cities in the 1980s. A sad performance all in all

The bank, a haven for drug money launderers and other sleazy types, was officially owned by CIA operative Michael Hand and Australian Frank Nugar a Matia-connected buckster who in 1950 was found dead in his Mercedes Benz a bullet in his head and a rifle in his hand. Also in his possession was a Bible. Inside the Bible was discovered a piece of paper with the names of U.S. Congressman Bob Wilson at Cautornia, the Ranking Republican on the House Armed Services Committee, and former director of the CIA William

Kwithy's investigation goes on to show that in fact the Nugan Hand bank was the precursor to the notorious haven for intelligence operatives and drug dealers, the so-called BCCI (Bank of Credit and Commerce International) that made its splash toward the end of the Bush administration. In other words the place where the CIA and the world's other intelligence services or dust their netarious business with international drug dealers and gun runners

As it happened, the chief counsel for the Nugan Hand was the CIA's William Colby and its president a retired U.S. admiral Also on the bank le terhead was former deputy director of the CIA Will McDonald and Henry Klesinger protege Guy Pauker crack to Los Angeles ghettos

In recent weeks leading ournalists have criticized the series in the San Jose Mercury. News And the paper's editors have admitted that they had no proof that the CIA deliberately introduced crack into black communities. The series has caused a national uproar especially among black politicians and community leaders, who grabbed on the issue as proof of malicious government involvement in the crack-epi demic.

I have never dealt with an issue—and I have dealt with some sensitive issues—that has resonated so clearly with the American people said Michael R. Bromwich, the Justice Department's internal investigator.

The audience was sometimes openly hostile to Frederick P. Hitz the CIA's top internal investigator

In many ways, the allegations of CIA involvement in drug trafficking are the most controversial, politically charged and potentially damaging of any that we've looked into said Hitz, who is supervising a team of 11 investigators looking for ties to drug traffickers.

He added that an initial investigation found the allegations "absolutely talse"

Citing a lack of public trust, several senior senators said Wednesday that Congress may have to take over the CIA's internal investigation

The suspicions are going to be rather substantial." Sen Bob Kerrev. Democrat et Nebraska, said et any ClA findings concerning allegations that the agency was aware that the anticommunist Contra movement was funded in part by sales of crack cocaine in the United States.

The issue has already been raised in campaign debate between Gov William F. Weld and Sen John F. Kerry

Narcotics and International Operations, of which kerry is chair man, said be tried several years ago to find out whether Us intelligence agencies protected cocaine dealers. But he remembered coming upagainst "an absolute stone wall! Weld, who was then the head of the lustice Department's criminal division."

Weld put a very serious block on any effort we made to get information. There were stalls. There were refusals to talk to us, refusals to turn over data.

The Justice Department also reprimanded an assistant US attorney who gave information to investigators. Blum said

Kerry made a similar allegation last week. Weld said he had actually tried to help find out whether the CIA had any links to trattickers.

The committee chairman. Arlen Specter. Republican of Pennsylvania, threatened several times to clear the room when people cheered or protested remarks made by those testifying.

When the hearing ended, with promises of more hearings to come angry words about whitewashes echoed in the hallways

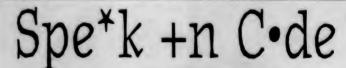

In the black community as we watch all this unfold, it confirms many of our suspicions, said US Rep Maxine Waters, the California Democrat who has pushed for investigations.

The most outspoken observer was activist Dick Gregory, who told reporters that blacks are oppressed by the CIA and white tolks are teo scared and too mixed up to do any thing.

Flambeau "What attracted you to Florida

Prinzi "I came from a small town in upstate New York 1 originally signed with Syracuse, 1 came down on a recruiting trip and their was a blizzard going on in New York. The warm weather in Tallahassee fascinated the devil out of me. 1 wanted to go where it was warm and have some fun I went to FSU with no regrets"

Flambeau "What changes have you noticed in FSU since your time here?"

Prinzi. "The main change I've seen is the size of the campus. The facilities have been upgraded so much. A change that happened while I was there is called air conditioning. The only places in the whole campus that where air conditioned where the student union and the library. I wish all the books in the library had been in the Union, I would have been a much better student."

Flambean "Where did you like to hang out while you where a student "

Prinzi "The Mecca was a place to hang out 1 would go there between classes to play bridge and have Cokes

Rumble In the ACC

BY ROBERT GIRAL

After having their way with Miami two weeks ago, the No. 3 Florida State Seminoles will have another tough conference opponent in the No. 13 Virginia Cavaliers for Homecoming in Doak Campbell Stadium at 3:30pm on ABC

The Noles are 20-1 in Homecoming games under head coach Bobby Bowden. This year, however, they have reason to be fearful of their Homecoming foe - Virginia.

The Cavaliers handed the Tribe their first conference loss since they began conference play in 1992 snapping FSU's 29-game ACC win streak.

The Seminoles learned their lesson last year in Charlottesville and are determined not to follow up this year's victory over the Hurricanes with a loss to Virginia.

In order for the Tribe to be successful against the Cavaliers, Thad Busby needs to continue performing like he has in his last two starts. The Buzzard is 24 of 46 for 429 yards with four touchdowns and zero interceptions.

His success of late is due to a number of factors, among these being an offensive line that is beginning to function as a one unit.

Evidenced by this is Warrick Dunn's yards-per-carry average increasing from 5.3 in the first three games, to 7.4 in his last two

With the offensive line opening up hig holes for Dunn & Co. Busby will be able to hreathe easier as the outcome of the game will not rely solely in him.

Along with the rushing attack comes the passing game. The entire receiving corps has stepped it up a notch and have begun to haul in Bushy's passes for big gains. With E.G. Green and Andre Cooper leading the way, this can only serve to maintain Bushy's confidence.

There's more'. The defense has been nothing sheft of superb. The No. 2 ranked overall defense in the country, has made its name this year by getting intimate with their opponents quarterbacks (averaging six sacks per game).

They have also kept opposing teams to 44 yards rushing per game. This is the type of defensive production a team needs to win a championship.

Special teams are also vital mix to this equation—Both Sean Liss and Scott Bentley are having career years—Both players had career long kicks against Miami (76 and 48 respectively).

Last, but not least, the entire team has become more focused and disciplined, averaging 58.5 yards per game in penalties in its last two games (down from 95 yards per game in its first three

The Noles are beginning to play like a complete team - like a well oiled machine.

PLAYER PROFILE

Liss Gets A Leg Up On the Competition

BY KELLY SHAW

Over the past four seasons, Sean Liss has emerged as one of the greatest punters in Seminole history. Florida State faithful have applauded this talented player from his very first start in 1993, but now, after years of little or no press, he is finally being recognized nationally.

Liss is ranked among the top three returning punters in college football this season. His 43. yards per kick average last year ranked him fifth in the nation and was the best for an FSU punter since current NFL player Rohn Stark's 46.0 average in 1981.

year ranged min first in the auton and was the dest of arrange in 1981.

"One of my personal goals for the season is to break Stark's season and career average records," Liss says.

One of the best performances of his career came in last year's Orange Bowl. When FSU was backed into a corner, Liss twice pinned Notre Dame deep into its own territory, forcing the Irish to throw from their own end zone.

"I play well in big games," he says.

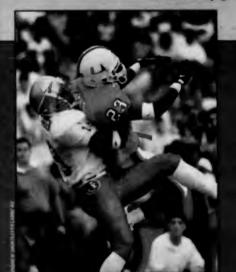

This 6-4, 214lb. senior has been a potent defensive weapon for the Noles in 1996. He has consistently booted the sometimes stalled offense out of trouble.

"My main job is to give the defense good field position," he said. "I'm not out there very often, so I want to make an impact every time I get a chance."

After five games, Liss is already averaging two more yards per punt than in 1995 and had a career long 76 yard kick against Miami two weeks ago.

STUDENT PERSPECTIVE

Yeah Virginia, I'm talking to you!

BY JORGE PORRATA

Omens-schmomens. To the superstitious, Miami was a lock to beat us two weeks ago. First, Josephine blew into town. However, she was more of a whisper than a bang. Personally, I went to the hurricane party that the Parliament Funk threw at the Moon. By the time George Clinton was done, it wasn't even raining anymore. Then, on Thursday, our drum flew off the truck which was taking it to Miami, eighty miles outside of Tallahassee. It was fine though, and it made it down with out further incident. Maybe the brujeros in Miami did call on Chango to sabotage our team, but it didn't work. All the chicken bones, Santos, and mojo in the world couldn't have stopped the Tribe from throttiing that tropical storm that passes for a football team.

Now, its the Cavallers turn. I almost feel sorry for them. No, actually, I don't. I can't wait to see them get their butts kicked. They had the audacity to beat us last year. Who do they think they are?

The loss to Virginia last year damaged our psyche. No one was expecting it. It felt cheap. It is one thing to lose to a superior team. We didn't. We lost that game because the football gods were angry at us for not showing our band the proper respect. There is a way to do things, and we didn't follow the rules. It was a valuable lesson. The powers that be now know not mess with the "plan" (I have no idea what the "plan" is but I am sure there is one. The price for our folly was way too high, though

Warrick Dunn is the player to watch this weekend Last years loss was not his fault Everyone knows it takes an entire football team to win or lose a game Yeah, it's easy for me to say that, I didn't come a yard short of winning the game last year I don't want Warrick to feel responsible. I am sure that he has beat himself up way too much over that play in the past twelve months So, officially, as a fan and fellow student, Warrick - its not up to you to win this game. It's a team effort. Unofficially and quite selfishly, there is a part of me that is very glad he has an axe to grind. He is going to run on Virginia like a bull stung by a wasp

So Cavs, get all your good luck charms ready. Warm up your lucky horse shoes and rabbit's feet. Kiss all the right statues and do all the rituals. Go out to as many fields as you can and pick thousands of fourleaf clovers. Heck, call the Office of Santeria at the University of Miami and get their witch doctors working for you. It wont make a difference. Winning is our destiny and you folks are facing a reckning

Shameless plug

As we all know this weekend is homecoming. Starting this afternoon, we party. For the next 48 hours this campus will be nothing but a good time. Between the game, Pow-now, and all the parties, there are a thousand possibilities. I'd like to tell you about another one.

The people at Southgate, Wolff Tan, and Coca Cola are sponsoring a block party between the parade and Pow-wow It's called Jefferson Street Jam. If takes place in front of Southgate from four to six this afternoon. Sister Hazel will be introducing their new opening band and will be doing an acoustic set, themselves. Southgate will be selling food and donating all the proceeds to charity. That is why I'm plugging the J-Street Jam. I'm a volunteer for the charity that it is benefitting.

The money is going to support The Florida State University Dance Marathon for The Children's Miracle Network. This is the second year FSU is having a Dance Marathon and we are extremely excited about it's future in the FSU-Tallahassee community. The money goes specifically to Shands Children's Hospital at the University of Florida (this transcends the rivalry folks). Dance Marathon is a great way to show the state of Florida and the rest of the nation the size of FSU's compassion and generosity

So, if you can, come on down to J-Street Jam. I'll be manning a table with a few other volunteers and will be glad to answer any questions you might have about the event. Over the past few weeks I have shared my Student's Perspective with you

I would love to share this side of my FSU experience with you, also. I love FSU for a few reasons, our football program is one of them, events like Dance Marathon are another. Let my friends and I show why. Go Noles!

"That was a big one for me," he says. "It felt real good off the foot, but I didn't think it would go that

Liss sees a lot of positive changes from last year.

The coaches have been working more with me and putting more time into the punting game," he said "We have gone from a tight punt to more of a spread punt. I'm also going with a directional punt new Instead of just kicking the ball at random. I punt away from the coverage. This gives me more pro-

He also sees some differences among the team.

"Things are better than in years past," he stated. "There's something special about this team. All the egos have been put away and we're contributing as a team. That's a big part of why we've been successful up to this point "

For this native of St. Petersburg. Florida, this weekend will bring his biggest challenge of the season Liss will be facing one of the top punters in the country in Virginia's Will Brice

"I want to be All-ACC and All-American this season," he said "If I'm to earn any of these awards, I have to out kick Brice this Satur

With his college career quickly coming to a close, Sean Liss can look back and say he's learned quite a bit at Florida State.

"I went through some tough times in and out of football and all those experiences taught me about life," he says. "I matured quite a bit and learned that everything can be worked through I hope all these things will benefit me if I get a chance to play in the NFL.

When asked if he has any regrets about choosing FSU, Liss jokingly gave his answer

"Yea," he said "We didn't punt

It is this machine that will show up Saturday afternoon to face the Cavaliers, who are coming off ii 62-14 rout over NC, State and are filled with all the confidence in the universe - it's time to bring them back down to Earth.

Despite the rumors of a Virginia passing attack, the Cavaliers will no doubt lay the brunt of the offense on the shoulders (or legs) of senior tailback Tiki Barber

Barber manhandled FSU for 311 all-purpose yards in last year's meeting and is the ACC's leading rusher this year averaging 125 4 yards per game. He is more dangerous than last by virtue of his bigger size and greater strength and elusiveness.

Rumor or no rumor, quarterback Tim Sherman will not have time to shake off FSU's defensive front, led by Reinard Wilson and Peter Boulware. Along with the linebackers, this group is very solid and deep and is not about to let Tiki run wild

Because of this pressure, expect Sherman to be harassed and forced to throw - it will be up to the secondary to keep Virginia's receivers (who are very good) in check. This game will really expose FSU's defensive secondary. However, this is also the game that will see the coming of age of a secondary that has been criticized all season.

Look for this unit to come up bigger than they did against Miami, but also look for them to be overshadowed by the excitement of the special teams

Both Florida State and Virginia feature the best special teams in the ACC Punter Will Brice and placekicker Rafael Garcia are the envy of college football

Together these two fellows contributed tremendously in last year's win over the Tribe - Brice pinning Florida State deep in their own territory throughout the entire game and Garcia making all four of his field goal attempts

This match up promises to be electrifying - perhaps even nailbiting Anyone who thought that homecoming games are supposed to be blowouts and not exciting are definitely in for a surprise tomorrow afternoon defense, passing offense, scoring offense, scoring defense, kick returns, punt returns, third-down conversion offense and defense, and quarterback sacks

Virginia punter Will Brice has the best gross punting average in the nation, while FSU's Sean Liss takes that honor for net punting average

The kickers rank sixth (Rafael Garcia) and 12th (Scott Bentley) in terms of field goals per game

"Last year (UVa's kicking game) was one of the best we've ever seen." said Bowden "You're looking at 97 yards (to score) every time you get the ball. They have as fine a kicking game as anyone in the country."

With the ever-dangerous Barber and FSU sophomore Dee Feaster returning those punts, though, that aspect of the game could be nullified.

Bowden has not needed to harp on the importance of non-comparency to his team, considering recent histoy and the strength of the evenness of the match-ups, but he did utilize one tool of Cavalier propaganda as motivation. In his pre-practice speech Wednesday, Bowden donned a Virginia I-shirt that read "Virginia football, 100 yards long and 50 yards wide" across the front Emblazoned on the back side was last year's 33-28 score and the phrase "And we own every inch of it!"

World Series advantage: Yankees

The last three games ever to be played at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium were Brave losses. New York Yankee starting pitcher Andy Petitite made sure of that in leading his team to a 1-0 win Thursday night, the third in a row for New York after falling down 0-2 in the World Series.

Pettitte pitched 8.1 innings of shut-out baseball, striking out four while walking three en route to the victory. John Wetteland came in in the ninth to record the save. The Yankees have won eight consecutive road games, while the Braves extended a streak of a different kind. No pinch hitter for Atlanta has recorded a hit in 22 straight official plate appearances. Atlanta starter John Smoltz pitched admirably as well, going eight innings without allowing an earned run, striking out 10 and giving up just four hits.

Three of those hits came courtesy of Cecil Fielder, who also had the only RBI of the evening for either team. After Yankee third baseman Charlie Haves reached base on a Marquis Grissom error, Fielder doubled to drive in Haves. That was all Petitite would need.

Outgroove brings local musicians into your home

BY AMREKLIMCHAK Staff Writer

On Saturday night, you can tune your television to see a performance from a group of musicians that make their home right here in Tallahassee. No, it's not MTV you'll be watching, but a locally produced television show called Outgroove that teatures Tallahassee's finest on the music front. Saturday night's show will let you get a glimpse of the New World Ensemble, a group that has been creating improvisational music in town since 1989.

Keely Walker, producer and director of Outgroove, is an ISU senior in media production major who won a scholarship this year trom the Corporation for Public Broadcast. CPB handles programming for the Public Broadcast System and National Public Radio.

"It's meant to encourage young people to work at PBS after they graduate," Walker said.

The scholarship requires her to intern at a PBS station. She was given the option of producing and directing episodes of Outgroove as her internship at WFSU, Channel 11 (cable Channel 5). Walker developed the idea for Outgroove as a project in an advanced TV studio production techniques class at FSU, in which she produced the first episode with bands Bottlenose and Bacon Ray. This show, as well as the New World Ensemble segment have appeared previously on Channel 47, FSU's cable access channel.

"I just wanted to incorporate music with TV It's another major interest," Walker said "After (the first show) was done, I got such a response from my friends that I showed it to, and they kept asking me when I was going to do another one So I decided to do more shows as my internship when I was awarded the scholarship "

Outgroove is not only meant for connoisseurs of local music, but for those who may not go out to live performances. Its purpose is to highlight some of what Tallahassee's music scene has to ofter and perhaps provide the impetus to get tolks out to shows "All those channel surfers that never go out to shows can sit (and watch it) in the privacy of their homes," Walker said "Maybe they'll like it and go out to shows and support the local scene more."

The show runs 30 minutes and usually features two bands, although this Saturday's show is solely devoted to New World Ensemble because of the complexity of their music

Unlike the first segment of Out groove, where music was the only factor, the New World Ensemble episode includes interviews with the five musicians who made up the ensemble in August, when the performance was filmed (Several of the members on the show have moved away from Tallahassee and been replaced since then, although the ensemble is continuing in the same tashion) "What they're doing is a little divergent and needs more explanation," said Brandon Arnold. who helps produce Outgroom

"This show has an extra dynamic because of their cooperation and the interview clips between pieces," Walker said. Although their music has always been based in improvisation, Saturday's Outgroove will capture the New World Ensemble in a completely improvisational mode They freely improvise, relying only on hand gestures and certain ways of interacting that they've developed to guide them, according to Elisabeth King, who plays accordion, violin and piano for the ensemble

Walker invites anyone who wants to volunteer to be on the crew tor future shows to call her at the FSU Broadcast Station at 487-3170, ext 3170. Tonight she will be tilming the next Outgroove with Cream Abdul Babar and Baccone Dolce from 5 to 8 p.m. Anyone who wants to watch and be part of the audience can head over to the FSU Broadcast Station near the LAMU-LSU School of Engineering

Outgroove airs Saturday night at 11:30 p.m. on WFSU Channel 11 (cable Channel 5).

"It's not just garbage anymore..."

Because of state and local regulations, your household waste is divided into categories that are picked up by different trucks and disposed of differently. If you're a City of Tallahassee solid waste customer, you need to separate your waste into the following categories for collection.

In your garbage can or dumpster: Bags of nonhazardous household waste such as food & kitchen waste, packaging, foil, diapers, cat litter, plastic bags, plas tic bottles not accepted for recycling.

RECYCLABLES

In brown paper bags: newspapers, maga zines, catalogs, junk mail, office paper, cereal boxes, shoe boxes. In the bin empty cans, glass bottles & jars, and plas tic beverage bottles (milk, juice, water & soda) No other plastics. No pizza or wax costed boxes. Most apartment complexes have a recycling center for these items. Use paper bags to hold items

Old washers, dryers, refrigerators (doors removed), conditioners. Managers of apartment complexes have to request special collection of these items

BULKY ITEMS

Furniture, mattresses lamps, bikes, lawn chairs, swingsets, plastic pools, TVs Managers of apartment complexes have to request special collection of these items

Banlon Shirts, Hip-Huggers, Bell Bottoms, Velour, For City customers with residential service, garbage is collected twice a week, recyclables once a week, Polyester, Sweaters, yard waste (like leaves and small limbs) twice a month, bulky items (like furniture) twice a month, and Jackets and So Much More appliances twice a month. Set them out by 6:30 a.m. on your scheduled collection days, within three BUMSHOTS • 618 West Tennessee St. feet of the curb and 10 feet away from obstacles. Call us if you don't know your schedule. Keep piles (904) 222-4090 of yard waste, bulky items and appliances at least four feet apart from each other.

FSU volleyball looks to continue ACC surge

BY JULIE WAID

Staff Writer

After leaving it's mark on the state of North Carolina, the Florida State volley boll team will feurin home to fully Cayn starting tonight to host both of the teams they defeated on the road last weekend.

The Lady Seminoles downed both North Carolina and North Carolina state on their respective home venues, which gave them their tirst back-to-back Atlantic Coast Conterence wins in two seasons. FSU (6-14 overall, 3-7 in the ACC) beat the Lar Heels (14-9-4-5) last Friday in four games (15-11-16-14-16-15, 15-8) in Chapel Hill - Iwo days later, they repeated the performance in Raleigh, handing the Woltpack (17-8-3-5 ACC) a tive-game loss (9-15-7-15-15-10-15-16).

Despite playing without the services of injured middle blockers Susan Hawks and Susan Johnson, several members of the Lady Seminole team took the opportunity to shine in last weekend shout.

Outside hitter LaTova Presberry carned the honor of ACC Player of the Week with a double-double (26 kills, 23 digs) against NCSU. Two freshmen also raised their overall numbers, as Aisha Thornton blasting a career high 23 kills and Kensy Zulueta posted a personal high with 70 assists against the Woltzack.

The victories were a high point in what has been a dreary season for FSU. Prior to last weekend's two wins, an Oct. 6 conquest over Wake Forest was the only ACC victory they had managed all year.

The last time FSU won three straight ACC battles was at the end of the 1994 season, when they beat UNC, Maryland and Virginia. The last four-match conference win streak came in 1993 when FSU rolled off tive wins against

The second period provided a strong test as the Sharks had to kill a five-minute major elbowing penalty to Kevin Malgunas. Tallahassee's work on the power play was inconsistent, as the team scored with a man advantage in the tirst period but also gave up two short handed goals.

Mobile started the scoring in the third period with another short-handed goal, this one coming from Rob Atkinson at 10 04. The Mysticks took a one goal lead with Atkinson's second goal of the game a little over five minutes later.

With six attackers on the ice, the Tiger Sharks were able to get a pileup in front of the net, and O'Brien scored his goal, despite protests from Mobile that the puck had been kicked in.

Immigrants

are doing jobs no one else will do. It's hard, back-breaking work they do to earn very little money for their tami-

Pouncey works for Migrant Services, which provides assistance to migrant workers and immigrants who work in the fishing and agricultural industries in Gadsden County One of her main objectives is to iden tify all immigrant families and see how many need assistance, although the organization does much more she said.

"We help in any way we can," Pouncey said We help children enroll in school and monitor their progress. We provide food and clothes. We even help to register those people who can vote

Pouncey opposes "ridiculous" legislation that seeks to exclude children from school it they or their par ents are in the country illegally

Each child has a constitutional right to an education," Pouncey said. To deny a child an education is unthinkable

Although these sorts of proposed laws and constitutional amendments have not been approved by the Florida Supreme Court, Pouncey says they reflect an increasingly negative attitude toward immigrants and migrant workers

There seems to be a growing hostility towards immigrants which is clear in amendments like these. Pouncey said. I think people forget that this country is a melting pot.

made up of many cultures

Pouncey said immigrants should receive state assistance such as public education and weltare because they come to Florida willing to work for low wages. This in turn keeps consumer prices lower at the supermarket, she added

Pouncey also suggested establish ing another program like the Bracero Program, her tather worked in for several years in the '60s Pouncey said the program, which was in existence from 1942 to 1965, allowed migrant workers to work legally and then return home once the season was over.

In regard to the U.S. Congress District 2 race, Pouncey said Migrant Services does not endorse political candidates.

Her main concern, she says, is simply to get as many former iminigrants registered to vote as possible

As for a candidate, we re looking for someone who's going to be kinder. Pouncey said

Both Sutton and Boyd said they oppose Inglish-only legislation

Clearly we are already a bilingual state, and you just can't change that Boyd said. There is definitely a language problem, but it needs to be handled differently

Sutton said he was concerned how such an amendment would attect the cultural diversity that exists in Florida and other states with large immigrant populations

In regard to exclusion of illegal aliens from public educational institutions. Sutton said every child is entitled to an education

Both Boyd and Sutton said some assistance to immigrants is necessary but within certain limits

We definitely have an immigration problem. Boyd said. We need to ask ourselves how many of these tolks we can take in. We should look at the quality of life for both the immigrants and the citizens already

Boyd added that he disagreed with any proposal to provide assis tance to illegal immigrants who show no realistic intention of trying to become citizens

Thave a problem providing aid it they are illegal immigrants, and it they haven't gone through proce dures to be here legally. Boyd said

Sutton also said that for immigrants to receive government assistance they should become citizens

But he added that emergency care for people should not be denied.

There is the correct way to become a citizen here. Sutton said. We need to enforce deportation more. It's untain for people to come here illegally and have access to benefits reserved for legal residents

"She told us how dangerous it is for pickers in the dark, wet caves

She added she has tried to lend her support to the cause by spread ing the word about the boycott

Lasked (my roommate) not to buy Prime mushrooms anymore and she doesn't, said Eissau, who plans to show her support at the Capitol on Saturday

But not all Tallahassee students are supportive of the UFW scause

I'm not that into it said FSU bookstore employee Michele Lewis Plus we have the Homecoming

Senior sociology major Brian Cer. chiai said he got a first hand glimpse at tarmworkers' living conditions while doing volunteer work for them in Homestead, Florida But he is reluctant to take sides with regard to the workers in Quincy until he knows more of the story

It is impossible according to Cer-chiai to form an opinion without knowing the economics behind the business or the laws that govern the employment of migrant farmwork

Ot course they don't have the right to exploit foreign workers. he said But I want all the facts. Are (the workers) Americans? Are they legal? That makes a big difference

Cerchiai added that as long as Quincy Larms is not in violation of law he sees nothing wrong with the company's actions

It might be that a law needs to be changed in which case (the workers) should attack the state Legislature.

Will Cerelliai join the activists on Saturday?

I support them in will he said But it's not my battle

paign manager Scott Reed, who reportedly asked Perot to get out of the race and endorse Dole

"When people ask me to have private conversations, I honor their commitment," Perot said, calling the issue "weird and totally inconsequential."

Perot made it clear he has no plans to drop out of the race, much less endorse Dole "I'm here to stay," he declared

In an interview, Perot expressed puzzlement about why Dole's aides publicized the news of Reed's meeting with Perot. "Why would anyone put that story out?" he asked. The first news accounts of the meeting were attributed to Dole aides

Perot's luncheon remarks were critical of current fund-raising practices by both Clinton and Dole, but he leveled his most scorching criticism at Clinton

The president is 'selling the Lincoln bedroom" in the White House to political supporters who contribute $100,000, Perot said, referring to published reports that Clinton has invited some major campaign contributors to spend the night at the White House

He also criticized the president for his unwillingness to declare he would never pardon former Arkansas business colleagues James and Susan McDougal, who have been convicted of crimes arising from transactions linked to Clinton

His voice indicating disbelief and disapproval. Perot said. At this critical time, the American people want to elect a president who may pardon convicted criminals and who may be forced out of office

Referring to his prediction of another Watergate, Perot told the National Press Club audience: Just remember where you heard it and put it in the bank

He criticized the administration for inviting convicted cocaine dealer lorge Cabrera to the White House after he contributed $20,000 to the Democratic National Committee Cabrera made the contribution in November 1995, two months before his arrest in the drug case, and attended a Christmas season reception at the White House that year after learning of his arrest according to Amy Weiss Tobe spokeswoman for the DNC Cabrera is now serving a 19-year prison term in Miami

I promise you, that if I am ever your president drug dealers will not be invited to the White House,

He decried what he called the lack of public outrage about ethical lapses in the Clinton administration and the questionable political tundraising by Clinton, Dole and the Democratic and Republican par-

Dunn has 60 more minutes to gain that extra inch | Tiger Sharks win in another shoot-out

Sports Editor

After 358 days and a zillion replays, Warrick Dunn's last second lunge in Charlottesville still has not crossed the goal line

Third-ranked Florida State (5-0) overall, 4-0 in the Atlantic Coast Con-terence) finally has its chance to avenge the loss that more or less wiped away any hopes at a national championship

This time No 13 Virginia (5-1, 3-1) comes into Tallahassee with everything working geared in favor of the Seminoles

Homecoming weekend on FSU's campus, a Seminole defense ranked second nationally in yardage and third in points allowed, and a Cavalier starting quarterback in Tim Sherman who has thrown twice as many interceptions as touchdowns, all together combines for a likely FSU win

And this time the Seminoles will not be taking anyone lightly

"I think (last year's loss) was the best thing that ever happened to us.

said FSU quarterback Thad Busby "People's minds weren't on the game, people were laughing, cutting up Lambda Chi party

BY KIM DROZE Staff Writer

The Florida State University Police Department is investigating the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity over a Saturday morning incident involving underage drinking and possible vandalism to a car driving by the fraternity

FSUPD was contacted early Sat urday morning by the Tallahassee Police Department about a noise complaint at the Lambda Chi Alpha traternity house at 461 W. Park Ave. according to FSUPD spokesman Lt lack Handley

Handley said FSUPD arrived at the location at approximately 2:30 a m. Saturday and found some 300 people inside and outside of the

When police attempted to break up the party, individuals in the house were initially uncooperative, he added

UFW Vice President Rebecca Harrington-Flores (I) whips up the crowd of supporters and onlookers, reaching back to the message of Martin Luther King, Jr., and Ghandi. Arturo Ortiz, holding the sign, says he suffers from an accident which took place at Quincy Farms in 1992.

Flambeau Writer

As part of the last leg of a march that began Wednesday. some 150 tarmworkers and supporters gathered on the steps of the Old Capitol at noon Saturday in their battle to negotiate a contract with the Quincy Tarms mushroom plant in Gadsden County

The four-day march sought to bring attention to the tirings in March of 84 Quincy Farms employees who had been demonstrating against what they called unsafe working conditions and for recognition of their labor union. Police arrested 25 on trespassing charges. which were eventually dropped

Demonstrator and Quincy Farms ex-employee Arturo Ortiz said at the rally that he has suttered insoninia and pain in the head and eyes since an aluminum pipe tell and hit him in the head at Quincy Farms in

Ortiz said that company doctors sent him away with painkillers, but not so much as an X-ray. He hopes the demonstration will prevent repetition

Ralph Swegman hung out with strangers at the Whataburger on Thomasville Road Saturday night, and had a great time

"A bunch of guys were standing around my car when I came out of the store a few days ago and they invited me here," Swegman said

The bunch of guys were members of the Tallahassee Streetrodders club, and they were more interested in Swegman's 1961 Corvair station wagon than him.

That's a unique car," said Tom Davis, an owner of a '65 Camaro. and Streetrodders member. "I don't think I've ever seen a station wagon Corvair. - He'll fit in fine here."

The classic car club is a loose group of local men and-wor come together at the Thomasville Road Whataburger on the last Saturday of every month to share their mutual interest in old cars. From bikers to mechanics, from the wealthy to the - ahh, not so rich, such as Tallahassee Community College student Witt Anderson.

tol on Saturday to show their support for the United Farm Workers and their push to negotiate a labor contract with the Quincy Farms

mushroom plant that's located some 40 miles west of the football capital of the South

And it's too bad that more students haven't taken the time to get involved in this historic effort to unionize area farmworkers. We would only hope that Tallahasseeans cared at least half as much about the labor movement as they do about football and beer. That would be the day.

If you've been too busy or apathetic to notice. In March, some 84 workers were fired, and 25 arrested, for demonstrating during their lunch break against what they say are unsafe working conditions and for recognition of their labor union.

Ever since the firings so rudely took place, the UFW has been trying to drum up support from consumers and the stores that stock the Prime-label mushrooms grown at Quincy Farms. Some 75 stores have joined the boycott, but the supermarket heavyweights like Publix and Bruno's have refused to get rid of Prime.

We think it these stores jumped aboard then this oppressive treatment of low-wage workers wouldn't continue for much longer. But for the boycott to work more of you shroom eaters need to take notice and yote with your dollar.

Birmingham's City Council unanimously passed a resolution in May to show its solidanty with the fired workers. And the Leon County Commission passed a proclamation making last week farmworker's week.

Tallahassee's City Commission should snap out of its stupor and and formally denounce the firings instead of wasting its time condemning party-goers and panhandlers.

Some "America-tirst" types argue, "Hey, it they don't like their job situation, they should find somewhere else to work."

But we don't think that the United States and labor unions should be mutually exclusive phenomena. The egalitarian ideals of liberty harmonize wonderfully with the kinship offered by a union of laborers.

A labor union in Quincy could spark more of that kind of activity in Tallahassee, which would be to your benefit, as fellow laborers struggling for fairness and respect.

Show you care about the untair treatment suffered by your comrades in the movement. Boycott Prime

Clinton's second term grand design for Middle East

BY FRANZ SCHURMANN Pacific News Service

You'd never guess it from this mother of all dead presidential campaigns, but not since Truman has any president so expanded the American Empire in the Middle East as Bill Clinton.

In 1947 Truman proclaimed his. Greece Turkey Doctrine" placing the U.S. alongside Britain as imperial guardians of a Middle Fast then facing decolonization. Today Clinton is making moves that could someday give the U.S. the same power over the region that it still exercises over Europe through NATO.

At the heart of the new strategy is a divide-and-rule tactic in which the U.S. seeks to position itself as the referce. As in boxing all eyes focus on the combatants but it's the reterie who wields the ultimate power.

The new strategy is most sharply defined in the Mideast's two major arenas of conflict — Israel versus Palestine and Iran versus Iraq

In Shimon Peres' day, Clinton showered massive backing on Israel but offered big incentives to the Palestinians if they would go along with the Oslo Accords peace process. King Hussein of Jordan approved with enthusiasm, as did Mubarak of Egypt. Even Syria's Hafiz-Asad was cautiously intenseted.

Today, with Netanyahu in power, the old approach has backfired. Israeli-Palestinian relations are worse than they have been in years. Flussein has written Netanyahu off as hopeless. Mubarak refused to answer Clinton's summons to attend a Mideast conflict resolution session in Washington.

During a joint press conference with King Hussein in Jericho, Arafat opened the door for the U.S. to assume the referee role he proposed that American troops replace Israeli troops in Hebron to keep Israeli settlers and Hebron Arabs apart.

If the U.S. accepts the offer, it will mark a momentous transformation in U.S. Israeli-Palestinian relations instead of being Washington's most favored client in the world, Israel will turn into just another boser in the arena of global politics. Aratat, meanwhile, will be transformed from a virtual sell-out in the eyes of many Arabs to the other respected boxer in the ring. Both combatants will pockey for position with equal status under the unbiased eyes of the U.S. neteres.

Even more dramatic are the moves atoot to transform U.S. relations with Iran and Iraq — the two biggest combatants in the region.

Official U.S. policy towards the two is "dual containment"— a policy that brands both as dangerous demons. The policy aimed to create a ring of peace surrounding Israel made up of Lebanon, Syria, Iordan and Egypt with the Saudis' facit approval. The two demons — Iran and Iraq, both vehemently anti-Israel — were to be kept out of that circle.

If the policy had worked, a Middle Eastern common market would have arisen comprising the countries in the ring but with links to the Gult, Europe and East Asia

Now the ring is gone replaced by Washington's greatest nightmare—conflict spreading everywhere like some vast oil spill in Atghanistan, Central Asia, Kurdistan Saudi Arabia, Eastern Turkey, southern Lebanon, the Occupied Territories, Southern Sudan, the Horn of Africa Algeria, Meanwhile, oil prices are relentlessly using

The only way for the U.S. to maintain its tottering imperial position in the region is to make a dramatic move—similar to what Nixon did in regard to Chinathat would redefine its relations with both Teheran and Baghdad

Like Aratat's proposal to the U.S., a key opening for such a breakthrough comes from an unlikely source the Taliban victory in Afghamstan That victory has sig inficantly altered the perception of an "Tranian threat" in the West.

The Talibans, who are Sunni Muslims, are regarded as more fanatically fundamentalist than their bitter enemies, the Iranian Shi ites. If the Talibans' revolutionary ideology spreads to its neighbors, it could send shock waves right across Eurasia.

Iran — and Iraq as well — have other reasons for accommodating themselves to a radically new U.S. role in the region, the emergence of the radical PKK Kurdish insurgency as the key player in Iraqi Kurdistan

For over a decade, Iran and Iraq have backed rival Kurdish forces while the U.S. has unsuccessfully sought to bring the two together. With neither group strong enough to control Iraqi Kurdistan, their continued bickering only paves the way for the PKK to expand. Branded as terrorists by both Turkey and the U.S. opposed by Iran and leared by Iraq, the PKK provides a perfect excuse for U.S.-engineered cooperation between all four parties.

In what now seems certain to be his second term. Clin ton could be preparing a new Mideastern grand design of cooperation between all existing powers to crush fundamentalism and radical insurgency throughout the Mideast.

"I suffer." Ortiz said. "I don't want anybody else working there to feel my pain."

Rebecca Flores-Harrington. United Farm Workers vice president, encouraged the crowd to remember examples set by Ghandi, Martin Luther King and UFW founder Cesar Chavez, for strength and perseverance in their mission

Demonstrators at the rally circulated support commitment sheets and asked for signatures

"These mushrooms stink of infustice. We need to put some justice in that plant," said Flores-Harrington, who implored rally attendees to spread the word about the UTW's boycott of the Prime-label mushrooms grown at Outney Farms

Supporters came from Atlanta, Jacksonville, Gainesville and Birmingham, and represented organizations such as the Coastalworkers Union, the Gainesville Freedom Coahtion, the National Association of Social Workers and the AHL-CIO

Atlanta Jobs with Justice Chairman James Orange pledged his organization's support and invited the UFW and Quincy farmworkers to lead January's Martin Luther King national march in Atlanta

The same issues Martin Luther King fought against are what work ers are fighting today," Orange said "Legislation should protect workers right to organize.

UFW co-founder Dolores Huerta promised that the crusade's stamina would exceed that of Quincy Farms President Richard Lazzarini, who has refused negotiations and denied the UFW's claims about poor wages and working conditions

"We're going to stay one day longer than Mr. Lazzarini," Huerta said "We're not going away

Brandt Chvirko, an FSU graduate student representing Catholic peace Father Rick Castillo, pastor of St. Thomas the Apostle Catholic Church in Quincy, speaks to the crowd of some 150 farmworkers and their supporters Saturday from the steps of the Old Capitol. The rally marked the end of a four-day march from the gates of Quincy Farms in the town of Greensboro to Tallahassee and justice organization Pax Cristi at the rally, said he thinks that Lazzarini is counting on the union back

"He's trying to starve them out." Chvirko said 'It's a war of attrition, and Lazzarini hopes people will lose interest

At least one rally attendee already has Florida State University senior Scott Jenkins said curiosity and concern brought him to the rally but that nothing he heard there motivated him to join the movement

They re not going to get (public support) with lectures and appeals," lenkins said, showing his unsigned support commitment sheet "Give me something tangible - pictures. stories, reasons to get emotional (about the cause)

But other students, like Laura

Pichardo, said people should show then support for the farmworkers

Farmworkers have really taught us a lot about justice and the hope of attaining it," said Pichardo, a member of FSU's Hispanic Student Union, which sponsored a dinner for march participants Friday night

Atter the rally demonstrators marched to the Bruno's on Apalachee Parkway, which sells only Prime mushrooms. Store manager Steve Summer listened to activists complaints but would not comment or pull Prime mushrooms from the store's shelves. Summer eventually asked demonstrators to leave Brimo's produce section where they were verifying the brand sold by the store Outside the store, workers cheered as a patron leaving Bruno's declared, "I didn't buy mushrooms

New medical school in Tallahassee unlikely

BY JASON BLACK Staff Writer

While the Board of Regents says a university medical complex in Tallahassee is an infeasible idea, many local candidates in November's election say it could be a wise plan, considering the state capital's lack of such a facility.

Currently, there are three universities in the state that have medical schools. The University of Florida and the University of South Florida are the only public universities with a medical complex, and the University of Miami, a private institution, also administers a similar school.

At Florida State University, the only form of medical training offered is through the Program in Medical Sciences PIMS is a one-year program that allows students to finish their first year of medical school in Tallahassee

"Strangely, we have a one or twoyear medical program at FSU, but after a while we send students out to the University of Florida," said Joe Griffin, Republican candidate for House District 9

don't even have a large medical facility," added Griffin, who has focused attention on the need for a local medical school during campaign forums.

The main problem with the construction of a medical school for FSU and Florida A&M University is cost, said Myra Hurt, PIMS director

"The Board of Regents has not been interested in the past primarily because of the financial ramifications of the idea," Hurt said

Indeed, the cost of a medical complex on any campus remains high For example, annual operating costs for the University of Florida Medical Center total some $250 million. And the money needed to keep UF's medical school working rises at a faster rate than the rest of the unjversity as a whole, said Marjorie Turnbull, Democratic incumbent for House District 9.

"In evaluating this kind of step, we need to take a hard look at how a medical school would affect the cost of the university." Turnbull said The conditions are not right for a Tallahassee medical complex, said Alan Stonecipher, Board of Regents director of public relations.

"There's just not any active consideration because it's very expensive and complicated to do." Stonecipher said "But also, the state already has two public medical schools, and its hard convincing anyone of the need for another. And, the tendency nowadays is to close down public medical schools because of the influx of medical schools."

Still, Tallahassee is in dire need of a public health facility, Griffin said

"We have enough brain trust in this area for the idea to work," Griffin said. "What happens in this town is that students, unless they're involved in politics, education or law leave Tallahassee. A medical school and hospital would keep some students here, and give other. industries some opportunities."

The idea of a medical complex in Tallahassee is not new. People have discussed the possibility of a joint medical school between FAMU and FSU in the past. "It's never been formalized." Stonecipher said. "Every few years or so, talk of the medical school bubbles up here and there."

While the BOR doesn't look to act soon on a medical school plan, its five-year master plan is coming up for review

"Every five years we have to come up with a strategic plan for state universities."

Stonecipher said V "Within the next year and a half we'll be sponsoring public hearings at Florida state universities to determine what we need to include For anyone who thinks it's a good idea to build a medical school, those hearings are the best place to bring it up.

Mark Anderson, Republican candidate for House District 7, said the medical school idea is much needed. "C'mon, Tallahassee should be a central location for a medical school," Anderson said. "After all, it is the state capitol!"

New York Times News Service Identity of body found in Mexico still a mystery

CUAIIMALPA, Mexico than two weeks have passed since investigators unearthed a decomposed body on a horse ranch in a cool valley above Mexico City where Raul Salinas de Gortari, the elder brother of the former president, used to jump his thoroughbreds

But they have made no progress in learning who the dead man is or how the body arrived at the site.

When Attorney General Antonio Lozano Gracia announced the discovery Oct. 9, he said he was confi dent that the body would be the 'conclusive" evidence to show that Salinas had ordered the assassination in 1994 of a prominent politician, Jose Francisco Ruiz Massieu

But forensic tests have failed to confirm Lozano's hunch that the body is that of Manuel Munoz Rocha, accused of conspiring with Salinas to organize and pay for that

The last time Munoz Rocha was seen alive was the day after the killing in Mexico City, when he told a friend that he was going to meet with Raul Salinas.

Information that emerged after the body was found raised the bizarre possibility that it had been buried here by someone seeking to incriminate Salinas.

Mexicans are paying rapt atten tion to the scandal because Raul Salinas has become something of a national demon, seen to personity everything they distrust in this country's politics

He draws all of the rage that Mexicans feel toward his brother, Carlos Salinas de Gortari, who in his term as president created an illusion of prosperity that crumbled in a devastating recession as soon as he left office in 1994

In addition, the killing of Ruiz Massieu, who was the secretary general of the governing Institutional Revolutionary Party, left the impression that rifts in the party were tearing apart a political system that had been stable for decades

For hundreds of thousands of Afghan families who have lost their homes, the anonymity of the loss only adds to the pain

So when a battered kabul taxi arrived here Thursday morning, smoke still rising and the smell of torched ruins heavy in the air, villagers clamored to tell outsiders how Sar Cheshma had died village abandoned for a moment their rush to board trucks waiting to carry them away as refugees

The villagers' story has been a tamiliar one in the 18 years that Atchanistan has been at war. The twist this time was that the men who destroyed Sar Cheshma were the turbaned warriors of the Taliban, the ultra-conservative Muslims who have imposed a medieval social order across much of Atchanistan

Iwo years ago, the lahban sprang from religious schools with a promise to suppress the carnage that has killed an estimated 1.5 milhon Atchans and driven millions of others from their homes

The villagers of Sar Cheshma say 30 Taliban fighters swept in at dawn on Tuesday, then spent several hours pouring canisters of gasoline into the 120 courtward houses and setting them on fire

NEW YORK - Ending years of tutility and self-doubt, the Yankees defeated the Atlanta Braves 3-2 in a taut thriller Saturday night to win their first World Series title in 18 years. Crowning a magical season of many small miracles, the Yankees dropped the tunereal first two games at home and then stormed back to snatch tour straight from the defending champions and claim a destiny that once seemed their very birthright

The spellbinding six-game triumph over the Braves bestowed on the Yankees their 23rd world championship, by far the most of any team, and perhaps their sweetest. Never since the Yankees began winning World Series titles in 1923 with a perfunctoriness that became an autumn habit has this storied tranchise waited so long between victories. Before now the team's lengthiest interlude stretched between 1962 and 1977

The last time either of New York's baseball franchises had captured the world title was a decade ago, when the Mets mounted their improbable comeback over the Boston Red Sox This was also only the third time that a team had lost the first two games at home and then gone on to take the championship. The last team to do it

New York scored all of its runs in the third inning off Greg Maddux. the four-time Cy Young winner who shut down the Yankees with captivating artistry in Game Two The Yankees got a lead-off double from Paul O'Neill, a triple by Joe Girardi and singles by Derek Jeter and Bernie

Maddux went seven and twothirds innings, and was dominating except for that one inning. Ultimately, the game came down to an electritving ninth inning. The Braves strung together three singles to score their second run. With two men on and two men out, Mark Lemke came to the plate to face John Wetteland, the Yankees' hard-throwing No 1 reliet pitcher Lemke fouled out, and the crowd erupted in full, crazy voice

The culminating game brought a collective primal scream of happiness from long-agonizing and impatient Yankee tans, who found redemption in a talented and exquisitely steadtast-team that survived three wrenching playott rounds and continually seemed to rebound from six or seven runs behind to declare its superiority

Gushing, delinous, joyous New Yorkers bellowed it out through this morning in all the singsong accents of the city. We re No 1

And, for the time being, they are,

BY PAUL BERK AND PAUL ROTHMAN

The Tallahassee Tiger Sharks (4-1-0) gave coach Terry Christensen a birthday gift Sunday night, as they defeated the Jacksonville Lizard Kings (0-4-0) for the second time this eason, 7.4 in front of 4.456 fans at the Leon County Civic Center

Tallahassee dominated the pace throughout the game, outshooting the Lizard Kings 36-24 Dennis Maxwell led the way for the Tiger Sharks, scoring two goals and one assist in a second period that saw the Sharks tie a team-record six goals

"We generated many opportunities tonight. Christensen said Once we broke the ice with our first goal, the puck seem(ed) to go in easier afterwards. We fore-checked and worked hard on offense, but in the process, we kept ourselves from being vulnerable, unlike our game against Pensacola

The Tiger Sharks controlled the tirst 10 minutes of the opening period, until a melee in tront of the Jacksonville net led to a roughing penalty against Tallahasser defenseman Rob Dumas. Then the wheels came off, as lacksonville forward Mike McLaughlin converted 1.31 into the power play with a one-timer from

Craig Lutes

One minute later, Sean O Brien accidentally slipped the puck by his own goalie for a score, credited to Ronalds Ozolinsh Despite dictating the pace and outshooting their opponent 13-3, the Tiger Sharks had dug themselves a hole, trailing 0-2

In the second period, the Tiger Shark defense created a three-on-two odd-man rush, resulting in a goal by Greg Geldart. The Jacksonville bench contended that Geldart was in the crease, but to no avail

The tirst goal ignited the Tiger Sharks, as Kevin Malgunas took a cross-ice pass from John Uniac and put it by goalie Brian Renfrew to even the score Both teams traded scores in the next minute, Tallahassee's coming courtesy of Maxwell.

We had trouble in our own end and they found a way to take advantage." Rentrew said. We have to find something to change our luck."

With the score tied 3-3, the Tiger Sharks went on a rampage, as Maxwell, Jed Fiebelkorn and Jim Paradise all scored in a seven-minute span to end the period

"We knew we had to jump on their defense (going into the second period). Maxwell said. "They were young, and they didn't know which way they were going

The third period was a defensive struggle, as the Sharks clung to their three-goal lead Jason Trzcinski scored his first goal of the year in the 10th minute for the final nail in Jacksonville's coffin. With the win, the Tiger Sharks completed a split in two games this weekend, as they lost to the Pensacola Ice Pilots 6-3 on the road Friday night

FSU soccer keeps rolling in ACC ambush

BY RIA STEWART Staff Writer

KA-BOOM!

Just when 263 Seminole faithful were beginning to accept yet another disappointing defeat at the hands ot an Atlantic Coast Conference team, the Florida State soccer team (12-5-1 overall, 2-3 in the ACC) found its offense and exploded for three goals in 14 minutes, defeating North Carolina State (11-6-1, 3-2-1) 4-2 at the Seminole Intramural Soccer Complex on Sunday.

The rally began at the 74-minute mark, when freshman Angela Bonaffino scored on a free kick from 26 yards out, knotting the score 2-2

"Angela's tree-kick turned everything around It was gorgeous it was a rocket," said FSU coach

Heather Kerby-Nelson

'We've been working pretty hard in practice on the tree kicks. I telt the pressure, I knew I needed to score, said Bonattino

Until Bonattino's goal, the only score the Lady Seminoles had been able to muster was NCSU's own goal when lody Coylon kicked a cross pass into her own net

"An own goal is always a destroying tactor, especially when it wasn't a fluke and just bounced in That one was a very bad detensive error," said Woltpack coach Alvin Corneal

The half ended with the score fied

The Woltpack then went up 2-1 in the second halt when, at the 58 minute mark of the game. NCSU's Megan leidy headed the ball in over ISU goalkeeper Melissa luhl. After leidy's goal, it looked as if the Lady Seminoles were just going through the motions on their way to defeat Then, in the last to minutes, 1SU caught fire

"I never telt like we had the win We only had five starters on the field (due to injuries). We would (need) to have had (a) three or tour goal margin for me to have been comfortable," said Corneal

Senior torward Kelley Poole tollowed up Bonattino's tiee kick by scoring the go-ahead goal from six yards. She scored on a header from a corner kick by Bonattino.

It was a great ball put in there by Bonattino. I telt like I was up there (going for the ball) forever." said

"It teels good to get the single-season sack record, but I wasn't thinking about it during the game," said Boul ware 'I just concentrated on stop ping the Virginia offense

One time Heisman trophy front runner Warrick Dunn picked up his 18th career 100 yard plus rushing performance as a Seminole (131 yards, 26 carries), good for fourth on the all-time ACC list

Despite everything negative that can be said about the win, Bowden points out that the most important thing is that they did win The question is Would a similar effort be good enough to beat Horida?

"Ithink we are judged by Horida's standards," said Bowden "But we don't really worry too much about that until we have to play them

The Florida State volleyball team continued its Atlantic Coast Conterence hot streak Sunday handing the North Carolina State Woltpack a four game loss (15 11, 15-8, 15-13, 15-6) before a crowd of 178 at Tully Gym It was the fourth ACC win in a row for the Lady Seminoles, who defeated North Carolina at home Friday night, in addition to downing both the Tar Heels and the Woltpack away last weekend

Game One started off strong for the Lady Seminoles (8-14 overall, 5-7 in the ACC), who jumped to a 2-0 lead thanks to an NCSU error and a Holly Schneider kill. NSCU (18-9 overall, 3-6 in the ACC) rallied back to tie the game at two, then again at six before pulling ahead of FSU to lead 9-6. Aces from Kensy Zulueta and LaToya Presberry fied it up again at 11 Schneider then hit a hot streak and blasted three kills to pull ahead of the Wolf pack 14-11, leading the Lady Seminoles to the win-

Game Two, though went all NCSU's way Atter talling down 2-7, the Lady Seminoles got no closer than 7-10 The Wolfpack lead an error plagued FSU the game and though Schneider and Presberry helped kept it close NCSU surged ahead once more to win it. 15-8

The third game looked identical to the second, as the aggressiveness of the Wolfpack bewildered the Lady Seminoles, which showed in several unforced errors

At one point, the Woltpack built 12.5 lead. However, staring at a second game loss in a row lit a fire under ISU and they came back with a vengeance

Schneider Thornton and Presberry strung together kills and an ace from Laura Arnold enabled the Lady Seminoles got the Lady Seminoles back in the game. The small crowd sounded of a capacity crowd at Doak Campbell Stadium, inspiring their Lady Seminoles to finish off the comeback, as Thornton and Presberry teamed on a block to give the ISU the lead, 14-13. A final kill from Arnold won it for FSU 15 13

The come-trom-behind upset gave ISU the confidence they needed to sail past NCSU and anchor a 12-2 lead early in Came Four. The Wolfpack rallied back, but were no match for the Lady Seminoles and Arnold once again recorded the game-wining kill, this one to ice the match

We're more relaxed, we're having tun," said Schneider who had a career-high 31 kills in the match. That's the key to keeping up the streak "

keeping the team positive is what has worked for us. said head coach Cecile Reynaud. "(When we tell them they can win), they start believing it - then they do

Together with the 10-15, 15-8, 9-15, 15-7, 15-10 marathon win Friday night, the Lady Seminoles have now put together their longest conference winning streak since 1993

Peter Boulware sacks UVa quarterback Aaron Brooks ... again.

Sports Editor

The second-largest crowd in Doak Campbell history. 80 237, breathed a collective sigh of relief Saturday as the Seminoles (6-0 overall, 5-0 in the Atlantic Coast Conference) denied the Cavaliers (5-2, 3-2) a win with 1 10 to go in the game, as lames stepped in front of a Tim Sherman pass to effectively seal the win, a 31-24 effort.

It was another break-out game for Seminole quarterback Thad Bushy, who threw for two touchdowns and a career-high 316 yards on 25-of-36 passing, but Busby could just as easily have been the goat, instead of the hero

Busby turned the ball over twice in the second quartet, setting up Virginia on FSUs 4-yard line after a fumble Virginia quarterback Aaron Brooks took it in two plays later for Virginia's second score of the game

Later, an interception gave the UVa the ball at its own 49 but the Seminole detense held strong, pushing the Cavaliers back seven vards before they would punt

What has been asked of Busby this year is that he not make mistakes, and he has answered the call in five games. But against a Cavalier team that was vastly outplayed in all phases of the game. Colzie's interception should not have been necessary to secure a win.

"I was very happy with the way Bushy played." said

Hoo-wee, Fsu Wins

Wayne Messam had caught just seven balls totalling 80 yards in he five games prior to Saturday. As the third wideout option, the senior had relegated himself to ther, "non-traditional" receiver duties, such as blocking, Against

Messam

Joe Rowe. The catch was one of four third-down conversions Teammate Andre Cooper attrib uted his own 100-yard performance to Messam's play, he drew coverage away from he and E.G.

It seems that FSView sports editor Cheidu Ozuzu mistakenly reported Scott Bentley at fault for FSU's last loss in Doak Campbell Stadium, the "Wide Right II" loss to the Hurricanes. Dan Mowrey was responsible for that

FSU head coach Bobby Bowden. But for the first time he came close to making some mistakes that could do us in We've got to do a better job of teaching him to get rid of

As a result of Seminole mistakes, such as a pair of 15. yard unsportsmanlike conduct penalties, a Pooh Bear Williams fumble just before he would have rumbled into the end zone, a decision by Laveranues Coles to take a kick out of the end zone-picking up just five yards, and a pair of shanked punts (15 and 24 yards) from Sean Liss. FSU was trailing at halftime for the first time since last Thanksgiving, 17-14—It telt like last year a little when they went ahead," said FSU linebacker Daryl Bush. "But that's when we just came together and said. Hey, we re going to stop these guys. In the midst of all the tension, milestones were achieved for some Seminole stars

Peter Boulware, whose grandtather passed away earli er in the week surpassed Ron Simmons, single-season school sack record. Simmons recorded 12 quarterback sacks in 1980. After three sacks of Virginia quarterbacks Boulware's seven-game total has now reached 12.5

Simmons was on hand to see the second Seminole in as many games eclipse his career mark (25). Boulware has 27.5, just 1.5 behind teammate and record-holder Reinard

With it his from indous enthusiasm for gisides, domes. Dr. k Mara would never get these

Domes of various kinds have been built for centuries, but it wasn't until the late 1940s that Buck minster Fuller developed a way to interlock triangles to form a geodesic dome. The structure was found to have some amazing properties including great strength despite minimal construction materials energy efficients lease it assembly and liw list

It's not nest another their plan." Mara said. This is a while different way of thinking about space. One of my tay rife quotes is from Winston Churchill. He said. First we shape our build ings, and then they shape us. Buildings affect us more than we know

It was more than 20 years ago when Mara got booked. At the time he was a math teacher He saw a magazine article that gave instructions for making geodesic models, and was captivated by the beautiful logic of the construction, he was able to make. For years Mara did house repair and in the process he developed a desire to build homes that are as maintenance free as possible. And geodesic domes fit that description perfectly

When Mara went to the bank to get financing for his full-size building plans, he was met with

That translates into energy eth centiliving for those who call a dome their domicile. A traditional home has some Wipercent more sufface and through which heat can be lost. Hamilton's dome also has more insulation than is standard.

It will be so energy ethorent just the waste heat eff light bulbs and bodies will provide a tair amount of the heat, and the air conditioning would just have to be enough to take the humidity out of the air. Mara said. Once it gets to a temperature it stays there for a long time because its net losing and gaining energy constantly.

That contributes to a dome being one of the most environmentally sound options available. Not only does it take less to heat or oxil one but Mara says that a properly built dome will last longer than it would take to grow the materials that go into its production. This is partly because of the strength of the triangle the basic goodsess unit.

In fact. Mara says he thinks a few hurricanes coming through town would help people see the viability of domes because he says they can withstand 230 mile per hour winds

More on the Lambda Chi party bust

BY KIM DROZE

Staff Writer

Police say they have some leads, but no arrests, in a Saturday morning Lambda Chi party that saw underage drinking and $2,000 in damages caused by beer bottles thrown at a car passing by the fraternity.

"We're interviewing individuals and trying to generate information about the vandalism of a vehicle and are attempting to identify underage drinkers at the party," Florida State University Police Department spokesman Jack Handley said Monday.

FSUPD arrived early Saturday morning at the Lambda Chi house after receiving a noise complaint from the Tallahassee Police Department.

Lambda Chi president Eric Pogue said Monday that the fraternity is working with FSUPD to get to the bottom of the incident.

"We've got some leads of some people we think were involved, and we're following up on them," Pogue said. "We, like the FSUPD, want to find out what happened."

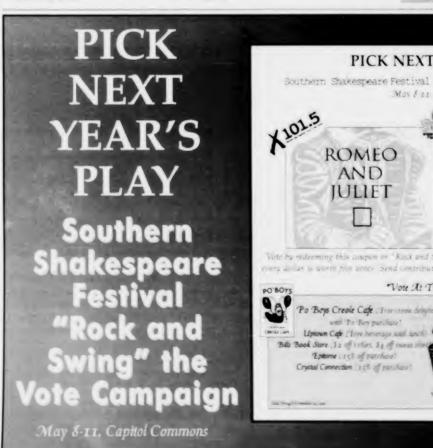

In addition to fraternity members, police are interviewing non-members who were among the 300 people in attendance at the party. FSUPD initially did not receive cooperation from fraternity members the night of the party, Handley said.

"At first attempt to disperse, they refused to turn off the music," Handley said. "An officer did that himself in an effort to disperse. One mem ber informed the officer he was on private property, and (that the officer) had to leave." The officer told the member that a noise complaint had been made, and if he did not receive assistance, the member was subject to arrest, Handley said.

"We began to receive cooperation, and people began to disperse," he said. Interfraternity Council president Ryan Cappy said IFC will look into the matter. But Cappy added he does not know if IFC will take any actions against the fraternity.

"The police report has to come over here," Cappy said. "It's going to take a little while before we know that stuff. I don't know how serious the allegations are." Lambda Chi was suspended last fall after 15 members went into an associate member's house, hurt the member and damaged his property. Although the fraternity is currently on general probation, the suspension ended in August.

More bad news on the ills of tobacco smoke

1996 Fronomist Newspaper Ltd.

NEW YORK AND LONDON - Every time they find a smoking gun, the bullet turns out to have been a blank

In August share prices in America's big tobacco compames tell by 15 percent when a court in Horida award. ed damages to a smoker suffering from lung cancer. But the shares have since largely recovered as other assemts have gone the tobacco industry's way

On Oct 18 for the first time evidence was produced showing how agarette smoke can cause lung cancer Once again, shares in the tobacco firms dropped imme diately - this time by 5 percent. Yet by Oct. 23 the recovers appeared to have begun

The new evidence in a paper for Science an Ameri can academic journal shows that the metalselized form of a compound called benzo(a)pyrene, a significant compenent of eigarette smoke, is associated with mutation al trouble spots in the DNA of PST a gene that in its nor mal term prevents the growth of tumors

from a scientific viewpoint this is important since it shows a mechanism by which smoke can cause cancer However from a legal viewpoint, it looks less lethal

tor the tobacco tirms

To be sure, they have long denied that smoking does harm, this result should make continued denial harder But their legal detense has concentrated instead on the argument that smokers choose to smoke

After all eigarette packets in America have carried health warnings since the 1960s, and a broad association between cottin nails and poor health has been known for tar longer than that The new scientific proof simply contirms that this strategy is the tobacco industrasbest bet

The more intriguing result of the new research may be that it boosts efforts to create less dangerous eigaretter

RIR Nabisco America's second biggest tobacco firm has said that it will work to remove compounds from cigarette smoke it they can be shown to cause diseas

I ven it RIR accepts the Science paper as proof of this tacking the problem will be tricky Although benzoralpyrene is the most careinogenic compound in organitte smoke, there are five or six similar compounds that are close behind. Himmating just one will not do much to reduce the risk

The alternative - designing something that looks like a cigarette, tastes like a cigarette, teels like a cigarette but is sater than a eigarette is devilishly hard

RIR introduced a smokeless cigarette called Premier in 1988. Smokers hated the taste, and it was withdrawn atter tive months

This year the tirm is trying again, with a device called Edipse now being test marketed in Chattanooga. Tenn. Similar mode's named Hi O and Inside are being test ed in Germany and Sweden

Felipse heats a mixture of tobacco and glycerine by means of a glowing tip of smoldering charcoal rather than burning the tobacco itself

The tlavor is watted out of the shredded tobacco, so the theers goes but without smoke. And oddly the outside of the cigarette does not get shorter when it burns

The rumor is that although Lelipse is difficult to get ised to, it has so far been more successful than Premier But it is not clear that the device is necessarily safer. The glycerine vapor may also be carcinogenic, and the levels of carbon monoxide are high

Besides, it the Food and Drug Administration decides that Eclipse is not a cigarette but a micotine delivery it may require RIR to conduct lengthy clinical mals before it will allow the product to be sold widely

Biological scientist wins Ross Oglesby award

Robert Reeves, a biological science associate professor, is the recipient of this year's Ross Oglesby Award God Key the ISL leadership honorary society pre sents the award each year at Homecoming to a faculty member or statter for outstanding service to students and to the university. Reeves was part of a feam of FSU researchers who in response to a bacteria tainted raw oyster harvest in 1992, developed through the study of DNA molecules a probe that quickly located harmful Vibrio Vulnificus pathogens in ovsters that are potential ly tatal to humans it ingested. The probe received a 1995 U.S. patent. Reeves was an assistant professor of chem. istry at FSU from 1971 to 1977 joined the faculty at the University of Tennessee Center for the Health Sciences then returned to FSU in 1971 as an associate professor of biological science. He was director of ISU's Program in Medical Sciences from 1979 to 1992, and was award ed the PIMS R I Winzler Teaching Award in 1985. He received a Teaching Incentive Program (TIP) award in 1995 Originally from Lynwood Calit. Reeves earned a bachelor's degree in biochemistry from the University of California Berkeley in 1963 and a doctorate in biochem istry from New York University in 1969. He held a National Institutes of Health postdoctoral tellowship at UC Berkeley 1969-71

A member of the American Society for Microbiology the American Association for the Advancement of Science and Sigma Xi, Roeves has received research funding from NIH, the National Science Foundation, and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration

Grad students get research grants

Thirty three research grants were awarded to graduate students currently writing their dissertations

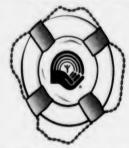

The grants, presented for the tirst time, assist students with out-of-the-ordinary expenses, such as travel to do research away from Tallahassee or for purchasing specialized supplies or equipment. Awards may be as much as $500

Another competition will be held in the spring semis ter when about 30 more grants are expected to be award.

Grant recipients and their major area of study are

- · College of Arts and Sciences Stanley Carpenter John Weinzierl and Keith Tinker (history). "It's not just garbage anymore..."

Because of state and local regulations, your household waste is divided into categories that are picked up by different trucks and disposed of differently. If you're a City of Tallahassee solid waste customer, you need to separate your waste into the following categories for collection.

GARBAGE

In your garbage can or dumpster Bags of non hazardous household waste such as food & artchen waste packag ing foil, diapers, cat litter plastic bags, plas tic bottles not accepted for recycling brown paper bags newspapers magazines, catalogs juni mail, office paper cerea boxes shoe boxes. In the bin empty cans, glass bottles & jars, and plastic beverage bottles (milk juice water & soda) No other plastics. No pizza or wax-coated boxes. Most apartment com plexes have a recycling center for these tems. Use paper bags to hold items.

APPLIANCES

tamps, bikes, lawn chairs. swingsets, plastic pools. TVs Managers of apart ment complexes have to request special collection of these items

VARD WASTE

In trash bags or small boxes Vegetative matter such as teaves pine straw & grass clippings Stack small timbs (6 teet long, 4 inches in diameter). Managers of apartment complexes have to request special collection

For City customers with residential service, garbage is collected twice a week, recyclables once a week, yard waste (like leaves and small limbs) twice a month, bulky items (like furniture) twice a month, and appliances twice a month. Set them out by 6:30 a.m. on your scheduled collection days, within three feet of the curb and 10 feet away from obstacles. Call us if you don't know your schedule. Keep piles of yard waste, bulky items and appliances at least four feet apart from each other.

Pro women's hoops open with a bang in Massachusetts

c.1996 The Boston Globe

SPRINGFIELD - There were lights and cameras to mark the Civic Center debut of the New England Blizzard Sunday night

Most of all though there was action Plenty of action

They saw Olympic star Teresa Edwards now wearing a Glory uniform at her best especially during crunch time. She scored 14 of her game-high 31 points in the tourth period including the Glory's final 5 in the last minute

None of the 31 though, were as big as her 3-pointer from the right circle with just under a minute to play That put the Glory ahead 99.97 and a few seconds later she cement ed things with a scoop from the lane

Tlike to consider myself a cometitive player, said Edwards, and I think my competitive nature took over down the stretch. I m the player with the most experience and just did my job

Edwards was a crisp 10 for 16 from the floor, including 5 for 7 from the 3-point are She also was 6 for " from the line. Throw in seven detensive rebounds and six assists and you have a full night's work

The Glory also received stellar efforts from Neisa Johnson (19 points) and Saudia Roundtree (18) The Glory, who had 13 3-pointers in their first four games, bagged 10 Sunday night

Roundtree last year's Naismith winner as the nation's top college player while at Georgia effectively put the clamps on the Blizzard's Carolvn lones in the second half after Jones burned the Glory with 1" firsthalf points. She tinished with 27

(Roundtree) came to me at the half and said. I want lones said. Glory coach Trish Roberts. Any time a player asks for that type challenge. I like to give them the oppor-

turn a bit too sour for the governor

BY MARY MCLACHLIN Con News Service

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. - The penny-a-pound sugar tax war roared into its final week of campaigning Monday with attacks and counterattacks that drew Cov Lawton Chiles and South Florida water managers into the tire

Chiles was so irked by the sugar industry's latest TV ad attacking the South Florida Water Management District that he sent an angry letter denouncing the commercial see the new ads pulled.

and urging the campaign headquarters to dump it The ad portrays the 16-county agency as a wasteful bureaucracy with "private planes for board members" and cites a 1990 tax watchdeg group's criticism that Chiles wants to its budget controls were lax

great disservice by abandoning a levelheaded discussion of the issue in favor of an all-out effort to bash government," said Chiles letter

The ad won t be dropped, U.S. Sugar's campaign leader said.

We believe the water management district is the most wasteful agency in Florida government," Bob Buker said

At the same time, the water board chairman released a statement supporting sugar growers' arguments against a tax on raw sugar to pay for Everglades restoration

There is no science that justifies this tax said Board Chairman Valerie Boyd of Naples, whose family businesses include agriculture

Environmental groups got the penny-apound tax worth about $900 million over 25 years, on next Tuesday's election ballot as one of three constitutional amendments dealing with cleanup of Everglades pollution blamed on growers' farm drainage The $796 million first phase is spelled out in the state's Everglades Forever Act. which obligates growers to pay up to $320 million. Water managers haven't designed the second phase, roughly estimated at

Hillary Clinton swings through Tallahassee to stump for hubby

BY MOLLY CRAWFORD Flambeau Writer

First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton will encourage young people to vote when she speaks at a nonpartisan rally today on Florida A&M University's campus as part of a north Florida tour

Mrs. Clinton's speech and this rally are designed to remind people of the importance of voting," said Eric Pierce, Youth Vote director for the Florida Democratic Party

Clinton's speech is part of the Get Out The Vote' effort, which encourages all registered voters to participate in the upcoming election, according to Pierce Her appearance will be reminiscent of President Clinton's visit to FAMU in 1992, he added

Clinton's speech will highlight such issues as the importance of historically black colleges, the youth vote and education, he said. She also is expected to discuss the educational goals that President Clinton has stressed during his campaign

To promote the rally Pierce said he has been working with the FAML and Florida State University College Democrats as well as contacting campus groups such as the National Organization for Women, the Lesbian, Cay, Bisexual Student Union and the Women's Center

"We want to make it clear that this is not just for left-wing organizations only," Pierce said

Patricia Allen, president of FSU's College Democrats, said her organization has worked to alert people at FSU of the First Lady's visit

John Livingston, president of the FAMU College Democrats, said everyone is invited, especially students

We are targeting college campuses to get people out and get them to vote, "Livingston said. "Low voter turnout has been a problem for FAMU, but we hope Mrs. Clinton's arrival will be a catalyst to get people to vote

Livingston said the College Democrats at FSU and FAMU hosted meetings last night to make signs to give the First Lady "a roaring wel

Clinton and Dole fence over pace of job creation

BY ANDREW MOLLISON

Cax News Service

WASHINGTON President Clinton and former Sen. Bob Dole disagree about how tast to create new jobs, but have similar positions on other important aspects of employment policy

Both say they want to create more jobs boost take home pay and improve job security. Each says he

- · Roise take home pay through tax changes. Both offer per-child tax credits for parents. Dole offers cuts in income tax rates for everyone, and Clinton offers expansion of earned income tax credits for low-income workers
- · Increase worker skills through tax incentives for education
- · Expand the labor force by transforming welfare to workfare
- · Encourage innovation by loos ening rigid regulatory controls of business activity
- · Simplify the complex federal system of job training
- · Most important encourage the economic growth that creates new

But they haven't agreed on how fast the economy can expand without disrupting the booming stock markets and calm bond markets that have funneled millions of dollars into the treasuries of their campaigns and parties

Clinton says his steady as-you-go approach would keep the economy strong' so that private employers mostly small business owners - can continue to create a net increase of about 2.5 million jobs a year while the economy jogs along at a steady. non-inflationary annual rate of around 2.5 percent.

"Our nation is clearly moving in the right direction,' Clinton says

To be sure, the economy is growing more slowly than in previous recoveries from recessions, as Dole frequently points out

But Clinton is the first president in decades to seek re-election without a job-robbing recession to explain. Threats of rising intlation that accompanied earlier recoveries also taded in his first term.

Indeed the nation's "misery

- produced by adding the intlation rate to the unemployment rate - this year has averaged 8.3 percent That's lower than it has been since Jimmy Carter invented the term during his successful attacks on President Gerald Ford's 'misery index" of 13.4 percent in

But that's not good enough, according to Dole

The president's content with the was things are. the Republican challenger said. We must commit ourselves to a far more ambitious path that puts growth, expanding opportunities, rising incomes and soaring prosperity at the heart of national policy

Casting aside his previous penchant for step-by-step adjustments, Dole proposes speeding up the annual growth rate to a robust 3.5 percent through a bold plan of big tax cuts for families, investors and businesses, as well as smaller government fewer business regulations. tighter spending controls and elimi

The coverage of the visit of former Vice President Quayle in the October 23, 1996, issue of your newspaper was very reveal ing, especially when one considers some of the things that the Hambeau has said in the past What it all boils down to is that the Hambeau is a newspaper run by liberals who retuse to concede anything to people who disagree with their viewpoint.

The article on the Quavle visit that was published on the day of the visit set the tone. It included the standard liberal jab at Quayle that reters to the "potatoc incident" ("Democrat Allen Boyd says he thought Quayle was in town to give Republican Sutton a spelling lesson.") I iberals never fail to bring this up when the topic of discussion is Dan Quayle. Of course, they ignore the facts of the story. When Vice President Quayle was visiting that school he had not plans to drill students on spelling. The teacher shoved the cards into his hands and asked. him to quiz her students. One of those cards contained the word potatoe. Unlike the NEA, Quayle is not one that wants the Feds. overriding the desires of teachers, so when the boy left out the e, Quayle asked him to spell it again. It is typical of the liberals in the media to focus on trivial incidents such as this instead of actually tocusing on substance

But it was not until the following day that the colors of your newspaper's bleeding heart liberalism shone through. Again. they executed something that is in the standard playbook of the liberal media. Instead of publishing a photo that shows the size of the crowd or shows the diversity of the people in the crowd, publish a less than admirable picture that fits into the liberal's stereotype of a conservative. Since there is not a picture of the crowd-the newspaper can make an absurd statement about the size of the crowd. More than 100 people?

Really?

Again this is the norm for liberals. Instead of admitting that over 1,000 people turned out, make a statement that is true-vet extremely misleading. As I said earlier in this letter, liberals. refuse to concede anything to their opponents. This newspaper was atraid to admit that the Florida State campus is full of enthusiastic students who oppose the liberal views of the Flam beau. (This comes as no surprise to me. After all, liberalism is the most gutless decision an individual can make, so why would liberals do anything that takes a bit of courage on their part? In fact. I will be surprised if you are bold enough to print this letter without heavily editing it so that my views are distorted.) This denial is ironic, when one considers that the writer of the article on the Quayle visit is the same one who wrote about the apathy of the students towards politics back in September. Miss Droze was quite scathing of the students in that article, for not turning out a listen to the Democratic candidates speak. She tried to pass of the noon-turnout on the students not caring about politics. Yet, when it was shown that students DO CARE that they do not care about Democrats, they care for people with real ideas and real solutions, she was sure to give the exact

It is time for your liberals to face reality. In this country there is a rising tide of conservatism that is sweeping over liberals You and your triends in other parts of the media are trying hard to deny its existence. One day however, you and your comrades will come to realize this. Albeit much too late, for this revelation will come after your defeat

I am a prisoner on Death Row at the Arizona State Prison

I am seeking correspondence. I'm not looking for anyone in particular to write to, just anyone that would be interested. I don't get much mail, and the mail I do get is usually from the courts and generally bad news, so it's just like not getting any mail at all, or worse than not getting any depending on how you look at things

I am without tamily and have been in this cell for almost a dozen years already. I would like correspondence from anyone who has the time to write letters and would enjoy receiving let ters from me in return

Governor criticizes suger industry ads

Dear Citizens to Save Jobs and Stop Unfair Taxes:

The proposed sugar tax amendnents on this year's ballot pose a critical decision for the people of Florida. While I have not taken a position for or against the sugar tax amendments, I believe it's important that voters have the facts they need to make a clear choice on this issue.

Your organization is currently airing an ad tagged "Sugar Waste" which criticizes the South Florida Water Management District, (SFWMD) and its employees for being wasteful. The ad paints an inaccurate, negative picture of SFWMD and falls outside the boundaries of fairness

The South Florida Water Mangement is a well-run entity that does a good job for Florida citizens. SFWMD is not home to overinduiged fat cats like your ad portravs. On the contrary. The district's board members do not receive a salary for the hundreds of hours each year they dedicate to the important work of the district. The employees who work for SFWMD are dedicated public servants who stand up every day to safeguard our drinking water, protect homes from flooding and preserve our fragile environment.

Your advertising campaign opposing the sugar tax amendments is doing the public a great disservice by abandoning a leveiheaded discussion of the issue in favor of an all-out effort to bash government. While this tactic may be fashionable, it clouds the decision facing our people on this issue and generates mistrust and alienation among our citizens adding to public cynicism of public service and government. Our citizens deserve better.

Our people deserve a fair debate that weighs the merits and shortcomings of the sugar tax amendments. I urge you to reconsider airing the "Sugar Waste" spot and others like it so we can ensure our people make an informed decision on this extremely important issue on Nov. 5.

Clinton says he accepts all those approaches except the central element, big tax cuts, which he says would "blow a hole in the defect" and hurt economic growth.

"What we have rhetorically is a liberal Republican running against a moderate Republican, and it's hard to decide which is which," marveled Bruce Bartlett, a senior tellow in the Washington office of the Dallasbased National Center for Policy Analysis.

"There don't seem to be many voters interested in a big tax cut or a big jobs program. Bartlett said." And that really leaves the growth rate for the economy and for jobs in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board more than those of the next president.

David Linowes, protessor of public political economy at the University of Illinois, was also skeptical about promises made during the campaign does doesn't make much difference with the exception of some issues like foreign trade."

Dole and Clinton have few disagreements on trade Both supported the GATT and NAF-TA free-trade treaties and fought protectionist proposals by Reform Party candidate Ross Perot, who says such treaties, "export American jobs."

But most presidential decisions aren't as important as these made by industrial leaders within the web of interlocking producers, suppliers, purchasers and service providers that covers the world, Linowes said.

"Look at Japan," he said "It has collapsed politically, but economically, it has continued producing and exporting and giving jobs to people in Japan and abroad."

Bartlett said. "The big wild card is what each would do it we have a recession."

"A lot of employment ideas that don't attract people right now—a big tax cut, expansionary monetary policy a big jobs program—might become more attractive it that happens," he said. "But probably not."

Positions of 3 presidential hopefuls on jobs

PRESIDENT CLINTON. Democratic Party Maintain the steady growth of the economy, which supplies jobs, by avoiding big tax-cutting schemes. Create a skilled work force by increasing subsidies and tax incentives for education, keep the JOBS program, and reform, consolidate and adequately fund other tederal jeb-training programs. Help poor people survive in low paying jobs by spending more on child care and the earned income tax credit, and making regular increases in the minimum wage. Expand the concept of family leave to require employers to allow unpaid time off for PTA meetings and other non-emergency family nieetings. Mend, but don't end, affirmative action programs, because they help women and minorities advance in the job market. Support trade agreements such as the GATT and NAFTA treaties, because they help us and our trading partners to prosper.

BOB DOLE. Republican Party Stimulate the economy to create more jobs taster by adopting big tax cuts and the deregulatory and hability-law retorms that Clinton opposes. Increase spending on Califorma's job providing detense industries. Reduce tederal role in education, so states and localities can do it right. End the IOBs program, spend less on job training, and channel all the remaining funds to the states, which can do it better Help peor people find jobs by opposing a higher minimum wage, restraining the growth of the earned income tax credit and raising child-care spending gradually, as specified in the new welfare law Tolerate existing family leave laws, but don't expand them. Enforce anti-discrimination laws, but end afternative action programs, because they degenerate into quotas. Support trade agreements such as the GATI and NAFIA treaties, because they help us and our trading partners to prosper.

ROSS PEROT. Retorm Party Oppose trade agreements such as the GAFT and NAFTA treaties, because they export American jobs. Retorm campaign finance, so that candidates don't depend on the big contributors who demand expensive programs such as sugar subsidies and export subsidies. Eliminate $125 billion a year in tax breaks for corporations. Support the small businesses that create 80 percent of American jobs by ending all income-tax paperwork, health insurance retorms and regulatory policies.

I was shocked when I saw that ad, she said "But this is bigger than how I teel personally or what they can do to me personally. This is a public policy issue

Her statement set off strong reaction among other board members Vice Chairman Sonny Williamson of Okeechobee agreed with Boyd that the district doesn't have a plan laid out to spend the $900 million

Nathaniel Reed of Hobe Sound disagreed vehemently. He called Boyd's statement "misleading" and said she knows state and tederal agencies have been working for three years on further changes to the Everglades system that will make it one of the costliest repair jobs in American history

Board members Eugene Pettis of Fort Lauderdale and William Hammond of Fort Myers said they have conflicting teelings about the amendments, but were oftended by the sugar industry campaign

Get on the bus with Million Man marche

BY KALON HOPKINS Flambeau Writer

Spike Lee's new thick Get on the Bus about the Million Man March is a film odyssey into history His exploration into what drew masses of black men to Washington, D.C. to ask nothing of the city is a grassroots, hopeful, rings-around-theblue-collar view

GOTB begins 72 hours before the march, outside South Central LA's First AME Church, Lifteen men board a bus called the Spotted Owl, headed for the march as strangers. but emerge three days and thousands of miles later as brothers an estranged tather struggling to connect with his teenage son, an aspiring actor who is a trouble maker, a cop desperate to end the slaughter he sees on the streets of his city, a devout Muslim whose nightmares echo with the blast of guntire, an old man who has made an honest living but never truly lived, a tilm student who wants to capture it all on tape. and the bus driver whose job it is to get them from one side of the nation to the other When watching the film, movie tourists are carried to a heart-felt reality. Their mental luggage is stored in the Spotted Owl's cargo bay as the bus rolls into critical-time placement

The two issues covered by the script's in-depth, believable dialogue and Lee's directorial eve have never been addressed more compassionately and thoroughly on the silver screen. First, GOTB captures a combustion-tilled (no. not a flamboyant mockery) relationship between two well-spoken, highly educated, gay African-American men. Harry Lennix, who plays one of the homosexuals, feels that the story of the black gay community is as much apart of the march as any other and is worthy of representation. The second issue addressed is the comparison between the Atrican holocaust (the slave trade to the New World) and the lewish Holocaust. The film addressed the issue through tough, explosive dialogue, saving that historically and current ly American society has never owned up to the cultural raping and genocidal atrocity that happened to native Atrican people and African-American Caribbean descendants in this country. The ditter ence between the two monstrosities is that America forces us to learn about the tacts of the lewish Holocaust with an attachment of humanity, while it quietly keeps tacts of the African holocaust hidden, dispelling its humane attributes and its significance. The story behind the scenes is equally as dramatic as the one on the screen. Keeping with the spirit of the march, GOTB was not only produced and directed but tinanced by wealthy black men. At a minimum of six-figures, contributions were solicited from such celebrities as Wesley Snipes, Will Smith, Danny Glover and Jonnie Cochran

Spike Lee and 20 other actors including Ossie Davis, Charles Dutton, Isaiah Washington and Andre Braugher all worked for scale wages to keep the budget at an astonishing low $2.4 million

COTB was a need to-be made tilm. The manifestations of fee's evolution as a film director become visible as he shows his willingness to be vulnerable through his charac cinematography of panning and extreme close ups, he uses symbolism effectively to relay his messages about brotherhood and manhood

All the movie needs now is a Million Person Sit-in at movie theaters

Superchunk brings the heart of indie rock to the Cow Haus

BY BRANDON ARNOLD Staff writer

In the finicky world of independent music, tew bands can rival. Superchunk's track record of success and manage to maintain the level of integrity, which has kept the band in indie favor for nearly a decade.

Ionight, the Cow Haus welcomes this nearlegendary act to town with Ohio's Caunt, and Tallahassee's own post-punk mainstays, Frankentinger

From the very first single released on Merge, the mega-indiclabel founded and operated by guitarist, singer Mac McCaughan and bassist Laura Ballance, Superchunk's sound was unmistakable

McCaughan's distinct, pleasantly-strained vocals lay comfortably against a wall of power chords and hummable hooks provided by the joined forces of his guitar with that of Jim Wilbur Equally unmistakable is Superchunk's rhythm section of Ballance on bass and Jon Wurster on drums, whose driving thump acts as some sort of anti-gravitational device, forcing you to po-go with the beat like your life depends on it

Superchunk arose from the burgeoning Chapel Hill music scene in 1989, a few years before the American media turned its looking; glass toward the small, North Carolinian town as the "next big thing."

The seene in Chapel Hill was just like any other college town at that time "Wurster said Tuesday." There were a lot of great bands around. It just happened that some of those bands. Polvo and the Archers (of Loaf), began putting out albums around the same time in '92 or '93, and there was more national attention. It's prefix much the same as it ever was."

In the past seven years, the band has released a beyo of singles and compilation cuts, as well as a couple of EPs and seven full length albums on Merge and Matador Since its inception, Superchunk has transcended relative obscurity to become almost iconic by indie standards.

"It's great to see not only an increase in the number of people who come out to the shows, but also a lot more diversity." Said Wurster "It's nice to see different age groups in the audience. A few years ago it was mostly college kids, now we might have crowds ranging any where from 13-year-olds to older people with kids of their own. That's pretty cool."

Superchunk's music seems to be the perfect marriage of punk and pop, mixing dashes of past bands—from Husker Du to the Sex Pistols—in order to formulate an entire new equation for power-pop which continues to evolve. With recent releases such as 1943's Fieldsh and last year's Here's Where the Strings Come In, the band seems to be redefining their sound with unexpected explorations into a broader dynamic range.

Over the course of several years, you can't help but to get interested in some different things, said Wurster Mac's into a lot of jazz Histen to power pop Jim likes country and classical. It may not all seem to go together, but we all seem to tit somehow."

Touring with Superchunk is Columbus, Ohio's Gaunt, a rock in roll band. It has become popular for journalists to fall into the convention of lumping them in with the current new wave of punk bands because of their affinity for power chords, short songs, and volume But Gaunt's music is rock for rock's sake, music created out of the love tor what they do. "There are so few rock bands in America these days," said Jovan Karcic, guitarist for Gaunt, said "There are a lot of 'punk' bands, but not too many rock bands

Punk these days seems to be about image more than anything else. We just like playing."

"Posturing has become such a big part of what's considered punk rock these days," said lerry Wick, singer/guidratst "Everyone seems to be pandering to some set of guidelines that sells records, and there's just no integrity in that I don't know it a lot of those bands respect their audience. We just have to be honest, and play what teels right."

What you hear on record is exactly what you get from Gaunt, simple and straight to the point. The material for Yeah, me too an album released late last year on the Amphetimine Reptile label, was written in one evening. Their latest album, Kruptonte has a similar spontaneous feel and was recorded in one week.

In the studio with us, it's very spontaneous, Wick said. We'll use whatever we find in the studio at the time—a harpsichord whatever works.

Frankenfinger is a band which has weathered many phases of the Tallahassee music scene in various incarnations

Original members, singer/guitarist Drew Watson, and singer/bassist Kathy Denton have been creating Frankenfinger's warped vision of post-punk, sing-a-long songs for some four years now, and have recently initiated Brent McNeal to continue the Frankenfinger saga.

McNeal is the band's third drummer following the second departure of Ron Matus. Frankenfinger's original drummer (the actual chronology is Matus-Woody Compton-Matus-McNeal), and has been with the band since April With the new line-up came a new direction in sound for Frankenfinger. No longer pummeling you with a sensory overload of verbiage and sonic intensity, the new Frankenfinger opts for a different sort of intensity it penetrates you unexpectedly, like a drug, attacking slowly and clouding your perception.

The music ebbs and flows with a disjointed continuity that comes in waves. Naturally, one wonders how much influence the new drummer had in this change.

"We had been moving in that direction for a while anyway." Denton said Monday. "That's one of the reasons it didn't work out with Ron. He wanted to play tast all the time."

Look forward to the upcoming release of a Frankentinger CD EP featuring four new songs and a new version of one of the band's standards. Minuet," with McNeal. It will be called 40 Hour Sea, and a release party in early November will kick off a two-week tour which will take them up the East coast.

Superchunk, Gaunt, and Frankenfinger will play the Cow Haus tonight with Frankenfinger kicking off the show around 9 p.m. The show is 18-plus, unless accompanied by a parent or guardian. The cover is $8 at the door, Call 425-COWS.

The Jon Spencer Blues Explosion — turnously until songs came out Now I Got Worry (Matador Records)

Comparing Jon Spencer's great new album New I Got Worry to his about the ISBF and plays with them. 1994 breakthrough Orange is a little like comparing apples and , well, you get the idea

Orange combined Spencer's trademark sound of noise-rock with traditional R&B erooves into one of the loudest, scratchiest funk-rock records ever But where that album took his music a step torward. Now I Get Worry leaps two steps back.

Spencer has dug deep into his repertoire, to the days of his seminal art-punk band Pussy Galore when the sole goal was to deconstruct rock by pounding out-of-tune guitars

The same theory seems to apply to Noo I Got Worry, on which Spencer takes all the preconceptions

kind of demonic words. 1" k sh't Up as one song is so aptly named

The new songs shoot straight tor the darker part of the soul, tull of low growls.

guitar shrieks, and tons of feedback And if all the din didn't make it hard enough to understand what he's say ing, he distorts his vocals half the time. In short, it's a hell of a lot like old Pussy Galore. It's as it he's trying to relive his past or attempting to prove something to all his old band mates. Fither way the album is a volatile mix, a Molotov chiicked at your cars

Spencer still shows a sense of humor (Dynamite Lover' or 2 kinds of Love) and a stylish tlair (RI Got Soul), but mostly this album is about going back to the basics, but it's a trip worth taking - Eric Buscher

Allen Ginsberg - The Ballad of the Skeletons (Mercury)

Beat poet Allen Cansberg has made recording an important part of his work for many years. This time he's teamed up with some heavy hit ters, including Paul McCartney (guitar, drums, organ). Philip Glass (prano), and guitarist Mare Ribot. best known for his work with long Waits Frustratingly, this disc is only 22 minutes long, and only has two songs on it. The Ballad of the Skeletons comes with a couple of alter nate versions that have been shorted and sanitized, presumably for radio The result is a powerful line being altered to the meaningless. Said the newscast skeleton. Muck you in the This self censorship is ironic, considering Ginsberg has been an outspoken opponent of restrictions on treedom of speech straight forward rocker. Ginsberg doesn't really sing or rap, but into his poem with enthusiasm and rhythmic energy appropriate to the setting The text focuses critically on the pow ers that be, but the group's delivery makes it sound more optimistic than it might read on paper. Ginsberg does sing on Amazing Grace, but with his own lyines that bring out the human side of homelessness. As ever his voice is rich and warm, sounding retreshingly more like somebody's Uncle Al than like a seasoned singer This one's quieter, less raucous. The band plays simply, letting Ginsberg's words sink down deep. At 70, this wildly important literary figure is still doing vibrant work, and the players in this group are fun to hear in this context (Philip Glass still sounds like Philip Glass), but it's too bad this isn't a tull-length recording

New York Times Special Feature

You couldn't help staring Dressed completely in black, her eyes outlined with black, a pentagram dangled from a chain, her presence demanded attention. No, this wasn't Hollywood. It was a small New England town Standing new to me in the grocery check-out line stood Ladrie Cabot, the official witch of Salem, Mass, Admittedly disconcerted by the woman in black. I telt a twinge of tear. Every Halloween we are contronted by witches. Ugly hags, powerful and evid, handmaids of the devil. Few images are so trightening, few are so completely wrong.

Until the Christianization of Europe, the Old Religion, with its goddesses and gods, marked cycles of time and fertility. Wise women—heal ers, midwives and counselors—practiced magic and folk arts of ancient earth-based spiritualities Even as people converted to Christianity, they blended these old mysteries with the new beliefs.

Male cleries, however, eventually redefined tolk practices as Satan's work or witchcraft. In 1484, Pope Innocent III sanctioned witch honting. Iwo years later, two Dominican inquisitors published the Malleus Malleticarum ("Hammer of Witches") as an instruction book for zealous Christians to aid the cause. An instant bestseller the Malleus argued that women were more susceptible to the Devil's wiles than men. By nature, women were teeble-minded, morally and sexually lax inclined to lie, weak in faith, and prone to evil. Cleries and medical doctors identified women's ancient arts.—contraception, abortion, birthing, healing.—as witch's work.

Although reliable numbers are difficult to discern, some scholars estimate that from the 15th to 15th centuries, some two million people were executed for witcheraft —80 percent of them women. During the burning times, the church terrorized women suspected of practicing the old religions. In 1585, in the Bishopric of Tree the entire temale population was murdered. Ancient beliefs died by barassment inquisition forture and execution.

In the midst of this violence, the church threatened by the rival female spiritual power constructed the modern image of the witch a misogynist image haunting our culture still Once before the burning times, people revered old winten wise women—witches—as healers and givers of the Now they are bags.

On Halloween some Christian women commemorate the burning times in what theologian Rosemary Ruether calls a remembrance of the holocaust of women. After recriting a litary of women executed as witches participants pray. We weep for them. We do not torget them. As we remember them, we dedicate ourselves to making a new world where we and our daughters can live tree. Other women, however, have rejected traditional religion completely and embraced revital ized forms of the old ways—now referred to as wicca, goddess worship or neo-pagamism.

The re-emergence of witchcraft as a serious religious practice coincided with contemporary feminism. Many women believe Christianity and Judaism to be hopelessly patriarchal and, not sur prisingly, violently oppressive to women. Thus, many well-educated, urban protessional women have turned to the Goddess as an alternate source for spirituality.

According to modern witches," the craft is not a pact with the devil (and not to be confused with Satamism a separate behel) Rather it is a set of ritual practices aimed at healing as one connects with the universe — related to other pre Christian behelvs found in tribal religions around the world. Halloween, or Samhain, is one of witcheraft's most important ritual lestivals. It is the witches. New Year, the time when the veil dividing the world of the living and the dead is thin. At this time the witches spiral dance celebrates death, ferfility, and renewal.

At Halloween von won't find this Episcopalian dancing the enchanted circle. But I no longer fear witches Rather I tear the witch hunt – the real work of the Devil

Fifth straight for Lady Seminoles

BY JULIE WAID Staff Writer

In what would best be described as a comedy of errors, the Florida State volleyball team sailed past the Jacksonville Dolphins Tuesday night in a three-game match before a crowd of 103 at Tully Gym

The victory (15-3, 16-14, 15-2) was the fifth match win in a row for the Lady Seminoles (9-14 overall, 5-7 in Atlantic Coast Conterence), who have deteated both the University of North Carolina and North Carolina State twice in the last two weeks

Lady Seminoles rallied and quickly pulled ahead, 7.2. The Dolphins would not score again the rest of the game, and their detense was no match for Schneider, Arnold and Sarah Rickertsen, who blasted the Lady Seminoles to a 13-2 lead.

A block from Diamond and Mau reen McCarthy had FSU ready to kill for the game point, but in keeping to the error-filled trend of the evening. a final mistake from JU gave the Lady Seminoles the win, 15-2

Their blocks were pretty tough but their middle (hitters) were usually late, so our (outside) hitters were able to find the holes," said Arnold

TENNIS

The Florida State women's tennis team slipped one notch off of last year's pace, as they placed No 36 this week nationally.

Lori Sowell, who jumped two spots to No 22 nationally on an individual level, headlines the Lady Seminole team. Sowell teams with Ann Olsson to form the seventeenth best doubles team in the nation

The ISU men's team also placed in the top 50 for the week, just two votes behind Texas Tech for the No 41 spot Unlike the women, though, the men's ranking has been a total team ettort. as no Seminole man placed in the top 100 and no Seminole tandem hit the

The statistics gathered during a curvey of 384 registered voters shows the Democratic incumbent with a commanding lead over COP challenger Bob Dole who trails Clinten by a 25-certesti margin

Everybody said the morals of a candidate had a great deal to do with who they would vote for said Michael Abrams, professor of jour nalism at FAMU

I wonder about that because Clinton has been criticized as a person who doesn't have the highest moral standards he added. Yet people are still willing to vote Democratic

According to the poll more than 70 percent surveyed said Gen Colin Powell would have made a stronger candidate than Dole who only appealed to 2 percent of blacks contacted Abrams said he was surprised that Dole didn't receive high marks from Leon County's black community.

Beyond Borders is a university exchange program that provides opportunities for students to engage in intensive, short-term intercultural experiences while performing community service in an international setting. FSU currently enjoys exchanges with the University of Costa Rica Atlantic Branch in Costa Rica, and the University of the West Indies in Jamaica. Local hosts provide housing and most meals at no cost, which keeps participant fees low. All FSU students are eligible to apply, groups will be limited to 10 - 12 people. Deadline for applications is January 15, 1997.

The current tee is as 11 per cledit hour with 85 percent of the mones going to the Thagard Student Health Center and 15 percent set aside for the Student Counseling Center the new tee which would go into effect for the 1997-98 school year Seventeen cents of the increase would be spent on the health center and the other three cents would go to the counseling center

The tee will ruse $150,000 next

The debate which erupted at the committee meeting Wednesday wasn't about whether the tee was necessary or not but rather the amount of time students were given to consider the tee before it was implemented

Voting against the fee was speaker of the Congress of Graduate Students Anne Holt substituting for committee member Adam Kelly and undergraduate student Spiceda

Daly said she agreed but that students haven t been trying to contact the health center to express their oncern over the fee despite letters. thers and other attempts to notify students of the fee proposal.

Lagree with what the students said, and we want them to have time because it's their money. Daly said But it they really had some questions why didn't they call us with the question. We pound to address their questions

Daly said the reason she pushed for the fee was because there isn't than 50 000 students who attend ISL She added that one third of the health center's turiding comes from tees cellected after services have already been rendered, and the other two thirds have to be taken from

Holt said the committee's decision was predetermined before stirdents came to the torum

Pretty much what happened was that the committee gave (students) an hour to vent and then voted for the preposal anyway. Holt

Those that showed up to speak out against the fee included student body president Liza Park, student senate president Ed Dandrow and tormer student senate president Rich Templin

Dalton said that while he didn't lobby for the fee increase, he does recognize the health and counseling center's need for more money

Nel Aspinal carves a new path with The Romans' Map to Heaven

Staff Writer

In a local music scene that has oterally exploded in the past year and a halt. Nel Aspinal has stayed aloft to remain one of the best bands in town

New bands keep torming more and more bands have hit the road til tilur and new seven-inches and CD's keep popping up from Tallahassee's prolitic musicians Only last month, ska-meisters Baccone Dolce released their first CD distributed by Moon Records in New

New it's Nel Aspinal's turn to shine with a new CD. The Rimans Map to Heaven, and plans for fouring this Desember To kick it all eff, they ll be playing a CD release party Friday night at the Cow Haus

The CD, which has been awaited with great anticipation by local music lovers, should stop the comparisons made between Nel Aspinal's sound and Pavement's Though there are some small similarities between the two. like abstract lynes. Nel Aspinal has its own distinct sound slow-churning beautifully constructed pop with rust a touch of that fuzzy feedback sound

"I m very happy with the CD, said singer guitarist Chad Laird on Tuesday. It took us almost a year to record, because we would only do bits and pieces at a time. We just tilled up a tape gradually, recording as we were writing songs This haphazard stopping and starting had the positive effect of making the new CD a virtual road map to the evolution of the band after drummer Tommy Hamilton - who is the master mind at Georgia Street Studios - became a part of Nel Aspinal

It has tracks from right after I joined the band up to this past summer So it covers a whole year and a half " said Hamilton, who also produced the album. I think it is a good representation of who we are and the whole range we've played

The band began back in 1993 when Laird and tellow singer guitarist Curt McNeal began jamming together with various drammers. Tim Stover stepped in to play with them for their first show and staved with the band until Fall 1994. when he lett to concentrate on school

Hamilton, best known for playing guitar with the legendary local band Gruel, took over the position of drummer and his style created a tighter sound for the band.

I think Tomms's more tocused "Laird said "For Tim. drumming comes very naturally and what he did was really good But Tommy's a little more solid.

For Hamilton, playing drums for the band is a differ ent experience from Gruel, but a very satisfying one

There is no comparison between the two bands." Hamilton said. "I couldn't compare the two. I wouldn t know how. I enjoy playing with Nel Aspinal a lot more. There is a lot less pressure on me because I don't have to write all the songs

The last release from Nel Aspinal, the "Palace at Split" part of a split seven-inch with Bacon Ray that came out this summer is a remarkable example of how the trio has escalated into a formidable force to be reckoned with "Palace" immediately becomes ingrained in the listener's head, with the perfect guitar hook to pull you into its rolling melody. Laird's voice carrying it forward as it ambles. As a prelude to the CD to come, it left tans

McNeal and Laird split songwriting duties for the band with Hamilton contributing a few songs along the way For the pair, this means taking turns on guitar and vocals, while the other plays bass

"We switch once during the show." Laird said. "One of us does a little set, then the other one does. It's just easier this way rather than teaching each other the chords

In some bands sharing the trontman position could be a source of tension. But that's not the case with Nel Aspinal.

It seems like it could get in the way, but it never does McNeal said. There isn't an ego thing at all. We both like each other's ideas and like their songs, and they like my songs Plans are in the works for a tour up the east coast in Decem-

Wind your way through 621's Armageddon

BY KALON HOPKINS Staff Writer

The rebirth of Armageddon will emerge at the 621 gallers at Rail road Square Industrial Park tonight

"The show is an embedded tradition in the local arts community. It is a show that will build itself," said Anthony Quickle, 621. Gallery's director

The 17th Annual Next to-the-Last Armageddon Art Show will primarily be visual art, but performance artists - poets, dancers musicians, writers and actors - have been encouraged to come out and participate. The Halloween show about the post-apix als pse and the manifestations of life over death will be viewed in the dark. beginning when the sun dips down below the horizon. The only light to see by will shine from flashlights brought by onlookers

The show is a showcase of the end of the world through the artists eves and the intertwining of death and life " said Jacquelin Amantia, who serves on 621 Gallery's board of directors. "But the show will also offer an opportunity of rebirth. life

The unusual event will begin purposely dark, taking the viewer on a mind-warping voyeur like experience. The viewing will be more about perception and tocal points because of the darkness and the psychological awareness about the confines of the gallery

As you weave your way through the art, you never know what might be around the corner. Amantia said. You never see the art until you shine your flashlight on it because a big surprise could be waiting around the corner. The art that will be found in the dark at 621 tonight is mysteriously refreshing because of its variety

bos and Placentas" cryptically draws you into a shadow-like pic ture of a vellow-and-black pastel of an impregnated woman with a swollen womb. From her torso, a tree-like image is inter-grown. Venomously entangled around the branches, a serpent waits, prone tor attack. In the lower left corner, a court jester fitted in his comedic attire devilishly smiles as he holds on to a scythe murderously confident. Lightly scrolled at the top and bottom in vellow pastel is the phrase, "Behind the Navel" The largest piece is a combination of teve Banks's Masks, and Julie Broody's. Angry Young Man. The piece is an impression of a platinum-colored man hanging, perhaps lifelessly, on the cross. Just above the head of the impression on the cross is a red male-teatured image of a king wearing a sterling crown. From the contours of the painting there is a definite linkage between the image being crucified on the cross and the king. Surrounding the picture are the multi-media masks of Steve Banks These masks are tittingly constructed from what some people would consider trash old coupons broken pieces of wood, newspaper scraps of sheet metal and used tire inter-tube

Bring your flashlight to 621 Gallery's 17th Annual Next to the Last Armageddon Art Show tonight. It lasts from sundown until 11 n.m. Call 224-6163 for more.

Chinese court find dissident guilty, sentences him to 11 years

BY PATRICK E TYLER

New York Times News Service

BEIING — A Chinese court on Wednesday convicted the dissident wang Dan of plotting to overthrow the government and sentenced him to 11 years in prison among the harshest sentences given to any of the student leaders of the 1989 democracy movement at Fiananmen

The official New China News Agency said Wang 2" was convicted in a public trial of conspiring to subvert the government

repelled news reporters as well as triends and onleokers of Wang's from approaching the Beining No. 1 Intermediate People's Courthouse in western Beijing, site of the trial

Family members and some Chinese journalists from the state-controlled news media apparently wit pessed the trial

Prior to the start of the proceedings. Wang's parents had appealed for international pressure on the government to releat. He is definitely innecent. Wang Namzeng, Wang's tather, told Keuters on Wednesday mortime. Speech cannot overthow

the covernment

A number of human rights organizations. Nobel Peace Prize laure ates, 120 members of the Furopean Parhament and a number of governments, including the United States, had called on China for reconsider its decision to bring charges against Wang after holding him in secret detention for 17 months.

But China went forward detiantly though American otticials sand the trial was delayed by several days due to the presence in Bening of a delegation from the White House and the State Department working on how to improve relations between China and the United States it President Clinton wins a second term

Wang's mother who assigned herself as one of her son s'affornevs so she could see him after 1 months of separation reported that he appeared to be weak and in posoi health. Her observation comes at a time of increasing concern about China's freatment of political prison ers, who are reported to be subjected to psychological pressure campangus by jarlers to break their spurit.

China's best known dissident. Wei lingsheing with whom Wang is accused et conspuring, has recently been reported under torment from six other immates who have been put in his cell. The cell was left imbeated last writter and the lights are on. 24 hours a day tainly members said.

The court found that after Wang was released from a four year purson term in 1992, he has written afticles and published them in overseas newspapers and magazines and distributed them in China to mold public opinion and subvert the government. Among the essays was one contributed to The New York Time Op 13d page in 1993.

Pope to visit Cuba

MENICOCHY - Americally

with President Fidel Castro the Vattean's foreign minister announced Tuesday that preparations would begin for the first visit by Pope John Paul II to Cuba a Communist ruled nation where priests were once sent to re-education camps, and where no open-air Mass has been held for Aithough no date has been set tor the pope's trip Archbishop lean-Louis Tauran, the highest-ranking Vatican official to visit Cuba since Castro seized power in 1959 told reporters in Havana at the end of a tive-day visit. We have agreed that soon the relevant arrangements will be made for this pastoral visit to take

Castro issued an invitation for the pope to visit Cuba in the late Iwak but Reman Cathellie Church officials never believed he was serieus because the government tailed to take the necessary steps to prepare tor the trup.

Cuban Foreign Minister Roberto Robaina, asked about a date tor the papal visit told reporters at Havana a sport where he was see FR ett the Vickan diplomat that it was prema ture to discuss the timing was hapticed, educated and married within the Catholic Church is expected to extend the invitation to the pope personally when he visits Rome next month to attend a summit organized by the UN Fixed and Agriculture Organization

and the state in Cuba Archbishop Tauran said

Cuba is the only Spanish-speak ing nation in Latin America to elude the peripatetic pope

Many diplomats and observers in Havana believe that Castro has been seeking the papal visit to boost his 3"-year hold on power and to add legitimacy to the government's recent efforts to bridge relations with the Catholic Church

Argentine stocks mixed as Mexican peso decline dampens spirits

BLENCE AIRES Chr 30 Bloomberg1 -Argentine stocks closed mixed as optimism over the country's economic prospects was dampened by a decline in the Mexican peso

The drop in the peso took the wind out of the market's sails said Hugo Dias Lourenco, an equity strategist at consulting firm C&F Consultores But there was still selective buying of stocks that should benefit from an upturn in economic activity

The Merval index of the 29 mosttraded stocks rose 0.01 percent to 570 23 while the general index fell 0.2 percent to le 7th 83 perces

Of the is issues that were traded 21 rose 22 declined and 25 closed unchanged. Volume tell to 13.3 million pesos ($13.3 million) of shares from 21.4 million pesos vesterday

Among stocks widely traded abroad telephone company Teletonica de Argentina SA tell 0 42 percent to 2.32 pesos while Telecom Argentina Stet-France Telecom SA another phone company dropped I percent to 3 73 pesos Oil producer 1 PF SA. which is Argentina's biggest company tell 0.64 percent to 22.95 pescs

Today's decline in the Mexican peso to a record low against the US dollar caused concern among some investors who recalled how Mexico's decision to devalue its currency in ate 1994 plunged Argentina into a year long recession said Dias

Others took heart from indications the economy continues to pull out of recession and bought shares in companies that should benefit from an upturn in consumer spending sard Dias Lourenco. Among these tootwear and textile company Alpargatas Saic added 0.76 percent to 0.66 pesos and car maker Sevel Argentina SA gained Le percent to 246 peses Tobacco tirm Vobleza Piccar do a unit of Britain's BAT Industries Plc rose $3 percent to 35 pesos while cookie and cracker company Bagley SA which is majority owned by France's Groupe Danone SA rose 4 o percent to 2.25 pesos

Because of state and local regulations, your household waste is divided into categories that are picked up by different trucks and disposed of differently. If you're a City of Tallahassee solid waste customer, you need to separate your waste into the following categories for collection.

GARBAGE

in your garbage can o dumpeter. Bags of non hazardous househour waste such as food & kitchen waste packaging foil diapers car litter plastic bags, plas tic bottles not accepted for recycling

RECYCLABLES

In brown paper bags newspapers, made zines, ostarogs, sura mail, office paper cereal boxes, shoe boxes. In the bin. empty cans, glass bottles & jars, and plastic beverage bottles (milk, juice, water & soda). No other plastics. No pizza or wax-coated boxes. Most apartment com plexes have a recycling center for these terns. Use paper bags to hold items eashers, dryers, refing erators (doors removed). water heaters, stoves, air conditioners. Managers of apartment complexes have to request special collection of these terms

lamps, bikes, lawn chars rwingsets plastic pools. TVs. Managers of apart ment complexes have to request special collection of these sems

YARD WASTE

In trash bags or small boxes. Vegetative matter such as leaves, pine straw & grass clippings. Stack small nbs (6 feet long, 4 inches in diameter). Managers of apartment complexes have to request special collection of these items.

For City customers with residential service, garbage is collected twice a week, recyclables once a week, yard waste (like leaves and small limbs) twice a month, bulky items (like furniture) twice a month, and appliances twice a month. Set them out by 6:30 a.m. on your scheduled collection days, within three feet of the curb and 10 feet away from obstacles. Call us if you don't know your schedule. Keep piles of yard waste, bulky items and appliances at least four feet apart from each other.

Georgia Bulldogs' secondary preparing for nation's top passer, receivers

(1996 Car Vetes Service

ATHENS Ga Champ Bailey says he approaches every game the same but you can tell be s blutting Saturday «Georgia Horida game is not just another date on the schedule

All games look the same to me tace. I can see it's a big challenge. the Bulldogs detensive back said. I can test my abilities

For Georgia to have any chance against the No. 1-ranked team in the nation, the true treshman from Folk ston and his comrades in the secondary have to play to the top of their abilities and hope Florida quaterback Danny Wuerttel has an off

Roland Champ Balley whose brother junior Ronald Bailey starts at short side cornerback will be an important part of the plan

He has played a lot in his first season getting significant playing time as the backup wide-side cornerback behind Glenn Ford. His role in nick cl and dime pass detenses has increased since termer starting strong salety Irex sipe sprained his

Bailey also plays on both punt Jean's the kirkett team and the field praying a flind cornerback in the dom. Ballet plays mostly a safety specially probably will be his key six determine backs much of the time

Why play such a good cover man

The answers birst Sims is a converted cornerback with better coverskills than most safeties. More important Bailey is very young 18 and covering Horida's receivers is heady stutt

Besides because Bailey is one of the tastest players on the team-secondary coach Creg Williams wants his speed (4.1 seconds in the 40-vard) dash) at the back of the detense against the nation's sixth-ranked passing attack

The Gators have completed so passes tor "Ovards in what Georgia coaches consider the three deep ones No detense is likely to shut down Horida's passing attack which works very well for several reasons including Wiertfel. At times he's so accurate a detensive back can do his job and still get beaten (Wherttel) has great are on his ball Williams said. When the (receivers) come out of their cuts, the ball is in the air, and they accelerate to it they separate to the ball. And they make a lot of catches with guys

They match that up with throw ing to the right patterns. They don't just run toutes, they run the right well coached they have good ath letes and they play hard.

Barley teels up to the task

The Gators' probably have the two best receivers in the country (in Tke Hilliard and Reidel Anthony) he said. I m very contident in inv abilities. I feel like nobody can run all over me. I'll give anybody a chal-

games after a loss to Miami, Hamile ton's tirst attempt against the Semi noles comes two games after a loss to Clemson and two games after a Seminole win over the Hurricanes

All that aside Georgia Tech (5-2 overall, 4.2 in the Atlantic Coast Conference) will need a Ward-like game from Hamilton and more it its going to have a shot at upsetting No 3151

GT's best weapon, historically has been running the tootball. This year is no different C1 Williams is rested from a week off as he sat out of last week's tilt with Central Herida Hamilton also watched from the bench as his back-up, sophomore Brandon Shaw led the lackets to a 27 20 win But Williams is averaging almost a vard less per carry this year

At that pace against a Seminole front seven which yields less than two yards per carry even atter like Barber's 151 yard onting the prospects of a CI win look less and in thele

Since Ward's magic show in 1992 the series has been all USU as the Seminoles have outscored GI 134-20 in the past three games including last year s 42-10 romp of the Kambling Wresk

Detensively look for GT head coach George Oleans to employ much the same tactics he used last year despite their complete tailure

Thad Busby though coming off a performance that saw him named ACC offensive back of the week is still considered less a threat than tailback Warrick Dunn

O Leary stacked eight men on the line last year forcing then quarterback Danny Kanell to throw Kanell answered the call with a record breaking 41 of 51 passing for 302 yards and four fouchdowns Dunn ran for only ody ands

The Seminoles won that game because Kanell played patiently. The detense stopped Williams (31 yards). and Busby can expect much of the same support

It Busby takes what the detense offers him this year as Kanell did last year, he can expect the same results
